New York, July 27 [Friday]—(AP)—A Japanese Domei news agency broadcast reported the British-American-Chinese ultimatum to Japan today in these words:

"A proclamation was issued in Potsdam yesterday in the name of Churchill, Truman, and Chiang Kai-shek calling upon the Japanese to announce unconditional surrender or see their homeland destroyed, Reuters reports from Potsdam. Stalin's name was conspicuous by its absence in the proclamation."

POTSDAM, Germany, July 26 (AP)—The United States, Britain and China tonight demanded in an ultimatum that Japan immediately surrender unconditionally or undergo "prompt and utter destruction."

President Truman, Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek and retiring Prime Minister Churchill asserted they "have conferred and agreed that Japan shall be given the opportunity to end this war." Truman and Churchill drew up the document, and Chiang quickly concurred when it was submitted to him.

Will Occupy Japan

Their proclamation follows:

"1. We, the President of the United States, the president of the national government of the republic of China, and the prime minister of Great Britain, representing the hundreds of millions of our countrymen, have conferred and agreed that Japan shall be given the opportunity to end this war.

"2. The prodigious land, sea, and air forces of the United States, the British empire, and China, many times reënforced by their armies and air fleets from the west, are poised to strike the final blow at Japan. This military power is sustained and inspired by the determination of all allied nations to prosecute the war against Japan until she ceases to resist.

"3. The result of the futile and senseless German resistance to the might of the aroused free peoples of the world stands forth in awful clarity as an example to the people of Japan.

Means Utter Devastation

"The might that now converges on Japan is immeasurably greater than that which, when applied to the resisting nazis, necessarily laid waste to the land, the industry and the method of life of the whole German people.

"The full application of our military power, backed by our resolve, will [underscored] mean the inevitable and complete destruction of the Japanese armed forces and just as inevitably the utter devastation of the Japanese homeland.

"4. The time has come for Japan to decide whether she will continue to be controled by these self-willed militaristic advisors whose unintelligent calculations have brought the

WARNS STRIKES PERIL ATTACKS BY SUPER FORTS

Acting Secretary of War Patterson issued a warning in Washington, D. C., last night that the strike of more than 20,000 union workers at the huge Dodge Chicago plant and of 30,000 other workers in New Jersey—all engaged in the manufacture of Super Fortress engines or parts—threatens to cripple American air attacks on Japan.

204

The Chrysler corporation's Dodge plant, at 74th st. and Cicero av., was "practically closed," in the words of company officials by the 204th work stoppage since May, 1944. Production of the vitally needed bomber engines was at a standstill. The same conditions prevailed at five Wright Aeronautical corporation plants at and near Paterson, N. J. The nation's strike idle at major plants totaled 88,000 yesterday.

Engine Supply Short

War Secretary Patterson said:

"These two plants manufacture four-fifths of all B-29 engines. The supply of those engines is so short that the B-29 attacks on Japan will be reduced within a matter of days if these strikes continue."

Robert Wright, president of local 274 of the United Automobile Workers of America [CIO] whose members are on strike at the Dodge plant, replied to Patterson's statement with a charge that the company has refused to negotiate grievances. He asked the acting war secretary to send telegrams to both the company and the union to discuss their differences.

"When it is possible the men will return to work," Wright said.

It is probable that Secretary Patterson's message will be discussed at a mass meeting of strikers at 63d st. and Pulaski rd. at 10 a. m. today. At a mass meeting in the same field yesterday, approximately 4,000 strikers jeered pleas to return to jobs.

"It's Your Responsibility"

At the same time they heard Jesse E. Jacobson, a federal labor conciliation service commissioner, say, "I'll not get down on my hands and knees to beg any American citizen to do the lawful and orderly thing. I'll not even ask you to return, because that's your responsibility as American citizens. You cannot win and can gain nothing from a work stoppage in war time."

A conference of union and company representatives later in the day failed to halt the strike. The company declined to consider the grievances unless the strike were called off and the men returned to work. A union spokesman said later that the men would not respond to the demand.

Union Tells Its Grievances

The company has said the strike was motivated by refusal to allow the men 15 minutes from work time to wash up. The union denied this and charged that in some sections there are as few as seven wash basins for 300 men. The strike, declared Richard J. McNeely, public relations man for the union, was the result of two and one-half years of accumulated grievances.

The union charged that seniority rules are being violated, that verbal agreements between superintendents and union officials were violated by the company, that Miss Lanny Ward, second vice president of the union, was fired illegally, and that one worker was laid off because he went to court in response to a subpena.

The union demands that superintendent-union agreements be honored; that disciplinary layoffs be subject to bargaining before enforcement; that Miss Ward be reinstated; that union leaders shall not be discriminated against; that distribution of union printed matter be permitted in the shops, and that seniority and other benefit rules be observed.

Green in Veto Terms Circle Voting Tricky

BY GEORGE TAGGE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Springfield, Ill., July 26—Gov. Green today vetoed the "party circle" bills, condemning as "tricky" this proposed method of obtaining voters' approval of the so-called gateway amendment to the Illinois constitution in the 1946 general election.

Under the "party circle" plan, a political party in state convention could indorse the gateway amendment, causing it to be printed at the foot of the ballot under the party column. Then all straight votes of this party would be counted in favor of the constitutional change.

Four times in past years voters have failed to approve the gateway amendment under the constitutional requirement that it receive a majority of all votes cast in an election, rather than merely a majority of those voting on the proposition.

Way to Easier Changes

The 1946 gateway proposal not only would permit amendment of three articles instead of one at a single election, but also would make possible ratification of later amendments by two-thirds of those voting on the proposition. The "gateway amendment" got its name because, figuratively speaking, it would open the gate to easier amendment of the constitution.

Gov. Green's veto message, like the opinion he received from Atty. Gen. George F. Barrett, employed an historical basis for disapproving the plan.

"Were this act to become effective, many voting the party circle would do so without realizing that they were casting a vote for or against a constitutional proposal," Green's veto message stated.

Better to Move Slowly

"It is an unusual, new, and tricky method of securing the approval of a constitutional amendment.

"I believe that amending our constitution is a solemn matter and should be done by the electorate with a full realization of what they are doing. Our state has progressed amazingly under our present constitution, and while there are changes which would be desirable, it is better to proceed slowly in making such changes than to obtain them by indirection and subterfuge."

Altho proponents of the "party circle" plan contended that this method could not be applied to any future amendment, Gov. Green declared that this statement was "open to serious question."

FOUR FREEDOMS FOR INDIANS OF AMERICAS DEMANDED AT PARLEY

MEXICO CITY, July 26 (AP)—A square deal for the Indian in the American nations was asked today at the second assembly of the Inter-American social security committee. Benjamin Garrion, Ecuador, asked the assembly to study the problem of oppression of the Indian.

"In at least 10 countries of America the greater percentage of the population is indigenous," he said. "I am not satisfied with the past, but I have faith that in the future the four freedoms that President Roosevelt proclaimed will apply to the Indian, too."

BEAVERBROOK'S 'VICTORY LUNCH' TRIFLE PREVIOUS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, July 26—Publisher Beaverbrook, major domo of the Conservative party's campaign, today gave a slightly premature "victory luncheon" at Claridge's hotel.

As the early returns showed a steadily mounting Labor majority, "the Beaver" and his guests—the staff of Britain's biggest newspaper, the London Daily Express—grew unhappy.

After coffee, when the result of the election had become obvious, Beaverbrook raised his glass and proposed a toast: "This is the last supper," he said.

It's a Horse on Trio When Sheriff's Thru

When Robert Coveny, 16, of 1121 Waverly pl., Joliet, went out to the pasture back of his home yesterday to give his horse, Pal, a pan of oats, the boy stopped in his tracks.

Veterinarian Tells Danger

Mrs. Coveny got close enough to Pal to whiff the odor of lacquer. A veterinarian informed Mrs. Coveny that the coat of lacquer could injure the horse, by closing its pores. Sheriff Ralph H. Newkirk promised to seize the painters.

Three Young Men Tell Why

Within a couple of hours three neighbor youths with traces of red lacquer on their hands were arraigned before Justice of the Peace John P. Egan on charges of cruelty to animals.

"Why did you do it?" Justice Egan asked Daniel Lamping, 17; Jackie Tezak, 16, and his brother, Leroy, 17.

"Well, we found the paint first. Then the horse. The two just naturally seemed to go together," they said.

But it wasn't such fun for the Covenys. They worked all day with rags, brushes, and paint remover delacquering Pal. On Aug. 6 they will hear what the young men have to say in court.

LABORITES RULE BRITAIN; NEW CHIEF CHEERED AS HE CRIES: 'BEAT TOKYO'

LONDON, July 26 (AP)—Joyous leaders of British labor, flushed with their greatest political victory, celebrated tonight with an exuberant rally in the smoke laden atmosphere of Westminster's Central hall.

Thrilled party workers leaped onto their chairs, shouting, cheering, whistling, and clanging cowbells as they acknowledged the appearances and speeches of their leaders.

The hall seemed about to burst open when Clement R. Attlee, prime minister-designate, said in a voice resonant with pride:

"We Want Clem!"

Admittance to the hall, normally seating about 2,500, was by card only, but as many labor followers thronged outside the building. Those outside chanted, "We want Clem" and "We want Attlee" until the new prime minister came to a balcony to address them briefly.

Prof. Harold Laski, political scientist and chairman of the party's executive committee, received the first big ovation when he said, "This great victory for socialism will bring a message of hope to every democracy all over the world."

Friendship for Russia

Amid cheers, Laski asserted the new government will enter into "full friendship with the soviet union, be in a position to do full justice to our Spanish comrades, and will give no help to decaying monarchs or obsolete social systems."

When the new prime minister came onto the stage he was accompanied by his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Bevin and Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Morrison.

Tracing the history of the British labor movement, Attlee emphasized "this is the first time in the history of the country that a labor movement with a socialist policy has received the approval of the electorate."

"Finish the War"

Then he set off a new demonstration with a declaration that "our first task is to finish the war with Japan." He added the pledge of his government would be "to see that our fighting men get all the support they need."

Bevin, considered a likely choice for foreign secretary, said that on the question of international relations the government would "speak as a common man to the common man in other lands."

When the meeting broke up with the singing of the party anthem, "The Red Flag," to the tune of the American song, "My Maryland," Attlee and his wife and daughters fought their way out of the auditorium and went to a tea party.

TRUMAN HEARS NEWS, HURRIES TO CONFERENCE

Churchill Declines

LONDON, July 26 (AP)—The London News Chronicle said tonight that Clement R. Attlee's first act after assuming office as prime minister was to ask Winston Churchill to return with him to Potsdam Friday to help continue the Big Three conferences, but that "the defeated prime minister did not feel in a position to accept Mr. Attlee's offer." Instead, the newspaper said, Attlee will be accompanied by Ernest Bevin, who has been mentioned as a probable successor to Anthony Eden as foreign secretary.

BY HENRY WALES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

POTSDAM, Germany, July 26—News of the outcome of the British elections reached here this evening just before President Truman and Secretary of State Byrnes returned from inspecting the 3d armored and 84th infantry divisions in the Darmstadt and Mannheim areas.

A member of the American delegation met the President at the air field when "the Sacred Cow," as the Presidential airplane is called, landed and told him of the British Labor party's heavy vote thruout the United Kingdom.

Confers at Headquarters

Mr. Truman made no comment but hastily entered an automobile to be driven to the delegation headquarters where he conferred with colleagues concerning the situation caused by Prime Minister Churchill's defeat.

The wide majority obtained by the opposition stunned many American delegates who had expected Churchill to win.

"Big Thing Has Happened"

"Big things have happened so suddenly we haven't had time to digest them," one conference official said.

The election result creates a serious impasse for the Big Three conference, as it is unlikely Mr. Truman and Premier Stalin will consent to wait at Potsdam while Clement R. Attlee, head of the Labor party, forms a new cabinet which may require a week.

Opinion was expressed that Anthony Eden, former foreign secretary, may return to act as an observer but many believe Labor party leaders would not consent to this.

Landslide Sweeps Churchill Regime Out of Office

Popular Vote

LONDON, July 26 [Reuters]—The British Labor party attracted 11,962,678 votes thruout the country today. Churchill's Conservative party polled 9,018,235 votes.

Other party figures were: Ranged against the Churchill government—Liberal, 2,280,135; Independent Labor, 46,679; Communists, 101,390; Commonwealth, 110,634; Independents, 545,862.

BY E. R. NODERER

It was a dark and bitter day for the man who directed his country's defense for five years of war, but he managed a smile for the crowd which greeted him outside the palace gates and gave for the last time as premier the V sign—which had become a symbol of his determination to crush Hitlerism.

As Churchill drove away from Buckingham palace, quiet, balding Laborite Clement R. Attlee in a small car driven by his wife rolled into the courtyard on his way to take up the reins of government even before the final result of the elections was announced.

Laborites and allied parties captured 417 seats, against 210 for the Conservatives and their associates, in returns from 627 of Britain's 640 constituencies. Labor candidates won 390 contests, Conservatives 195. Results of the other 13 contests will not be known until early August.

Attlee Almost Unnoticed

In the formal words of a Buckingham palace announcement, Churchill "had an audience with the king at 7 p. m. today and tendered his resignation as prime minister and first lord of the treasury and minister of defense which his majesty was graciously pleased to accept."

Five minutes after Churchill left, Attlee, leader of the Labor party which rolled in on a landslide in the first British election since 1935, arrived almost unnoticed by passerby.

"The king gave an audience to Mr. Attlee and invited him to form a new administration," an official announcement said. "Mr. Attlee accepted his majesty's offer and kissed hands upon his appointment as prime minister and first lord of the treasury."

These bald words from the palace heralded a political upset in Britain beyond memory of any one now living. The landslide not only is expected profoundly to alter the nation's economy, but is destined to affect many of Europe's problems.

Leftist Trend Underscored

It emphasized a leftist trend now apparent thruout the continent, which on its face would be expected to bring England and Russia closer together, but there is a widespread belief in political circles that the Reds would rather do business with the Conservatives, whose attitude they know, than now to embark on new adventures with the Laborites.

Laborites themselves have no doubts about their competence to deal with the soviets. However, the British Labor party has persistently refused permission for the Communists here to join its ranks for fear the Reds might attempt to

Gilded Cage Puts Bird Out on Limb

BY RITA FITZPATRICK

Hans is only a bird in a gilded cage, but Gretel loves him just the same.

For that matter, Gretel has made herself right at home. The fact that she's a puffy, little sparrow and he's a sleek, bright yellow canary, doesn't seem to bother her a bit. But Hans is playing hard to get. Gretel, like most females, is persistent.

The Hussy Flies Right In

This strange, feathered romance began last Tuesday when Mrs. Elizabeth Pedersen, 4245 Le Moyne st., noticed a coquettish little sparrow making eyes at her canary hanging in his cage out on the back porch. Mrs. Pedersen shoved the little flirt away, but the next day, the sparrow was back, clinging to the cage. Yesterday, Mrs. Pedersen opened the cage door and Gretel flew right in.

While Hans looked on with a cold, beady eye, Gretel had a grand time swinging on the bars, eating his lettuce and seed, and—the immodest little hussy!—even sharing his bath. Occasionally, she reached out to give him a peck. He ducked, the dope.

Ah! A Sulking Rival!

"I'm going to let her stay in the cage for a couple of days to see if Hans gets a little more friendly," Mrs. Pedersen commented. "It would be a pity to break it up since she seems so devoted to him."

But maybe Hans is smart. While Gretel flirted around in the cage there was an onlooker who didn't seem to enjoy the scene, a big, vicious sparrow in a near-by tree. He appeared to be definitely out on a limb.

Prof. Harold Laski, chairman of the Labor party executive, declared the Labor victory had "made possible full friendship between Britain and the soviets" as well as closer ties with left wing elements of Spain. "We shall give no help as a Labor government either to the decayed monarchs or the obsolete social systems," he said.

Potsdam Repercussions

While some observers expected both Churchill and Attlee would return to Potsdam with the ex-prime minister in the role of "friend and counsellor," others suggested Churchill's disappointment over the election result might decide him against going. Conservative sources reported Churchill considers Attlee, having attended earlier stages of the conference, will be able to lead the British delegation with full knowledge and authority.

Churchill's Foreign Secretary Eden, who was reëlected with one of the biggest majorities of any Conservative candidate, indicated he was prepared to go back to Potsdam under Attlee.

Effect on Spain

The belief is held by some quarters that it may prejudice the prospect of restoration of monarchy in Spain and Greece. Had Churchill—whose first election speech with the warning of a possible Labor "Gestapo" was widely acclaimed in the Spanish press—been returned to power, Generalissimo Franco might have attempted to press ahead with plans to set up a monarchy again in Spain, it was suggested. Now he is likely to adopt a wait and see policy.

In Greece there was a tendency to link the future of the throne with the reëlection of the Conservative government, diplomatic observers report.

The Arab world also took a keen interest in the election, in view of the Labor party's leanings toward unrestricted Jewish immigration into Palestine.

Support World Charter

The assurance given today by Ernest Bevin, Britain's probable new foreign secretary, that "British foreign policy will not be altered in any way under the Labor government," is seen as directed toward Washington and the Kremlin rather than the people of this country.

Thruout the election campaign Labor speakers emphasized there are no differences between themselves and the Conservatives on important international issues. The Laborites pledged that Britain will play her full part in defeating the Japs if they won power. They support the world security council as envisaged at San Francisco, and Anglo-American-Soviet unity in handling world affairs.

Where the Labor and Conservative foreign policies vary is in the degree of emphasis put on British collaboration with America and Russia in reshaping the post-war world. By some the Laborites are expected to veer more closely toward Moscow's viewpoint than the Conservatives, altho Attlee's reputation for caution leads many observers to believe he will attempt to continue Britain's role of so-called "honest broker" between the Russians and Americans.

The overwhelming and seemingly ungrateful rout of Churchill's administration was attributed in some political circles to revulsion of public feeling against the government rather than a spectacular demonstration of approval for the socialization of Britain.

Churchill Reëlected

Churchill himself was reëlected from his Woodford constituency altho his politically unknown opponent polled 10,000 votes to his 27,000. Churchill will lead the opposition when the new parliament convenes Aug. 8.

Voters, it was suggested by experienced political sources, resented the Conservative tactics, basing their appeal to the country on the personality of Churchill as a war leader rather than policies.

Service men, according to some reports, seemed to be opposed to voting for high ranking officers, among whom there was an unexpected number of casualties at the polls. Another explanation was the post-war reaction which made the country eager for a change at any price.

Herbert Morrison, Laborite and former minister of home security, attributed the party's success to the fact for the first time in British history the middle class had supported the lower class at the polls, idicating a combination of the two groups was the only way the Conservatives could be defeated.

Whatever the cause it is a fact the Laborites for the first time in history hold a working majority in commons over all opposition and seem likely to remain in the saddle for the next five years.

Premier's Farewell

Churchill tonight issued a statement saying he was sorry the voters did not permit him to finish the war against Japan but declared all plans and preparations had been made to defeat the Japs "and the results may come much quicker than we hitherto are entitled to expect."

"It only remains," Churchill concluded, "for me to express to the British people, for whom I have acted in these perilous years, my profound gratitude for the unflinching, unswerving support which they have given me during my task."

Announcement of the election winner passed with little violence reported except from Londonderry, Northern Ireland. There, club waving police dispersed crowds disputing a Conservative's victory over a Nationalist candidate.

The Conservatives, strangely, had the smallest and the largest majority. In Worcester they won a seat by four votes and in Antrim, North Ireland, two of their candidates won by margins of more than 38,800.

Police Department's Mr. Stork Brings No. 26

Philadelphia, Pa., July 26 (AP)—Neighbors found it impossible to get a doctor today for Mrs. Ernest Hess, 36, and called Sgt. Samuel Van Gilder, "Mr. Stork" of the police department. It was the 26th emergency delivery for the sergeant and a seven pound boy for Mrs. Hess, her eighth child.

Officer Reports Excess of Medics in Europe

New York, July 26 (AP)—Lt. Col. Earl H. Gray of Woodland, Cal., said today on his return from Europe that "rapid evacuation of wounded from the continent by plane and ship has created an excess of army medical personnel in Europe for the first time since the Normandy invasion."

MOSCOW CITES LABORITE WISH FOR CLOSER TIES

LONDON, July 26 (AP)—The Moscow radio, in the first Russian comment on the British Labor party victory, observed tonight that the party last May called for a "consolidation of relations of friendship with Russia, and issued a warning against anti-Soviet propaganda."

Commentator Mikail Mikhailov said the party's program is "based on its old tradition in international affairs and solid definite principles in home policy" and added "a new chapter opens in the life of Britain."

The commentator attributed the victory to "war time movements of population" and the fact that "about 7,000,000 people came of voting age, 7,000,000 people of whose sentiments the parties had little idea."

Indians See Little Difference

BOMBAY, July 26 (AP)—The general view here tonight on the British Labor party victory was that the new government, like the old, would do little toward advancing independence for India.

During the campaign a somewhat bitter comment has been that whatever British government is in power it will seek to preserve the empire. Dadyabhai Vallabhai Patel, Bombay business man and brother of Vallabhai Patel of the congress working committee, said: "I don't think it will make any difference to us."

French Leftists Surprised

PARIS, July 26 (AP)—The Labor party victory in the British elections was greeted with a surprised enthusiasm in left wing French political circles. The general feeling seemed to be that the new Labor government would improve French-British relations.

Greek Views Divergent

ATHENS, July 26 (AP)—Greek Royalists and Conservatives voiced disappointment while Leftists and Communists rejoiced tonight over the sweeping Labor party victory in England.

Leftists and Communists said they were confident a change would occur soon in the Greek government.

Big Upset for Spain

MADRID, July 26 (AP)—It is doubtful whether news of the smashing Labor victory in Britain was more of a surprise in any country, outside the United Kingdom, than in Spain, where the controled press consistently had predicted a Conservative victory. Gen. Francisco Franco met with the cabinet early tonight.

Rejoice in Mexico

Alvaro de Albornoz, president of the Spanish liberation junta, said: "The defeat of Churchill, who supported Franco in Spain, brings great satisfaction to all the Spanish republicans. It means that chances for restoration of the republic in Spain are greatly improved."

POISON FOUND IN WAR PLANT WATER COOLER

New York, July 26 (AP) — Louis Aldino, assistant district attorney, said today he was investigating "criminal aspects" of a police laboratory finding that poison had been placed in the water cooler of a Brooklyn war plant where excessive absenteeism had been reported recently.

Police said Harry Daniels, vice president of the Super Electric Products corporation, told them that he had the water analyzed after he became alarmed by absenteeism among employes who complained of abdominal pains and nausea.

Daniels told police the analysis showed the water contained poison and Aldino said a police laboratory analysis confirmed this finding. Aldino said the poison was weakened by dilution in the water.

29 APPOINTEES OF CHURCHILL OUSTED BY VOTE

Labor Wins 41 of 62 London Seats

BY JAMES SLOAN
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, June 26—The Labor party's victory ousted 29 members of Winston Churchill's "caretaker" government, which succeeded his coalition cabinet during the election campaign. They included 13 with cabinet rank and 16 parliamentary secretaries, who rank as junior ministers.

The list of the fallen is topped by the heads of the three services—war, air, and the admiralty—and two other members of the inner war cabinet.

Most notable among the vanquished ministers is Brendan Bracken, who was hailed by a Conservative spokesman as the greatest first lord of the admiralty since Churchill held that post. The former minister of information fell by 6,545 votes to the Laborite, Lt. Gen. F. M. MacFarlane. Thruout the campaign Conservative organs went all out in support of Bracken, who was the target for some of the bitterest Labor attacks for his intimate connections with Churchill.

Both War Minister Sir James Grigg and Air Secretary Harold Macmillan lost by heavy majorities.

Son-in-Law Defeated

Tho both Churchill and Foreign Secretary Eden were reëlected to commons by 17,000 majorities, they are accompanied by only a handful of other ministers, who will not hold jobs in the new government. Some of the cabinet ministers are peers who did not have to face the election, but they suffer the same fate as the rest of Churchill's cabinet.

Cabinet members defeated include Churchill's son-in-law, Duncan Sandys, minister of works; Richard Law, minister of education, son of a former prime minister, Andrew Bonar Law, who has held many posts under Churchill and was considered one of the prime minister's white haired boys; Leopold Amery, secretary for India and Burma; Minister of Information Geoffrey Lloyd; National Insurance Minister Leslie Hore-Belisha, who was war minister from 1937 to 1940; Food Minister John Llewellin, and Minister of Aircraft Production Ernest Brown.

Others in the parade of beaten celebrities included Churchill's son, Maj. Randolph Churchill, and Capt. Julian Amery, son of the secretary for India. The defeat of both Amerys was attributed to the capture and return to this country of Leopold Amery's son John, who allegedly broadcast enemy propaganda from Italy. The elder Amery had held a seat in commons 34 years.

Prominent members of the caretaker government who slipped back in were Oliver Lyttelton, minister of production and president of the board of trade; R. A. Butler, minister of labor; R. S. Hudson, minister of agriculture, and Oliver Stanley, colonial secretary, all of whom were among the comparatively few Conservative cabinet members returned.

Laborite Ministers Win

Nearly all Laborites who had previously held cabinet posts won. Headed by Attlee, former deputy prime minister, they included Ernest Bevin, former Labor minister; Herbert Morrison, former home secretary; Hugh Dalton, former president of the board of trade; A. V. Alexander, former first lord of the admiralty, and Stafford Cripps, former minister of aircraft production.

The Liberal party, which had put up more than 300 candidates, met a fate similar to that of the Conservatives, with even their leader, Archibald Sinclair, former air minister, and William Beveridge, author of the famous cradle to the grave social security plan, defeated.

The Communists doubled their representation in commons. Willie Gallacher, previously their lone voice, was returned and the communist candidate, Phil Piratin, defeated a Laborite in the Mile End division.

CROMIE, SHEAHAN OF TRIBUNE CITED BY 4TH ARMORED

Robert Cromie, Tribune war correspondent now in the Pacific, and Gary Sheahan, Tribune artist who recently returned from the European war theater, yesterday received citations from the 4th armored division "in recognition of conspicuously meritorious and outstanding performance." The certificates of merit were sent from the division's headquarters, now a permanent part of the occupational army in Bavaria.

In accompanying letters, Lt. Kenneth A. Koyen, public relations officer, said, "We know that when a soldier gets recognition for doing a good job it helps him carry him. Your stories [and sketches] about the division and its men helped maintain its superb fighting spirit."

The citations were signed by Brig. Gen. Bruce Clarke, commanding officer of the division.

Cromie covered the Pacific war from July, 1942, to December, 1943, and the European theater from February, 1944, to May, 1945. Sheahan went to the Pacific in August, 1943, and served eight months in New Guinea, New Britain, and Australia. He landed in Normandy with American troops on the day after D-day ican troops on D-day plus one and 11.

Camp Ellis, Ill., July 26 (AP)—Pvt. Arthur J. Harris, 21, a recruit from Detroit in training here, died today of meningitis, the camp public relations office reported. He was inducted June 21.

BEVIN EXPECTED TO TAKE EDEN'S POST IN CABINET

LONDON, July 26 (AP)—Clement Attlee will be able to surround himself with a strong, experienced cabinet when he becomes prime minister. Most observers favor Ernest Bevin to become his foreign secretary.

Many of the Labor party leaders who loom the largest for ministerial appointments served in the war time coalition government that waged the war against Germany.

Attlee himself was deputy prime minister, and many times directed the British war machine when Churchill was away from the country.

Marshaled Man Power

Bevin, generally favored to succeed Foreign Secretary Eden, was minister of labor and marshaled the country's full resources in man and woman power during the European phase of the war.

Most political experts slated Herbert Morrison, tough old party man from the East end, to become chancellor of the exchequer.

Other experienced labor leaders and the posts for which they are prominently mentioned are:

A. V. Alexander, first lord of the admiralty, which he held under the coalition.

Cripps for India Post

Arthur Greenwood, home secretary.

Arthur Henderson, secretary of war.

There also was speculation that two women might be named to the cabinet. One is Miss Ellen Wilkinson, former parliamentary secretary for the home office, who is mentioned for the ministry of education, or ministry of health. Dr. Edith Summerskill also may be slated for a cabinet position.

Says Churchill Strayed

Morrison, who was chairman of the Labor party campaign committee, tonight declared voters balloted on the real issues, rather than making the election "a plebiscite for and against the prime minister."

"Mr. Churchill went hopelessly astray from the beginning," he said. "It is in some respects sad that a man who led the country so ably thru the European war should have led his party on such a low level during the general election. He joined in the stunts. He cultivated the red herrings."

23 WOMEN SIT IN PARLIAMENT; 10 NEW SEATS

LONDON, July 26 (AP)—Women won at least 10 new seats in parliament today, and party leaders gave them part of the credit for pointing the election into a labor landslide. Of the record field of 83 women candidates, 23 were elected, 57 defeated, and three were in races in constituencies not yet reported.

Twenty one of the women MP's are Laborite. One, Viscountess Davidson, is a Conservative, and another, Megan Lloyd George, is Liberal. Mrs. Barbara Gould, wife of a newspaperman, will be commons' youngest member at 33.

Party leaders theorized that the turn toward labor might have resulted from women's impatience at the difficult housing situation under the old government. Mrs. Lucy Middleton was victorious in Nancy Astor's old stronghold of Plymouth. Parliament will have one married couple, Mr. and Mrs. Aneurin Bevan.

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

ATTLEE SHY MAN WHO SITS ON THE EDGE OF A CHAIR

Fighter for Socialism for 26 Years

LONDON, July 26 [Special] — Clement Richard Attlee, 62, labor leader, middle-of-the-road Socialist, and ardent family man, today completed a political pilgrimage which led him to Great Britain's highest political office—prime minister.

Uninspired in speech and mild in manner, Britain's new premier is almost the exact opposite in every respect of the retiring minister, Churchill. He has none of Churchill's gift for heroic phrase making, no evidence of his crusading fire.

Instead there are the Attlee qualities recognized by friend and foe alike: His sincerity, his profound integrity, a complete freedom from jealousy and pose, a devotion to his ideals as great as that of any man in public life, a shyness and a modesty so great that they are almost self-effacing.

Sits on Chair Edge

Attlee makes no parade of his personality or of his virtues. Psychologists interpret his habit of always sitting on the edge of his chair at labor meetings as an attitude typical of a diffident, modest man.

His devotion takes two forms. First is his dedication to his family and his home. Second, his devotion to the ideals which he believes will bring the most good to the greatest number of people. His modesty is evident in every public action.

Attlee and his wife, Violet, and their four children, have a small home in Stanmore, near London. Attlee's principal recreation is to leave his public duties and spend his time working with carpenter's tools, playing golf or tennis or working in the family garden.

Even in the midst of the greatest triumph he or his Labor party has ever known Attlee could not forsake his natural reticence or forget his family. As newsmen begged him for a statement Attlee was bent on only one thing — a family party planned weeks ago to be held in the Paddington hotel in London.

"Please leave us alone for a while," he begged newsmen and photographers. "We've had enough excitement for one day."

He then got in his car and drove away with his wife and three daughters. Reporters were forced to wait while the family celebrated alone.

Short and Bald

"Clem," as Attlee is known to his friends, is short and has a benevolent air. He is balding and sports a small, black mustache. A shallow bowled pipe is constantly in his mouth and used as a pointer when he desired to emphasize a point in conversation. Attlee's voice is high pitched and rather staccato. He speaks in a completely unemotional style.

Politically Attlee is strongly socialistic but is opposed to dictatorship, whether from the left or the right. According to his beliefs, the only motive which should guide the economic mechanism is the public good and the public need. The socialism he supports "owes more to the Bible than to 'Das Kapital' or 'State and Revolution,'" he has said.

Many of his opponents in the campaign accused Attlee of serving only as nominal head of the Labor party. The real head, they said, was Prof. Harold Laski, chairman of the Labor executive committee, who rules the party thru his back room manipulations.

Laski, a small blackhaired man with a black, shoebrush mustache, is considerably more to the left than is Attlee. In a pamphlet on Karl Marx, father of liberalism, he said: "The Communist manifesto still remains the most inspiring and up to date socialist document."

Graduate of Oxford

Attlee was born in London on Jan. 3, 1883, and was brought up in more or less conservative British traditions. He went to Haileybury, a "public school." He then went to University College, Oxford, and took a degree in modern history. After that he took up law, but when he had practiced only a few years left the Inner Temple to do social work in London's waterfront district.

For 10 years he was a tutor and lecturer in social sciences at the London School of Economics. He began his political career in 1922 when he was elected a member of parliament from the Limehouse district. He has been returned as an M. P. at each election since.

In 1931 he was made postmaster general and also became the deputy leader of the Labor party in the house of commons. He became deputy prime minister in Churchill's coalition cabinet in 1942. Attlee is the author of several books, among them, "The Social Worker," "The Will and the Way to Socialism," and "The Labor Party in Perspective."

Labor Aim: Nationalize Industry

LONDON, July 26 (AP)—The Labor party took over the British government today with power enough to shift the foundations of one of the world's most solid economies.

It surged into office with the intention of nationalizing every basic industry in the United Kingdom, making the "Old Lady of Threadneedle Street"—the Bank of England—public property, and ultimately nationalizing land.

The sweeping scope of the Socialist program made it almost impossible to judge, at this time, the full effect on the economic and social life of Great Britain. Nevertheless, conservative old England appears to be in for one of the greatest reforms of its long history.

Consolidation of Transport

Premier Clement Attlee and his party have said they intend to gain control of every industry which has made England great, to place them in the hands of the people and if possible to make them stronger and more productive.

One of the Laborites' first goals is the consolidation of every form of inland transport. They wish to weld into one economic whole, under government control, all railroads of the United Kingdom, all commercial carriers on highways and all coastal shipping.

Completely out of patience with the country's coal mining situation, the Laborites propose to take over every coal mine in the country, operating them not only to give miners a comfortable living wage but to produce enough coal for Britain's domestic needs and enough surplus to maintain a healthy export trade. Modernization of the whole coal mining practice is a part of this picture.

Iron and Steel Next

The next step in their program is nationalization of the country's iron and steel industry, long a backbone of Britain's international trade, and then nationalization of the Bank of England.

While these measures might seem extreme to the average American, they have been the mainstay of the Socialist program for decades. Not until now has the Labor party gained strength to put them into effect.

The Laborites also stand for nationalization of land, but they have not promised voters that this program would be put into effect immediately. Great Britain has been a nation of landlords, immensely rich, and Laborites recognize the financial mountain which must be surmounted before the government can justly gain control of agricultural resources.

In many quarters there has been a demand that Britain's land be put to the fullest possible use. That's what the Labor party says it hopes to achieve in gaining control of big estates of farmland and forest.

Jamestown, N. Y., July 26 (AP)—United States District Atty. George L. DEFEAT COMES TO CHURCHILL IN HALL OF VICTORY

LONDON, July 26 (AP)—Winston Churchill remained close to the prime minister's residence at 10 Downing st. today as election returns began to come in. The Labor party victory did not disclose itself immediately, but began slowly with reports showing the seizure of one seat, then three seats, and later 15 seats in commons.

Upon Churchill's massive but elderly shoulders, the Conservative party had put the major burden of carrying back to Whitehall with him a government under sharp criticism from a restive public, now released from the immediate perils of day-to-day enemy action from across the narrow waters of the channel.

Burden too Great

The burden proved too big as the returns soon disclosed. In his own constituency, Churchill was reelected to his seat, but that must have been small consolation to the veteran statesman

Soldier, journalist, scholar, traveler, adventurer, artist, author—even bricklayer, he has a great zest for living and working. He has held nearly every important post his government has had to offer—prime minister, minister of defense, under secretary of colonies, president of the board of trade, home secretary, first lord of the admiralty, minister of munitions, secretary of war and air, secretary for the colonies and chancellor of the exchequer.

Perhaps no statesman has traveled as far in search of good will for his country. In quest of victory, he journeyed to Moscow, to Quebec, to Washington, Tehran and Yalta. Then, with victory won in Europe, he made the last of his many trips—this time in search of peace.

But he returned to London to find defeat for his dream of guiding Britain to final victory over Japan.

"Blood, Sweat and Tears"

Whatever his future role, however, Churchill is certain to be remembered as the man who rallied Britain to stand alone against the Nazis, the man who brought other nations to Britain's side, the man who hurled defiance at Hitler in prose that will be read in admiration long after he is gone.

He promised his people, when he became prime minister with the fall of the Chamberlain cabinet, only—"blood, sweat and tears." And when the outmanned, outequipped R. A. F. hurled back the luftwaffe in the battle of Britain, Churchill voiced the sentiments of freedom: "Never have so many owed so much to so few."

NEW MUSTANG, FASTEST PLANE, IN PRODUCTION

Inglewood, Cal., July 26—North American Aviation, Inc., announced today that America's fastest propeller driven plane, named the P-51H Mustang, has been in production for months and is now ready for action in the far Pacific.

Altho exact performance figures are secret, the war department permitted the company to disclose that the P-51H will travel "over 460 miles an hour," has a combat range of "over 2,000 miles," and will operate efficiently "up to 42,000 feet."

The navy announced the addition of two 20 mm. aircraft cannon to Hellcat fighters which fly against Japan from Essex type carriers. This is in addition to four 50 caliber machine guns. Formerly, these fighters carried six machine guns and no cannon.

PROTECT YANKS FROM BOMBERS, STIMSON TOLD

A telegram requesting issuance of orders to protect American prisoners in Japanese prison camps from bombing by our planes was sent yesterday to Secretary of War Stimson by the Bataan War Prisoners Relief of Illinois thru its president, Mrs. Lucy Palermo, 10406 Leavitt st.

"Today's broadcasts state that our bombers are killing our American boys imprisoned in Japan," the telegram said. "Speaking for my son, a prisoner in a camp in Kawasaki reported bombed, as well as for all the other prisoners, we demand that you issue orders to protect these long suffering prisoners."

Telegrams were sent to other Bataan organizations in New Jersey and New Mexico urging them to telegraph similar messages to Stimson.

VAN ACKER WINS VOTE IN STAND ON LEOPOLD

BRUSSELS, July 26 (AP)—Parliament ended its week of wrangling over the political future of King Leopold III. today with a vote of confidence in the government of Premier Achille van Acker. Van Acker had sponsored a law preventing Leopold from returning to Belgium without parliament's consent.

The vote on today's motion "to approve entirely" the position of the government was 95 for, 68 against, and two absent.

Van Acker supporters had accused Leopold of being pro-German during the occupation.

2 Dead Conservatives Elected to Commons

LONDON, July 26 (AP)—Two dead Conservatives were elected to the house of commons in returns counted today. They were Leslie Pym and Edward Campbell, both of whom died on July 17 after Britain had voted. Commons will declare the seats vacant and order new elections.

10 DOWNING ST.? IT'S A HEADACHE TO MRS. ATTLEE

LONDON, July 26 (AP)—The slim, gray haired wife of Clement Attlee is apprehensive over the prospect of running the premier's residence at 10 Downing st.

"Don't talk about it," she said. "It's been bad enough running my house at Stanmore during the war. I have a housekeeper now but I haven't had her long and I find cooking, as well as everything else these days, takes a lot of doing."

Violet Helen Attlee is little known, even at Labor party headquarters. She shuns the limelight and works hard in her home and as a commandant of the Red Cross, which she first joined during the last war.

Drives and Knits

During the counting of election returns, she had with her her second daughter, Felicity, nearly 20, who will graduate from a nursery training school in another year.

After the morning count, they slipped away from the crowds at Transport house to meet the youngest daughter, Alison, 15, who attends school in Salisbury. The other daughter, Janet, 22, a section officer in the WAAFS, got leave to join the family party for luncheon and a tea at the Paddington hotel.

Thirteen Years in One House

Mrs. Attlee is sympathetic with the first priority problem of the new government—housing. She has lived in the same house for the last 13 years.

"It's almost falling down now and it's not been repainted in years," she said.

"I can't afford to spoil my hat. It's an old one but a nice one," she said. Her hat was a scarlet boater which suits her hair and pink complexion.

GI's Bait Monkey Trap With Candy, Catch a Jap!

Jerseyville, Ill., July 26 (AP)—Pvt. Louis Whitley wrote his mother, Mrs. Mary Whitley, that he and his buddies in the Philippines set a trap baited with candy bars to catch a monkey. As they watched, a hand reached for the candy. Now there is one less Jap in the Philippines.

LABOR VICTORY SWEETENS CUP FOR MAN IN PUB

He Regrets Passing of Old Winnie, but—

LONDON, July 26 (AP)—The general reaction of London's man-in-the-pub to the election returns today was approval of the Labor victory, but regret at the blow to Prime Minister Churchill.

"Well, old Winnie is out, and that's a shame, that is," summed up the expressions of many. "But we'll get along all right."

A tall man in a black derby said Churchill, whose oratory and two-fingered "V" sign were a whiplash and symbol of the British war effort, "should have just put on his hat and walked out on V-E day.

"He'd done his job well and could have gotten out gracefully," the tall man commented.

A barmaid came up to draw another pint of bitter for a fat man on the other side of the room who was loudly celebrating the Labor party victory.

"Showed the Tories"

"We showed the blasted Tories," he said.

"Yes, you showed them," retorted the barmaid. "After poor Mr. Churchill took us all thru the war, you showed him, too."

"Too bad about old Winnie, of course," the fat man rejoined. "But he couldn't have whipped Hitler alone, you know."

Lord Beaverbrook's conservative Evening Standard said today "there is no doubt the returning pendulum of political fortune has described a wide arc leftwards"—and did a little swinging itself.

Declaring the present parliament had rendered good service, an editorial added: "But it was ancient, not only in terms of its existence, but in the age of its members. It lacked the freshness that only youth can bring to its proceedings."

Japs Call It Death Blow

San Francisco, July 26 (AP)—The Japanese controled Saigon radio termed the defeat of the Churchill government in Great Britain a "death blow."

A Japanese broadcast beamed on India said "the most interesting news from the Indian standpoint is that it is freed of the arch-enemy of India, Mr. Leopold F. Amery, secretary of state for India."

The broadcast added that "Mr. Amery is a diehard Conservative of the Rudyard Kipling type. During his political career he has been a high priest of British imperialism."

THEFT SUSPECT OFFERS 'HOT TIP' IN MURDER CASE

A cryptic remark dropped by a burglary suspect may result in renewal of police investigation into the shotgun murder last February of Anthony Rudaitis, 51, in his tavern near Waukegan, Sheriff Walter L. Atkinson of Lake county said yesterday.

The suspect, Arthur Freeman, 48, was arrested early yesterday when deputies said they found loot from a grocery burglary in his home on Green Bay rd., Benton township, half a mile from the Rudaitis tavern. Freeman told Deputy George Streid: "If you go easy with me on this burglary charge, I'll give you a hot tip on the Rudaitis murder."

Before reaching the sheriff's office, Freeman broke away. He was recaptured in a back yard at 802 Grand av., Waukegan, after several shots were fired at him. Also under arrest is George Miller, 45, a neighbor of Freeman in whose home deputies said they found additional loot. Both will appear Aug. 7 before Justice of the Peace Ray J. Reardon.

WPB APPEALS FOR AID TO GET PARTS TO NAVY

Washington, D. C., July 26 (AP)—The war production board announced today that "many million dollars' worth" of spare parts for naval engines, hulls, and machinery "must be shipped to the Pacific fleet in a matter of days."

The WPB appealed to women and college students to assist in the emergency by taking work at factories to package, identify, and mark the parts for shipment.

WPB said it planned to strip the country's production lines and comb the inventory supplies of manufacturers for repair parts to replace the heavy expenditures necessitated by warship overhauls.

20,000 French Children Will Go to Black Forest

PARIS, July 26 (AP)—The danger of German land mines has closed all French beaches for the summer so 20,000 French children will vacation instead in Germany's Black forest. The first contingent of 1,200 children left today.

1,500 Ailing German War Prisoners Sail for Home

Camp Shanks, N. Y., July 26 (AP)—Nearly 1,500 ailing German prisoners of war boarded the hospital ship Frances Y. Slanger today for return to their devastated homeland. A curiously dispirited lot, most of them were older men, many bald.

Zoo's new squirrel monkey

"It's a dirty trick to play on a poor innocent monkey," said R. Marlin Perkins, zoo director, but it was he who noticed the Hitlerite expression on the monkey's face Wednesday when it arrived from Venezuela. The eyes had that "dazed, insane look" and the facial expression was completed by a thick, black mustache, Perkins said. And he'd heard about the possibility of Hitler being in South America.

HAIL ULTIMATUM AS LIKELY TO SHORTEN WAR

Senators O. K. Action Taken at Potsdam

Washington, D. C., July 26 (AP)—Senators tonight hailed the Potsdam ultimatum to Japan as likely to shorten the war.

Legislators who had been outspoken in demands for a specific definition of "unconditional surrender" were prompt with approval of the Truman-Churchill-Chiang Kai-shek formula.

Sen. Wherry [R., Neb.], who this week had demanded a blueprint of what this country would accept from Japan, said:

"I want to compliment the President for defining the terms of unconditional surrender. I believe it is a step in the right direction and that something will come of it."

Congratulates Truman

Before the Potsdam statement was issued Wherry, commenting on a Japanese radio plea for a soft peace, had said he believed an actual outline of terms, no matter how stern, would hasten the end of the fighting.

Sen. Capehart [R., Ind.], another who has insisted on more precise conditions for the Japanese, told the senate:

"The ultimatum spells out what we mean and have meant by unconditional surrender, and I congratulate the President."

Sen. Bridges [R., N. H.] called the Potsdam terms "reasonable."

Should Accept—Bridges

"If Japan desires peace and wants to save her homeland from destruction, I think she should accept these terms," Bridges told a reporter.

Chairman Connally [D., Tex.] of the foreign relations committee, shown a copy of the terms, told a reporter:

"I thoroly approve the joint statement. Unless the Japanese intend to commit national hara-kiri they will surrender and save millions of lives of their people and their national existence. Unless they are determined to be engulfed in ruin, they will accept the terms."

KING WILL TELL BRITISH POLICY IN SPEECH AUG. 8

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, July 26—The house of commons will meet Wednesday to elect a speaker and on Thursday and Friday to swear in newly elected members. The state opening of parliament will take place Aug. 8 when the king will read from the throne a speech compiled by the prime minister outlining the government's policy.

Deepest gloom permeated Tory haunts over defeat of the Conservative regime. A plaid trousered Scottish war veteran said, "Hitler was right, we are a decadent nation. We must be morons." Most of the big hotels had prepared special "victory menus" to offer celebrating Tories. At the Savoy hotel much champagne was listed but not a bottle was sold.

ELECTION UPSET AROUSES FEARS IN WASHINGTON

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., July 26—The smashing defeat of Prime Minister Churchill's Conservative government by the Labor party was widely interpreted in the capital today as a world-shaking leftist victory which will have strong repercussions in this country and in international diplomacy.

While capital leaders and observers expressed confidence that the change in British leadership will not affect Britain's pledge to fight with the United States to victory over Japan, they predicted the election result will vitally influence post-war world politics.

Members of congress said the Labor party victory leaves the United States as the last bulwark of a democratic government based on private initiative and freedom of individuals.

Some members of congress expressed fears President Truman may face new difficulties in gaining Big Three acceptance of American ideals in world peace problems if Clement R. Attlee as prime minister, joins with Dictator Stalin in promoting a world leftist movement.

WOMAN'S CALL GETS POLICE IN ANOTHER STATE

Columbus, N. J., July 26 (AP)—Mrs. Alfreda Heck, a farmer's wife, said she had quite a time tonight getting state police at Columbus to report a heifer missing from her farm in nearby Springfield township.

Trooper Joseph Lyons said Mrs. Heck told him she asked the operator to get her state police at Columbus. She got a sergeant who asked her where she lived. Mrs. Heck told him at Chambers Corner and Hancock road on route 29.

"I've been in Columbus a long time and I never heard of those streets," the sergeant said. "What police do you want, anyhow?"

"State police at Columbus," she told him.

"Springfield township, New Jersey," Mrs. Heck answered.

MARINE CAPTORS OF PACIFIC ISLES SAY 'KEEP 'EM'

Marines who took part in the bloody island battles of the Pacific virtually are unanimous in the opinion that the United States should retain Guadalcanal, Tarawa, and all the other islands it needs as strategic bases, a survey here yesterday showed.

If the United States gives up captured islands to its allies, it should make sure these allies maintain military and naval bases on them. Nothing at all should be returned to the Japs, the marines asserted.

Pvt. Russell Johnstone, 19, of Alfred, Me., who lost the sight of one eye when hit by a sniper's bullet on Iwo Island, said the United States should keep every island it captures, regardless of who controled it previously.

Took Them, Should Keep Them..

"We took them all, and that's why we ought to keep them," said Pvt. Johnstone. "There are a lot of marines buried out there. What did they die for? So we could give the islands back? I don't think so."

A marine lieutenant who fought at both Guadalcanal and Tarawa said every marine he talked to thought all the islands that have any strategic value should be retained.

"I think we should keep them, but I don't think we will need them for bases," he said. "The next war will be fought with rockets by engineers pushing buttons in New York and Tokyo or other centers far apart."

Doesn't Want Island

Tech. Sgt. George Lovett, 24, of Lake Placid, N. Y., who served with an air group on Guadalcanal, Bougainville, and Munda, said that as far as he was concerned the islands could go back to their former owners, except for the Japs.

Tech. Sgt. Joseph Piecek, 29, and Pvt. William Rogers, 24, who entered the marines together in Flint, Mich., and served with an air group near Guadalcanal, thought that if any islands were returned to Britain, France, or the Netherlands, the United States ought to make sure adequate bases are maintained.

Three marines hurrying from the service men's center at 430 S. Michigan av. to catch a train had this to say regarding all the islands in the Pacific: "Sink them. Then we won't have to go back again."

30,000 ACRES BURNED OUT

ISTANBUL, Turkey, July 26 [AP]—Approximately 30,000 acres of forest have been destroyed by seven fires which have been burning near the Turkish capital for several weeks. A water shortage due to a severe drought has hampered efforts of fire fighters, who have the flames under control at present.

GI Joe in the Pacific

By ARTHUR VEYSEY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

MANILA, P. I., July 26—A soldier grabbed his letter, looked at the postmark, and screamed, "They've been keeping this," he said. The letter was 11 days out of Chicago.

That pretty well tells the story of mail deliveries in the Southwest Pacific. Anybody who gets a letter more than 10 days old feels he has cause to squawk.

Air mail deliveries are darn near miraculous. A check of army post offices showed that the average time for mail to reach the APO from San Francisco, Cal., is about 7 8-10 days. Allow a day for mail to reach San Francisco from the mail point and another day for distribution from the APO to the army unit, and the average time from the mail box to the soldier is about 10 days.

Combat Areas Served First

That 7 8-10 days for the Pacific crossing is average for the Manila APOs only. It does not include the APOs in forward areas. As a matter of fact, combat units usually get mail a day or two sooner than headquarters outfits.

Some mail is only four or five days old. Any day now the GIs expect to get a letter on which the ink is still wet. Nobody is more surprised than the postal people. "We never expected such fast service," they admit.

Air mail service has been good for the last two years. Two weeks was about the average, but it has steadily been reduced. Last November and December the mail service got somewhat messed up because almost all the soldiers in the area were on the move and the mail kept chasing them around. In addition, transportation services were limited.

Transfers Slow Service.

Whenever a soldier is transferred he enters a period of mail famine that may last three months, but with proper coöperation from the soldier and his correspondents in adopting the new APO number it should be limited to less than a month.

Regular 3 cent mail comes by ship in about three weeks. Packages, newspapers, and magazines take from five to eight weeks usually, altho strange things happen to packages. A few Christmas packages from last year are still arriving, but before any one screams let it be said that they were mailed after the Oct. 15 deadline.

Mail bags are bounced around, stacked deep in steaming holds, left in the rain, and otherwise generally manhandled. Remember this the next time you send a package. If pressure, heat, moisture, or elapse of a couple of months will spoil your gift, pack it accordingly. Or else drink it yourself.

5 GANG LEADERS FINED, WARNED TO STAY APART

Five "officers" of the so-called Deacons club, a gang of 15 Negro hoodlums ranging in age from 15 to 20, yesterday were fined $200 and costs by Judge Jacob M. Braude in Boys' court and were placed on two years' probation.

Police of three south side districts appeared before Judge Braude with 20 complaints against the gang. Complaints covered purse snatchings, assaults, street and store robberies, and burglaries. The club members were arrested last week at Pershing rd. and Rhodes av.

Two associate gangs, the Little Deacons, made up of boys from 12 to 15, and the Deacons' Auxiliary, of young Negro women, also were in court, as well as 250 friends and relatives. All had been ordered to appear by Judge Braude.

The court told the five officers that if any two of them were seen together during the probationary period they would be sent to jail. Acting Capt. Harry B. Deas of the Stanton av. station said the three gangs were responsible for much of the crime on the south side during the last two years.

'GUINEA PIGS' GAIN WEIGHT IN SLEEP TEST

Pasadena, Cal., July 26 (AP)—With sleep only a little more than 24 hours away, California Institute of Technology's "fatigue guinea pigs" were still going strong today and gaining weight on the four square meals and one cup of coffee daily.

The professor conducting the 112 hour experiment on sleeplessness said the 12 volunteers exhibited only minor evidences of their ordeal. He is confident the men, from the conscientious objectors' camp at Glendora, will finish the test tomorrow without ill effect.

Customers Ask...
DO FANNIE MAY CHOCOLATES COST MORE TO MAKE THAN THE UNCOATED CANDIES?

On the contrary! Wrapped Nougats, Caramels, Fudge, Dixies, and Mallowdips—all uncoated—cost more than do the majority of our chocolate coated pieces!

You see, a number of chocolate coated soft centers contain more sugar—relatively inexpensive. Our uncoated pieces usually contain more cream, milk solids and nuts—really expensive ingredients—as your own kitchen costs tell you!

So, when in your box of Fannie May Candy you find a balanced assortment of chocolate coated soft and chewy centers, together with uncoated pieces, you'll know we've not been sparing costs in giving you a box full of taste thrills—fresh, pure, delicious candies!

350 B-29s BOMB KYUSHU, SHIKOKU FACTORY CITIES

Drop Incendiaries Third Time in Four Days

GUAM, July 27 [Friday]—(AP)—More than 350 American B-29s firebombed three Japanese cities today starting general conflagrations.

The Super Forts struck before dawn, raining more than 2,200 tons of incendiaries on Omuta, Matsuyama, and Tokuyama, all in southwestern Japan. Fires spread even beyond the target areas, returning crewmen said. One B-29 was missing.

Two wings of Super Forts encountered no opposition. A third faced some fighter defenses. Anti-aircraft fire over the three widely separated targets, all in southwestern Japan, varied from "nil to moderate."

With clouds partly covering the targets, bombing was by precision instruments.

It was the second fire raid on Omuta, important chemical center and coal port of 177,000 population on Kyushu Island. The city previously was hit June 18.

Factory City Hit

Matsuyama and Tokuyama got their first baptism of American fire. They were hit previously with demolition bombs. The former city of 122,000 people, on the western coast of Shikoku Island, is a factory community which produced cotton fabrics before the war. Tokuyama, at the southwestern end of Honshu Island, has large chemical plants and an oil refinery and fuel tank farms. Its population is 40,000.

The attack followed a raid by 100 of the big bombers Wednesday midnight on oil plants at Kawasaki, near Tokyo, and the record 625 plane mission Tuesday against the Osaka-Nagoya area.

Maj. Gen. Curtis Lemay disclosed here that the 20th air force has now reached full operational strength, with five B-29 wings based on Guam, Tinian, and Saipan. He also reported, prior to today's raid, that reconnaissance had disclosed that devastation in Japan's urban industrial areas had reached 143 square miles in 39 cities.

Two Ports Burned

Added to the "hard hit" cities were the ports of Sendai, 27.8 per cent levelled, and Chosi, 36.4 per cent burned.

Gen. Doolittle said in an interview on Okinawa that the B-29s of his 8th air force, redeployed from Europe, would be striking Japan in force by the end of next month. Several days ago Doolittle asserted that some planes of his force would be raiding the Nippon mainland by Aug. 1.

"Japan eventually will be a nation without cities—a nomadic people," he said. "Our B-29s can easily reach all of Japan itself and even up into Mongolia if there are any targets there."

ONE BATTLESHIP, ONE CARRIER ALL JAPAN HAS LEFT

GUAM, July 27 [Friday]—(AP)—Radio silence cloaked the activities of Adm. Halsey's 3d fleet today as allied strikes against the Japanese empire were confined to land based aerial actions.

The last report on the American and British force which smashed at the Japanese fleet remnants Tuesday and against bases on the Inland sea Wednesday was contained in yesterday's bulletin, which said Wednesday's action was limited to hitting small vessels and damaging ground installations because of extremely bad weather. Adm. Nimitz's bulletin today made no mention of Halsey's fleet.

In 15 days Adm. Nimitz's naval forces had sunk or damaged 620 Japanese ships—warships and merchant vessels — and destroyed or damaged 778 planes.

Best estimates are that Japan has at present in seaworthy condition one battleship, an aircraft carrier, a few cruisers and 25 destroyers.

300 M'ARTHUR BOMBERS POUND SHANGHAI AGAIN

30 Jap Planes Defend Home Isle; 7 Fell

MANILA, P. I., July 27 [Friday]—(AP)—More than 300 far east air force bombers smashed Shanghai's air dromes on Wednesday, dropping 400 tons of bombs and setting fires, while other units of Gen. MacArthur's air forces returned to the attack on Japan.

Japan's hoarded fighter planes came out of hiding for the first time in weeks and intercepted Liberators as they swept in over northern Kyushu, where the air center of Tsuiki was left wrapped in flames and rocked by explosions.

Liberators, Mitchells, Invaders, Thunderbolts, and Mustangs of the 5th and 7th air forces made the coordinated attack on Shanghai with bombs, bullets, and rockets.

Work Over Warehouses

Liberators rained fragmentation bombs and 100 pounders on Kiangwan, Woosung, and Lungwha air fields. Mitchells drove in at medium level and hit a fourth air strip at Tachang.

Mitchells also worked over warehouses along the Whangpoo river and the mouth of the Yangtze.

Invader attack bomber veterans struck Chushan Island south of Shanghai, starting fires in hangars at Tinghai air field. Thunderbolts plastered the same air field with rockets and bullets.

A number of grounded air craft were destroyed and one Thunderbolt was shot down by anti-aircraft fire. No Japanese interceptors were encountered.

Enemy shipping raised anchor and tried to run out of Shanghai harbor for the open sea, but was caught by bomb-carrying Mustangs and one 3,000 ton freigher and five smaller freighters probably were sunk.

Planes Downed

In the effort to check the raid on the home island of Kyushu, at least seven Japanese fighters out of 30 that rose to challenge were shot down and an eighth probably was destroyed.

The Liberators, losing one plane, bored in over the criscross of runways at Tsuiki. From the size of the fires that broke out bombardiers believed they had hit an oil storage area.

JAPANESE FALL BACK TO NORTH IN BORNEO, AUSSIE FLYERS SAY

MANILA, July 27 [Friday] (AP)—Australian troops, moving steadily northward along the inland road from Balikpapan, Borneo, are encountering small groups of Japanese six miles north of the fallen enemy strongpoint of Batochampar, it was announced at Gen. MacArthur's headquarters today.

Evidence that the enemy was withdrawing generally, however, was seen in a delayed report from the royal Australian air force that on Sunday four of its Spitfires strafed 16 enemy trucks moving northward on the road from Balikpapan toward the Samarinda oil field area 60 miles northward.

The Japanese meanwhile made a slight recovery in the air, sending eight to 10 twin engined bombers on a two hour raid over Balikpapan Tuesday morning. At least one was shot down.

DEVERS DOUBTS TRUTH OF MASS RAPE STORIES

Washington, D. C., July 26 (AP)—Gen. Devers, replying to allegations by Sen. Eastland [D., Miss.], said today he believed there was no mass rape by French colonial troops in Stuttgart.

He said there were cases of individual attacks on women because "I know that they [French army authorities] shot at least 12 soldiers, Moroccans, Algerians, and Goums" on charges of rape. He said other cases were reported.

Discussing the matter at a news conference, the general said one report was that 2,500 women had been raped in a tunnel in Stuttgart after the German city fell to allied troops under his command in April. He asserted his own belief that the figure was nearer 300 and that these were individual cases.

REPORTS YANK SCOUTS LAND ON MALAY ISLE

San Francisco, Cal., July 26 (AP)—An unconfirmed Japanese broadcast reported today an American reconnaissance force landed yesterday on Puket Island, off the west coast of the Malay peninsula, but was driven back to the sea by the Japanese garrison. Puket is in the Bay of Bengal, 625 miles north of Singapore.

The broadcast said two cruisers shelled the island about 8 a. m. Wednesday and six transports disgorged 500 troops.

The Japanese garrison, the broadcast said, "counter-attacked and repulsed the enemy troops from the landing point with heavy casualties inflicted on the invaders." Subsequently cruisers continued their bombardment while allied planes strafed near-by air fields.

empire of Japan to the threshold of annihilation, or whether she will follow the path of reason.

"No Alternatives"

"5. The following are our terms: We will not deviate from them: There are no alternatives: We shall brook no delay.

"6. There must be eliminated for all times the authority and influence of those who have deceived and misled the people of Japan into embarking on world conquest, for we insist that a new order of peace, security, and justice will be impossible until irresponsible militarism is driven from the world.

"7. Until such a new order is established and until there is convincing proof that Japan's war making power is destroyed, points in Japanese territory to be designated by the allies shall be occupied to secure the achievement of the basic objectives we are here setting forth.

"8. The terms of the Cairo declaration shall be carried out and Japanese sovereignty shall be limited to the Islands of Honshu, Hokkaido, Kyushu, Shikoku, and such minor islands as we determine.

"9. Japanese military forces, after being completely disarmed, shall be permitted to return to their homes with the opportunity to lead peaceful and productive lives.

Demand Three Freedoms

"10. We do not intend that the Japanese shall be enslaved as a race or destroyed as a nation, but stern justice shall be meted out to all war criminals, including those who have visited cruelties upon our prisoners.

"The Japanese government shall remove all obstacles to the revival and strengthening of democratic tendencies among the Japanese people. Freedom of speech and religion and of thought, as well as respect for the fundamental human rights, shall be established.

"11. Japan shall be permitted to maintain such industries as will sustain her economy and permit the payment of just reparation in kind, but not those industries which will enable her to rearm for war.

To Get Raw Materials

"To this end access to, as distinguished from control of, raw materials shall be permitted. Eventual Japanese participation in world trade relations shall be permitted.

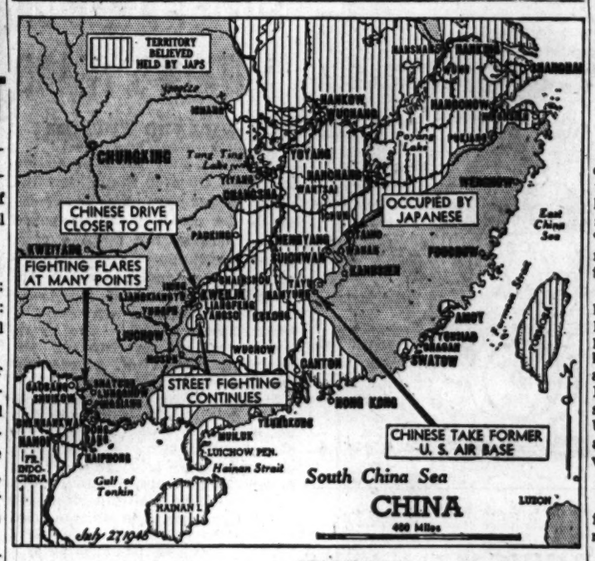
"12. The occupying forces of the allies shall be withdrawn from Japan as soon as these objectives have been accomplished and there has been established in accordance with the freely expressed will of the Japanese people a peacefully inclined and responsible government.

"13. We call upon the government of Japan to proclaim now the unconditional surrender of all Japanese armed forces, and to provide proper and adequate assurances of their good faith in such action. The alternative for Japan is prompt and utter destruction."

5-Man 'Mutiny' Quelled on Ship in N. Y. Harbor

New York, July 26 (AP)—Police reported "a drunken mutiny" flared aboard the British freighter Fort Maurepis, berthed in the North river today, and that five crewmen fought an equal number of ship's officers before being subdued by police. The five seamen were booked on disorderly conduct charges. None of the rest of the crew was involved.

Japs Suffer New Reverses in China



7th Air Base Taken

CHUNGKING, China, July 26 (AP)—Chinese troops have seized a seventh former American air base with capture of Namyung in the wolfram mining district 150 miles northeast of Canton, the Chinese high command announced today.

Due west other Chinese units punched to new points within six and eight miles of the triple air field city of Kweilin and fought in the streets of a 9th air base city, Yangso, 45 miles to the south, a bulletin said.

Namyung, abandoned last Jan. 2 by the United States 14th air force, was the aerial starting point of shipments to the United States of wolfram, a mineral vital in the production of war munition. Near-by Tayu, in the heart of the mining area, already has been recaptured, and wolfram shipments possibly can be resumed soon.

JILTED SOLDIER TO GET BACK HIS $1,575 NEST EGG

Florence Siddens, 26, of 1501 E. 69th pl., has until Aug. 8 to return $1,575 in war bonds and cash which her former sweetheart, Sgt. Stanley Trabanda, 9214 University av., sent her during his 16 months service overseas. The order was given by Judge William V. Daly yesterday in Felony court.

Trabanda had Florence arrested in Nevada after she sent him a letter at Chanute field where he was stationed saying she was married, had cashed his bonds and put the money in a vault, and would give it to him next year. Trabanda told the court the bonds were to start their married life when he returned from overseas. He charged her with embezzling $1,925 in war bonds and $465 in cash.

Florence told Judge Daly she still loved Trabanda and said he loved her but was too stubborn to admit it. Trabanda insisted that all he was interested in was getting his money back.

TOKYO'S ENVOY TO NAZIS SEEKS PEACE, U. S. TOLD

SALZBURG, July 26 (AP)—Hiroshi Oshima, Japanese ambassador to Berlin when Germany capitulated, left for the United States with a recommendation that Japan surrender unconditionally, his secretary told United States 3d division authorities here.

The secretary, San Francisco born Toshio Yamanaka, and Oshima fell into American hands when United States divisions marched into Bad Gastein, Austria, early in May. Oshima was one of 33 high ranking members of the Japanese diplomatic corps who landed in New York July 11. The remainder of the entourage, including Yamanaka, is scheduled to sail from Le Havre today.

Oshima and his staff were in Berlin until mid-March. They survived American bombing of the German capital only after harrowing experiences, which, Yamanaka said, convinced them of the futility of continuing the fight against such overwhelming superiority of air power. The secretary said Oshima was extremely anxious to prevail upon his government to meet allied terms immediately.

JAPS SAY 1,001 YANKS DIED AS U. S. SANK SHIP

Washington, D. C., July 26 (AP)—Japan has informed the war department that 942 American prisoners of war were killed outright when a Japanese prison ship was torpedoed in Subic bay in December, 1944. Fifty-nine died later, two survived and evaded capture, and 618 survived and presumably were moved to Japan.

The war department has received a partial list of the dead and relatives of 616 have been notified of their deaths. Casualty notices said the ship left Manila Dec. 13, 1944, apparently for Japan and was torpedoed two days later.

PLAN TO CRUSH JAPS IN SINGLE BLOW BY ARMY

Washington, D. C., July 26 [Special]—The United States army plans to deploy 7,000,000 soldiers in a knockout blow against Japan, instead of attempting to do the job "piecemeal," Gen. Devers, new commanding general of army ground forces, asserted today.

The 7,000,000 total will be the approximate size of the army after partial demobilization. Devers explained, at a news conference, that he did not mean the whole 7,000,000 actually would be on the firing line. Millions will be in the service of supply and other branches in the United States and elsewhere, but all will be part of a single team with a single objective.

New Methods of Warfare

He said the forces being prepared for the Pacific will be trained in new methods of warfare.

Training for the invasion of Japan is being made so realistic, Gen. Devers said, that even caves are being constructed at training centers and doughboys taught how to go in with flamethrowers and burn out the enemy.

Wants to Use American Japs

Commanding officers of training camps are to be combat veterans, Gen. Devers said. Instructors also are to be combat veterans whenever it is practicable.

Devers praised the American soldiers of Japanese extraction and said he favors using as many of them as can be enrolled for the Pacific war, both as instructors for our troops and in combat.

YOUR FAMILY'S GREATEST PROBLEM and the Best Answer to it!

As you look into the years ahead, achieving a measure of security in an insecure world looms as your greatest problem. And now is the time when you must decide whether you can and will take the steps to find an answer to that problem.

For an answer is possible—and fortunately, that answer is as patriotic as it is practical for you. It's to avoid spending now whenever possible; it's to cling to what you have in the ways which experience has demonstrated to be the wisest, the soundest and which give the greatest security to the greatest number.

For instance, your War Bonds, in our opinion, are the best investment you can make. And the longer you hold them, the better the interest you get on your money. Further, common sense shows that holding bonds of our government is the ideal safe way to build up personal security.

Owning a home is another step on the way to being sure and safe. Protecting your family with insurance is still another proven means of keeping your way of life and that of your family. And building up a good cash reserve is another practical step, sure to help anyone, especially if your money is in a savings account. Finally, a planned educational fund, for which War Bonds are often ideal investments, will guarantee your children a most precious heritage — American education.

Contrast these sound, sure steps in your own interest to spending now for unnecessary things or with get-rich-quick gambling, whether in securities, real estate or any other ill-advised attempt to run a shoestring into a fortune. Think, finally, which course will lead to the greater ultimate happiness of your family and yourself. The choice is yours.

OLD 'GET-IN-WAR' SET STILL POURS OUT PROPAGANDA

Now They Whoop It Up for Charter, Bretton Woods

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., July 26—The largest of the pressure groups coöperating with the state and treasury departments in the million dollar propaganda campaign for the new league of nations charter and the Bretton Woods international financial agreements is the Americans United for World Organization.

This organization, dedicated to promoting American participation in international undertakings, is a consolidation of the Committee to Defend America, Fight for Freedom, and other groups formed to get the United States into the war. It is organized in 19 states and has chapters in several hundred cities.

Among the members of its board of directors are Sen. Ball (R., Minn.), Russell Davenport, David Dubinsky, Henry J. Kaiser, Mrs. Dwight Morrow, Philip Murray, Sen. Hatch (D., N. M.), William Green, Sumner Welles, and Adm. H. E. Yarnell.

U. S. Supplies Propagandists

Americans United held meetings in the cities in which it has chapters and organized other groups which met to hear speeches by propagandists supplied by the state and treasury departments. At these meetings petitions were initiated and resolutions adopted in a form suggested by the state and treasury departments.

Such memorials urging approval of the international program were sent to senators and representatives. Constituents also were influenced to write or telegraph their representatives in Washington. Altogether, the propagandists sought to convince senators and congressmen that the prairies back home were on fire for internationalism.

Rally in Washington

A meeting of 106 pressure groups was organized by Americans United for the indoctrination of speakers in the tenets of the international program. The meeting was held in Washington last February. It was addressed by speakers furnished by the state, treasury, and commerce departments. It was addressed also by a speaker representing the American Bankers' association at the time that organization was opposing the international monetary fund part of the Bretton Woods agreement. This meeting was held after Americans United had declared for Dumbarton Oaks but before it embraced Bretton Woods.

The New Deal propaganda technique was graphically illustrated by the employment of minority and organization of special new pressure groups. In opposing the international monetary fund, the American Bankers' association, representing the overwhelming majority of the bankers of the country, big and little, dealt the international program a heavy blow.

Treasury Works a Smear

The treasury department immediately launched a campaign smearing members of the American Bankers' association as financial magnates who were traducing their country's interest for private gain. An unqualified indorsement of Bretton Woods was obtained from the Independent Bankers' association, representing a minority of bankers, and this was ballyhooed by the treasury as the majority banking opinion. The indorsement was prepared in the treasury.

When, however, the American Bankers' association indorsed the administration reciprocal tariff program the action was hailed by the treasury propagandists as the judgment of the outstanding financial authorities best qualified to say whether an economic measure best serves the interest of the nation.

At the same time the American Bankers' association was subjected to the third degree by the treasury department. After a session with treasury officials in New York the bankers began to see things in a different light and as a result the association recanted and indorsed the international monetary fund with a few face saving amendments.

Same Trick Used in Industry

The government propaganda technique was invoked again when efforts to enlist the National Association of Manufacturers in support of Bretton Woods proved fruitless. A minority of manufacturers was organized under the name of the Business and Industry Committee for Bretton Woods. The chairmanship of the group was taken by Ralph E. Flanders, a member of the board of directors of Americans United. Then the government propaganda blazoned forth the claim that this group represented the majority of American business men.

Actually, the group represented shipping, export concerns, and manufacturers for export who would profit from increased foreign trade produced by the Bretton Woods institutions, backed by American gold.

In general the propaganda of the pressure groups adhered to the Democratic party line that the second World War was caused mainly by the failure of the United States to join the first league of nations in 1919 and by the Hawley-Smoot high protective tariff of 1930.

The propaganda swallowed whole the British economist John Maynard Keynes' argument in behalf of Bretton Woods that the United States was to blame for the economic disasters of the world in the '20s and '30s because we failed to remove our tariffs and failed to lend money on a vastly greater scale than we did. It ignored the fact that we drew no gold from the world in the '20s and that the deflation came first before the passage of the Smoot-Hawley tariff.

Untie me, you nitwit. I'm going to a mask ball, I tell you.

THIS DAY IN HISTORY

July 27—McClellan Rallies Union Army

Gen. George B. McClellan assumed command of the Union forces along the Potomac 84 years ago today and proceeded to perform a feat whose great brilliance has been obscured by his later unfortunate record.

America's habit of beginning to prepare adequately for a war only after it has entered it is not new. The forces which passed under McClellan's command on July 27, 1861, more than three months after the Civil war had begun, were new, undisciplined, poorly organized, and wretchedly equipped. Their morale was at a low ebb, for six days earlier they had been defeated by the Confederates at Bull Run and had fled ignominiously back to Washington, incidentally putting an end to the North's rosy dream of a short, easy war.

At this juncture the 34 year old McClellan, who had been dubbed "the young Napoleon" for his recent successes against the Confederates in the West Virginia mountains, was summoned to Washington to bring order out of this chaos.

His feat was that he succeeded. Using poor and discouraged troops as a nucleus, he created a new and great army of the Potomac in only three months. It had doubled in size [from about 50,000 to about 100,000] as recruits poured in, but the greatest contrast with the old army was in discipline, organization, and equipment.

Moreover, McClellan accomplished all this while the large undefeated army of the Confederacy was in northeastern Virginia and constituting a constant threat to Washington. A part of McClellan's energies went into the work of erecting fortifications and redoubts to protect the capital.

He was given time to complete his task partly because overoptimism was not an exclusively northern vice. Influential elements among the Confederates complacently believed that the war had been won at Bull Run.

3 CHICAGO YANKS DIRECT WAR ON MANILA CRIME

100 Murders Since Feb. 15 in City

BY ROBERT CROMIE
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

MANILA, P. I., July 26—A combined American and Filipino force directed by Col. J. P. Holland, a Chicagoan, is making a valiant fight against crime in this sprawling city whose population is now a million and a quarter.

Col. J. P. Holland

Since Feb. 15 there have been 100 murders [only one of the victims an American] and 38 deaths from poison liquor [only two victims were Filipinos]. In June alone 52 murders were reported with 12 suspects arrested; three kidnapings [one of the principal witness in a murder case]; 223 robberies by violence with 43 arrests; 60 burglaries with six arrests; 198 pockets picked with 45 arrests; and 1,292 cases of civilians illegally in possession of government property with 1,412 arrests.

It should be said, of course, that many of the murders were those of collaborationists or of accused collaborators.

Two Slain by Gang

Some cases were reminiscent of American gang methods, notably the murder of two alleged collaborators by a gang of nine, including the mayor of a near-by municipality. Eight pleaded guilty and received life sentences but the mayor's trial was delayed by the kidnaping of the chief witness.

There have been recent instances of house breakings in buildings occupied by American troops. The victims include five generals [four in one house] and a war correspondents' mess hall which yesterday lost all its silverware, plates, and a few table cloths to a prowler who probably plans on opening another night club to add to the 1,800 already in operation.

Police Chief by Request

Col. Holland, who is both provost marshal and police chief for Manila [he holds the latter post at the request of President Osmena to Gen. MacArthur], was handicapped at the start by the fact that the police department had to be built anew. He said much of the crime is directly traceable to the war's influence, since under Japanese occupation it was considered patriotic to rob and kill the Japs.

Holland, whose Chicago home is at 3117 Lowe av., has two Chicago assistants, Capt. Matt Murphy, 4634 Emerald av., who is a police captain on leave, and Capt. Edward J. Kane, 3600 N. Halsted st., former police sergeant at the Town Hall station.

The point has now been reached where police arrests in Manila about equal the number of offenses so that a marked improvement should be noted within the immediate future, they said.

REDS EXPECTING SOVIET AMERICA WITHIN 5 YEARS

BY WILLARD EDWARDS
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

New York, July 26—A prediction by Soviet Dictator Stalin that the United States faces an economic crisis in the post-war period evoked loud cheers at the opening of a secret convention of American communist leaders today.

The cheers swelled to gleeful shouts as speakers envisioned a soviet America within five years, based upon an overturn of the American system of government due to a workers' revolution.

Stalin's forecast was carried to the 93 delegates by William Z. Foster, new party leader, who recently displaced Earl Browder, party hero and leader since 1929. Browder was present and silent thruout the day altho he is scheduled to address the convention. He is in disgrace and expected to be purged from party councils because he advocated a post-war period of peace between capital and labor.

Sessions Are Secret

The sessions are being held behind closed doors but many of those present were eager to air the discussions, and a lengthy press release was made public tonight which stated that the national board of the Communist Political association had unanimously recommended that the Communist party be promptly reconstituted. It was dissolved in May, 1944, in line with Browder's policy of temporary appeasement.

Foster delivered a fiery speech, calling upon the "toiling masses" to overthrow "the American ruling class." He assailed Browder for what he termed "chronic tailism" which resulted "in hiding the party's face and avoidance of mass struggle."

"The party must recover its political initiative and communist boldness—even tho certain public officials, leaders of the A. F. of L. executive council, and the National Association of Manufacturers may not like it," Foster said.

The biggest problem ahead, he continued, rested in the 1946 congressional elections "which will be marked by a reactionary drive to grab control of congress."

Foster was bitter in his reaction to criticisms that the Communist party appeared to be arising from its grave only after soviet Russia had ceased to need the military aid of the United States in the war against Germany. He asserted the American press was attempting to distort the communist position in regard to the war against Japan but he did not call upon the soviets to enter that war.

Hear Negro Communist

"Comrade Browder," he declared, "attempted to fasten a system of right wing bourgeois liberalism upon our party; a liberalism so conservative that on many questions it put us far to the right of Roosevelt, of the liberal press, and of the main sections of the labor movement. His policies were fast bringing our party into a major internal crisis."

American Communists, he said, must be "retrained in the fundamentals of Marxism-Leninism." The leadership must give "far greater representation to trade union leaders and shop workers."

Benjamin Davis, Negro communist leader and New York City councilman, whose indorsement for reëlection by Tammany hall and subsequent repudiation has caused turmoil in the Democratic party here, was another speaker. He outlined a communist program for the south in which the Negro would play a prominent part.

Herbert Phillips, Chicago packinghouse worker; Arnold Johnson of Ohio, and Josh Lawrence, Negro maritime worker of New York City, were presiding officers at the convention. New national officers will be nominated tomorrow and a new national leadership elected on Saturday.

JOEY, 5, MEETS LOTS OF PEOPLE AND COOLS FEET

There were a lot of people at the North av. beach yesterday when Joey Lawson, 5, of 3708 Wabansia av. became separated from his mother, Irene, and his brother, John Henry, 7. But there were more where he was found—the northeast corner of Monroe and Clark sts.

A squad of police from Central station found Joey. He was standing on the corner, wearing blue shorts and a wistful expression. His feet, he told the policemen, were hot from the sidewalks. He was tired from his three mile walk. And he missed his mamma.

The squad took him to police headquarters at 11th and State sts., where he was given a bucket of water to cool off his feet. Lifeguards at the beach were notified and located the mother thru the loud speaker system there.

HOARDING WASTE PAPER FOR FALL HAMPERS DRIVE

Hoarding of waste paper in garages and basements for city and school campaigns next fall is hampering the summer playground paper drives, William H. Bennett, chairman of the drive committee, said yesterday.

Several instances have come to light of paper being collected by groups and individuals for storage thru the summer until school begins. While this will help build up impressive collection figures in the fall, it delays use of the paper as container for war materials.

"Waste paper is needed now," said Bennett. He urged Chicagoans to "let the fall collection take care of itself" and concentrate on the summer campaign.

REPRESENTATIVES of fifty countries met at San Francisco and drafted The Charter Of The United Nations—"to save succeeding generations from the scourge of war." This document is not magical. It does provide opportunity for all peoples, by their attitudes and contributions, to aid in making it succeed.

We work hard to wage war. The price of peace, too, is vigilance and labor.

Fortunately, for the arduous task of improving human relationships, the airplane has already revolutionized the effective nearness of nations. The spearhead of our new era is international air transportation.

An obligation is imposed upon the people and organizations which have the privilege of engaging in international commerce under the flag of their country. They enjoy a direct and more frequent opportunity of acquaintanceship and understanding with the people of other countries and can lead in promoting the enduring principles of The Charter.

The government of the United States has given the American Airlines System the privilege of engaging in overseas commerce. Thus it becomes one of the principal "American Flag" lines in international air transportation.

We are aware of the responsibility on behalf of this nation which goes with this assignment and we shall fulfill that responsibility with diligence and sincerity.

INSISTS TRUMAN BAN U. S. LOANS FOR COMMUNISM

Eastland Cites Weakness in New Charter

BY WILLIAM MOORE
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., July 26—Sen. Eastland [D., Miss.] gave the senate stern warning today that the billions America has provided for global spending under the new league of nations charter must not be used to promote communism in Europe.

Eastland announced he would vote for ratification of the charter despite what he called its "grave weakness," but called upon President Truman to prevent American subsidization of Russian dominated communist states.

"Frankly," he said, "I do not like what is happening to Poland, Romania, Jugoslavia, Hungary, and the other states of southern and eastern Europe. This war was fought to crush totalitarian tyranny. American lives were sacrificed by the thousands, America's resources were used up and given away, all with the assurance to the American people that we were fighting for democracy and liberty.

Contagious Evil

"American resources must not be used to promote communism in Europe. . . .

"I do not say we must not cooperate with Russia. This we must do. But I say the resources of my country must not be used to subsidize these Communist controled states, beginning at the Baltic and reaching down to the Black sea and over to the Adriatic.

"Our resources must not be used to assist them in becoming strongly entrenched. Communism is a contagious evil, and if we permit communism to sweep over Europe, then we certainly have lost the war. Then the blood, the tears, and the sacrifices of the American people will have been in vain."

Demands Press Freedom

Eastland reminded the senate that the billions just authorized for international spending and lending thru such institutions as the world bank and monetary fund and the export-import bank were all presented as a part of the global system of which the new league of nations is the keystone.

But he said he has confidence that President Truman will not permit the money to be spent on communism. The Mississippi senator did not explain, however, how he expects the President to prevent the misuse of the money, much of which is already earmarked for Russia.

Eastland urged that President Truman immediately gain the objectives stated in the charter by forcing a guarantee of the freedom of the press. On his recent visit to Europe, he said, he found large sections of eastern and southern Europe from which American reporters and American senators were barred.

Ferguson Barred

Sen. Ferguson [R., Mich.], who also toured Europe, told of being forbidden to enter the part of Germany that is under Russian control.

"Representatives of the country that saved Russia," Eastland answered, "were unable to enter the territories freed by American soldiers."

Eastland recommended that President Truman use American bargaining power to gain entrance for Americans, that this country may know whether or not tyranny slavery and concentration camps are continuing.

Capper to Vote for It

Venerable Sen. Capper [R., Kas.], who insisted upon the senate reservations that prevented American entrance into the old league of nations, said he would vote for the charter altho it is no guarantee of a peaceful world.

"If Russia, the United States, and Great Britain can work together," he said, "the charter will succeed. If they cannot, or do not—well, the attempt is worth trying."

Telling of his hopes for the charter, he said:

"I shall even resolve certain doubts still existing in my mind, such as the extent of the power of the United States representative on the security council shall have to put the United States into a major war without ratification by congress."

TRUMAN PUTS CRIMP IN HOUSE JUNKET PLANS

Washington, D. C., July 26 (AP)—The White House put a damper today on "junket" plans of many members of congress who had hoped to spend the congressional recess touring the world.

In effect, the President said stay home or pay your own expenses unless the trip has formal approval of congress.

An estimated 100 house members had arranged official and unofficial foreign tours between now and the reopening of congress on Oct. 8. Just how many will be affected by President Truman's directive on the subject was uncertain.

The new regulation was understood to have resulted from an avalanche of applications to the war department for clearance for free or cut rate trips.

Safety Aviation Fuel Tested

Demonstration of safety of new aviation fuel developed by Standard Oil of New Jersey. Both fluids were poured down the troughs. Ordinary fuel caught fire when fumes ignited. POLISH AGENCY, CRITIC OF REDS, ENDS U.S. SERVICE

News Organization to Close Office Soon

New York, July 26 [Special]—The Polish Telegraph agency, 25 year old news service, in a June 15 dispatch from inside Poland gave details of economic distress and repression by Russians. The report was one of its last.

It was learned today that the agency has discontinued United States operations and will close its New York office within a few days. Polpress News, created several months ago by the soviet dominated Lublin government of Poland, will expand its American facilities.

The outgoing agency was established after the last war as an official government world wide news agency. It has supported many Polish groups and American civic leaders in this country who protested soviet domination of Poland.

"Soviets Rule Poland"

In its June 15 report from Poland it said:

"The real administration of Poland is in the hands of soviet military authorities and security police and little heed is paid by the Russians to the so-called provisional government. The security police recently executed five Poles at Dombrowa in one day without trial in the presence of their families on charges of belonging to the home army. Arrests, concentration camps, and shootings have become daily occurrences."

Another agency of the former government, the Polish government information center, previously suspended its operations because of American and British diplomatic recognition of the Lublin government which later shifted to Warsaw.

Praises Lublin Group

Both this agency and the Polish Telegraph had distributed news and information critical of the Lublin-Warsaw regime, part of it being relayed thru the now discarded Polish exile government in London.

The sole remaining source of official Polish news is Polpress. Altho its officials denied today that any propaganda had been distributed, its "news" dispatches have been highly laudatory of the Lublin-Warsaw regime.

Polpress, which recently shifted its American headquarters to well furnished offices in a New York skyscraper, sent a number of representatives to the San Francisco conference, where they virtually took over several meetings between the American press and soviet diplomats.

Burns Slowly

Lighted matches were thrust into a new safety aviation fuel in a demonstration yesterday at the Chicago fire department drill school, 720 Vernon Park pl. It failed to explode.

The fuel, which has the same rating as 100 octane gasoline, caught fire slowly only when dumped from a glass container smashed against a brick wall, thus spilling the bottle's contents over a blaze on the ground.

The new fuel is the product of the Standard Oil company of New Jersey. A. J. Blackwood, chief of the fuels research section of that firm, represented his company at the public demonstration attended by fire department officials and newspaper men.

In the event of airplane crashes, Blackwood said, the safety fuel will enable passengers to escape from the wreckage before fire breaks out.

He said he saw little opportunity for using the fuel in present type automobile engines unless a new method is found to vaporize it without adding an injection system.

Postoffice 170 Years Old; Its Anniversary Observed

The postoffice department marked its 170th birthday anniversary yesterday. Continental mail service was inaugurated July 26, 1775, with Benjamin Franklin as the first postmaster general.

TRUMAN TOURS AMERICAN LINES FOR 100 MILES

BY HENRY WALES
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

MANNHEIM, Germany, July 26—Not as commander in chief but as President of the United States, Harry Truman motored 100 miles between lines of American soldiers from Frankfurt, thru Darmstadt to Mannheim today. He did not ride alone with aides but shared an automobile with Gen. Eisenhower.

He did not use an open car but traveled inside a closed sedan. He made every effort not to "steal the picture" at the various stopping places but, instead, left the limelight to Ike and the general's commanding units which he inspected.

Gets Laugh at Private

Mr. Truman's affability and homey characteristics seemed to impress the staff officers and GIs. The President in a soft hat and gray business suit chatted with the men all along the line.

He got a laugh while reviewing a rigid line of veterans of the 3d armored division when one 1st class private left a gap wider than usual in the close spacing. As an iron faced sergeant bawled out the doughboy the President noticed the soldier was out of alignment because his big pet police dog had sidled up and crouched at his feet.

Speaks to Missourians

The President made a brief speech to the 84th's 251 enlisted men and 11 officers from his native state of Missouri and said he hoped they would find things "back home" the way they had left them. Senior officer of the Missouri contingent was Maj. Runner L. Ellis of Crane, Mo.

The 82d air borne division was replete with white gloves and sweltering white nylon scarves twisted around their necks as Eisenhower's SHAEF band played the "Star Spangled Banner" and other American airs.

German civilians thronged the streets and the highways to watch the spectacle of the United States President touring the countryside with only traffic and military police to clear the road.

ACCUSES PETAIN OF '39 PLOTTING TO SEIZE POWER

PARIS, July 26 (AP)—A surprise witness at the trial of Marshal Petain on a charge of treason, testified today that Petain was formulating plans as early as 1939 to become head of the French government.

The witness, Armand Gazel, was couselor of the French embassy in Spain while Petain was there as ambassador.

"I will speak objectively and without hatred," he said, launching into his relations with Petain after the marshal had been sent to Spain, perhaps because Generalissimo Franco once had been his military pupil.

Before October, 1939, Gazel testified, Petain already had drawn up lists of men he was considering as ministers in his prospective government.

Tells of Cabinet Lists

Daladier was then prime minister. There was no question in those days of the "phoney war" or a change in the French government. The prosecution alleges that Petain, while still in Spain, made a statement that "next May, they are going to have need of me."

Gazel said nothing of that remark, but testified that on two occasions Petain showed him lists of men he said would become his ministers. Laval's name appeared on both lists, Gazel testified.

The diplomat said Petain expected to gain power thru legal means. He quoted the marshal as saying, "When I become head of the government, it will not be the result of a coup d' etat."

One part of the Petain indictment contends that the marshal planned to overthrow the government and that he needed the military defeat of France to realize the project.

Petain 'Cold' to Franco

Tho he was a state witness Gazel cut some of the ground from under the accusation that Petain was on friendly relations with Franco and the Germans while in Spain.

Only "cold politeness" existed between Petain and Franco, Gazel said. He described their first meeting at Burgos and asserted that Franco hardly spoke.

Marshal Petain conducted a monologue," the witness said. "He was worried over having shaken hands with the German ambassador at an official function."

GAMBLER'S FINE QUASHED

A fine of $200 against Joseph Spadavecchia, 17, imposed July 16 on a charge of keeping a gambling establishment in a notions store at 707 S. Pulaski rd., was vacated yesterday by Judge J. M. Braude in Boys court when the youth reported he had sold the store for $125.

MOTHER PLEADS FOR LIFE OF 2D CHICAGO YANK

His mother appealed to the army yesterday to stay the execution of a second Chicago soldier, Pvt. James Howard, 33, Negro, who was sentenced April 3 in Paris by a court martial to be hanged for the murder of an American army police officer.

Pvt. Howard wrote his mother, Mrs. Katie Andrews, 11306 S. Ashland av., that the officer sought to intervene after the soldier wounded a French policeman in a Paris cafe quarrel. Howard pleaded self-defense.

Meanwhile Mrs. George Reichl, 66, of 5343 School st., prepared to submit to an operation in St. Joseph's hospital after she was informed that her son, Pvt. Edward J. Reichl, 39, had been granted a reprieve until his death sentence can be reviewed. Pvt. Reichl, in Fort Leavenworth, Kas., was convicted of the slaying of an army sergeant at Hamilton field, Cal.

APPEAL TO END INLAND STEEL STRIKE SPURNED

Despite appeals by union officials, an army officer, and a department of labor conciliator, employes of the Inland Steel corporation, East Chicago, Ind., last night refused to end a three day strike which shut down the Inland tin mill and the cold strip mill.

Approximately 1,000 workers were made idle by the walkout. The strike was called because six mechanics, on the day shift, were directed to work one night a week on the 4 to 12 middle shift.

Can. BORDERLINE ANEMIA* Sap Your Stamina and Strength?

THE answer is yes! Borderline Anemia can steal away your pep and vigor—can take all the fun out of life. Borderline Anemia makes people pale and listless.

And medical records say that thousands and thousands of men—as many as 68% of women—suffer from a Borderline Anemia resulting from a ferro-nutritional deficiency of the blood.

You Need Big Red Blood Cells to Release Energy

If your oxygen-carrying, energy-releasing red cells aren't sufficiently large and rich, you can't hope to keep your full vigor. Your blood is the "supply line" of energy to every muscle, every fibre of your body.

Better Blood, More Energy with Ironized Yeast

Yes, if you grow fatigued with little effort—if you're continually pale and peplees—you may have Borderline Anemia. But there is a way to improved vitality—easy-to-take Ironized Yeast Tablets can help you!

Of course your condition might be due to other causes, so your doctor should be consulted regularly. If you have a Borderline Anemia*, Ironized Yeast Tablets will help you by building up your blood . . . by renewing your energy.

Start taking Ironized Yeast Tablets today to look better, to feel better, to be better. Insist on genuine Ironized Yeast. At all drug stores.

*Resulting from a ferro-nutritional blood deficiency.

Energy-Building Blood

This is what the doctor sees through his microscope looking at blood rich in energy-elements. Note big, plentiful red cells that carry oxygen to release energy to every muscle, limb, tissue.

Borderline Anemia

Thousands have blood like this—and never know it. Note puny size and irregular shape of red cells. Blood like this can't generate the energy you need! Only sturdy blood can give you top energy.

EVER SIP A $2,000,000 OLD FASHIONED?

• Here's the recipe below! We call it a $2,000,000 "dream of a drink"—because that's what Fleischmann invested in grains, skill and research before we released one golden bottle of this rich, luxurious, straight bourbon whiskey. We make it in limited amounts. We have to—it's so delicious!

FIRST, GET FLEISCHMANN'S BOND THEN DO THIS!

1
Place ½ level teaspoon of granulated sugar in Old Fashioned glass! Add 2 or 3 dashes of Angostura bitters, and just enough water to dissolve the sugar!

2

3

'PARTY CIRCLE' BILLS RAPPED BY GREEN IN VETO

Governor Calls Voting Change 'Tricky'

reviewed the history of Illinois voting. Since 1891 ballots have been supplied at public expense. Since then proposed constitutional amendments were printed either in a separate column of ballots or on separate ballots.

Green said that at all times since 1891 the voters have known that the adoption or rejection of an amendment depended upon their votes or failure to vote.

Barrett's opinion said that the historical resume demonstrates that at the time of the adoption of the constitution in 1870 "party circle" voting was unknown in Illinois. Thus the authors of the basic law could not have contemplated such a method of voting alterations, he said.

Called Vicious Scheme

"The provisions [of the party circle bills] constitute a vicious, craftily conceived scheme designed to confuse and ensnare the electors," the attorney general stated.

"These provisions contrive to mislead the voter and to cause him to unwittingly and inadvertently cast a vote he did not intend. These bills attempt to legalize the perpetration of this fraud and deception.

"They also seek to substitute the desires of a political party for the considered judgment of the voter on the important issue of changes in our basic law.

Foul Blow at Freedom

"These bills strike a foul blow at the freedom and integrity of the ballot. They embody a strategem which reeks with the savor of machine politics and would substitute the dictates of party conclave for the independent appraisement of the individual elector.

"The preservation of our constitutional and representative processes of government demands that the franchise of the ballot be kept free from all such artifice and legerdemain. An honest ballot is the symbol of true and good republican government. Deception and trickery in the elective process has been the tool of the dictatorships."

Signs Gateway Bill

Gov. Green signed a bill providing for placing the gateway amendment on the November, 1946, ballots, to the left of the candidates' columns, in the usual way. He has approved an appropriation bill to spend $40,000 for pamphlets to explain the gateway amendment, which he indorsed after the legislature killed a proposal for a constitutional convention to rewrite the organic law.

His veto of a bill to permit the state and local governments to enter into collective bargaining agreements with employes and union agents was based on two grounds:

"Let us assume that such agreement was made between sessions of the legislature. It would be without effect because under our constitution wages cannot be paid except in pursuance of an appropriation made by the legislative branch.

Vetoes Highway Bills

"Collective bargaining agreements must necessarily include within their scope the employment and discharge of employes—a subject matter completely covered by the civil service laws. Such a conflict would eventually result in emasculating either this statute or the present civil service laws."

Other bills vetoed were intended to:

Appropriate $320,000 from general funds for the construction of roads in Macoupin, Jackson, Coles, and Cumberland counties, which Green said would be a departure from long standing policy that all road improvements should be integrated and paid for from road funds.

Appropriate $25,000 for a commission to codify the motor vehicle laws and investigate existing laws.

Amend civil service laws of cities, including additional job preference to war veterans. He said he acted solely upon the urgent request of the Chicago Civil Service commission.

Vetoes Library Rate Cut

Cut in half the tax rate for county libraries in conformity with the new 100 per cent tax assessment program.

Among the bills approved was one appropriating 10 million dollars for state grants to local housing authorities for slum clearance and housing projects. Half of the money may be used for Chicago.

He also signed a bill which provides that motorists involved in accidents causing death, bodily injury or property damages exceeding $50 after next Jan. 1 must report them within 10 days and show financial responsibility, or face suspension of their drivers' licenses. Written reports must be filed with the state department of public works and buildings. The driver or car owner can establish ability to pay for damages by providing he was covered by insurance or by depositing security.

REVEALS DEATH OF FLYERS AT GERMAN GRAVE

DARMSTADT, Germany, July 26 (AP)—A cemetery caretaker testified to a military commission today that "some" of six American flyers were still alive and "moaning a little" when they were brought to him for burial last August after being stoned and mobbed by German civilians.

The caretaker, Jakob Raab, questioned by Lt. Col. Leon Jaworski of Houston, Tex., testified that blood was flowing from a pushcart in which a group of Hitler youth brought the airmen to the cemetery. "Those flyers still breathing," he said, "were finished off with a club."

Prosecutor Ends Case

Jaworski, prosecutor in the trial of two German women and nine men charged with killing the defenseless Americans last Aug. 26 in the village of Russelsheim, a few miles from here, finished his case today and said the trial might end tomorrow.

In the first day of the hearing yesterday, 14 witnesses testified that the two women defendants led the attackers, one of them yelling: "Kill the dogs! Don't have any pity on them!"

Jaworski told the commission, headed by Brig. Gen. Garrison N. Davison, former West Point football coach, that the flyers were captured after being shot down in a raid on Osnabrueck, and were being marched thru Russelsheim when the mob attacked.

Tries to Slash Wrists

One witness said a flyer cried out: "We didn't bomb Russelsheim! We bombed Osnabrueck."

One of the accused men, Josef Hargen, came to court with both wrists bandaged. Guards said he had slashed his wrists with a piece of bedspring.

U. S. TO CLOSE MANY BERLIN NIGHT CLUBS

BERLIN, July 26 (AP)—Military government authorities have decided to curb night life in the American zone of Berlin to prevent any trend toward "promiscuity and perversion" among the city's people.

Twelve to 16 night clubs are operating in the area and officials said most of them would be closed. Those permitted to remain open will be placed under strict supervision.

The German army uniform and all other military garb were forbidden as German dress in the soviet zone by an order signed by Marshal Georgi Zhukov.

DAY by DAY on the FARM by GAIL COMPTON

July 26, 1945

RECENT heat has been a boon to the men at the farm. It has permitted work to go ahead full speed and the fields echo with the rumble of different machines. Hay is being baled and the first wheat is being devoured by the combine.

A visit to the Wheaton farm yesterday found one man driving the combine, stopping once in a while to empty the hopper into two grain wagons stationed in the field. The yield of wheat is good, but trouble is being experienced in the harvesting. The wet spring caused unusually rank growth, and the straw is so tall and tough that the combine is not doing a perfect job. The straw interferes with the threshing of the wheat; as a result, some kernels are being lost.

Quirks in Machinery

The machine was tightened down to get more of the kernels, but then the men found the grain was being crushed. The cutter bar has to be set about six inches off the ground to avoid clipping the clover growing in the wheat. There is an excellent clover stand and the field will give a good hay yield next year.

When the grain wagons are filled a tractor hauls them to the granary. This speeds operation, and the work is being accomplished twice as fast as it would have been if horses were used.

In an adjacent hay field there was great activity. One man was cutting the clover, one raking it into windrows, one running the hay baler, and two picking up the bales for barn storage.

Hay Job Speeded

The bales were being lifted from the field to the bed of the truck with the pick-up attachment used with favor for several years. This machine grabs the 70 pound bale with a set of teeth and elevates it to the truck, where a man pulls it into place with a bale hook. The machine saves a back breaking job and speeds the haying operation considerably.

The big truck will carry a five ton load of baled hay with little trouble. It is a great improvement over the method of stacking a ton or two of loose hay on the old fashioned wagon. At the barn the bales are dropped onto an elevator that carries them up into the mow, where they are stacked. Every possible mechanical aid is being used by the men this season to make quick and efficient work of harvesting the forage. The methods now employed are a far cry from the difficult task of haying with old time equipment.

Some trouble is being experienced with the one man baler. Clover dust gathers on the working parts in a fine layer. This dust heats quickly, and several times has begun to smolder. The operator has spotted the dust flame each time so far and put it out. Otherwise there is a danger it might catch fire, drop in the field, and fire the hay.

The GARDEN by Ben Markland

ONE common topic among gardeners is the practicality of planting peas in midsummer for fall harvest. For maximum quality and yield, peas demand cool weather and moist soil, such as we have in northern Illinois from March 15 until early June. It is possible to sow peas in early August to mature in early October, thereby giving the plants a chance to grow thru late summer, when we have more rains and cooler weather.

An Aug. 1 planting in the farm gardens in 1943 provided about half the yield of a spring planting in the same plot, using Little Marvel variety.

One experienced gardener reports he has had excellent success with Creole variety of peas planted from July 25 to Aug. 10. This is a smooth bush pea. The furrows should be heavily watered before planting, and treatment of the seed with legume inoculating material is recommended.

BENNER LOSES FIGHT TO KEEP POST AS DEAN

Urbana, Ill., July 26 [Special]—At the conclusion of a two day hearing the University of Illinois board of trustees today upheld the decision of President Arthur Cutts Willard not to reappoint Dr. Thomas E. Benner as dean of the college of education when his term expires Sept. 1.

Dr. Willard notified Benner of this intention a year ago on the advice of nine deans and administrative officers who charged the college of education lacked effective leadership and had failed to develop an effective program in teaching and research. Benner appealed to the trustees to try to override the president.

The board ruled that an "atmosphere of conflict and dispute which will not redound to the interest of the university would be perpetuated by the retention of Dr. Benner as dean." The trustees said Benner could continue to hold a post of professor in the school of education.

HILL SENTENCED TO 2 YEARS IN TAX BRIBERY

Springfield, Ill., July 26 (AP)—Edwin J. Hill, 37, convicted of bribing and conspiring to bribe an internal revenue agent, was sentenced today in United States District court to two years in prison and fined $900. Judge Charles G. Briggle overruled a motion for a new trial.

Hill, former supervisor of the state revenue department's taxpayer service section here, was found guilty Saturday of paying $300 to Leo A. Dehen, deputy United States internal revenue collector here, to reduce income taxes of Peter Machino, a Springfield tavern operator. The prosecution said Dehen had acted under instruction of his superiors and the federal bureau of investigation.

Hill also was convicted of conspiring with Machino and Mike Gouvas, manager of a Springfield shoe shine establishment. Machino previously pleaded guilty. Gouvas was convicted of conspiracy charges.

N. J. GRAND JURY ACCUSES 34 OF UNION FUND PLOT

Paterson, N. J., July 26 (AP)—A Passaic county grand jury today handed up 33 indictments naming 34 former officials of local 669, United Automobile workers [CIO] on charges of conspiring to mishandle funds of the union.

One blanket indictment charged all 34 ex-officials with conspiracy, while the others named either Albert Capone, former president, or George Tremper, former financial secretary, with conspiring with each of the 32 other former officials.

Thirty-two of the same former officials of the union, which claims to represent 17,000 employes of the five Wright Aeronautical corporation plants in the Paterson area were indicted July 11 by the same grand jury which voted a total of 209 bills charging embezzlement, aiding and abetting false pretenses, and false pretenses.

U. S. PAY ROLL SOARS 126,130 IN MONTH; TOTAL NOW 3,543,326

Washington, D. C., July 26 (AP)—Sen. Byrd [D., Va.], a consistent advocate of cutting the federal pay roll, reported today that government employment rose by 126,130 in June.

As chairman of the joint committee on reduction of nonessential federal expenditures, he announced that during last month 16,081 employes were added to the public pay roll within the continental United States, plus 110,049 extra employes hired by the war department abroad, for a grand total of 3,543,326 on June 30.

Byrd estimated the additional pay roll expense at $252,098,000 annually. He said that when the Japanese war ends, the federal pay roll should be cut to less than 1,000,000 employes.

Mrs. J. D. M'Hugh Separation Bill Names Jane Doe

James D. McHugh, 49, owner of a construction company bearing his name at 6449 South Park av., is charged with adultery with "Jane Doe" in an amended bill for separate maintenance filed yesterday in Circuit court by Attorneys McGlvney and Blake in behalf of McHugh's estranged wife, Helen, 47, of 7958 S. Green st.

The adultery charged in the bill allegedly occurred on Oct. 1, 2, 3, and 4 in the Waldorf-Astoria hotel in New York. The bill also says that McHugh's company has government contracts amounting to "millions of dollars," and that he lavished costly gifts upon "Miss Doe." These included an automobile and furs, the bill says.

Mrs. McHugh, the amended bill says, learned of her husband's alleged infidelity July 11, 1944, when she separated from him. Her original bill, filed last August, charged desertion and nonsupport. The couple have two children, James Jr., 18, and John, 16.

WOMAN REPORTS HOME BURGLARY

Mrs. Joseph Hannapel, 9642 Hoyne av., reported to police that burglars yesterday stole a watch valued at $50 and a check for $47.53 from her home.

Upham to Make Inquiry About Payroller Bets

City Controler Robert B. Upham said yesterday that he would defer possible disciplinary action against Joseph Nowak, 40, of 2834 Keeley av., a bond clerk in the controler's office, arrested Wednesday on a gambling charge, until he can conduct a personal investigation.

Nowak, a Democratic precinct captain, is now on vacation. He was arrested by detectives from the central police station, on the complaint of Dan Wilkinson, 68, of 2909 Washington blvd., also a Democratic precinct captain and a deputy clerk of the Superior court.

Wilkinson said he had placed bets on horses with Nowak, and with another man whose name he did not know, in the Colonel Grill, a tavern at 125 N. Clark st. on July 18.

His horses came in, Wilkinson told Police Commissioner Allman and Capt. Thomas Duffy, winning him $467. But neither Nowak nor the other man paid off, he said.

CLAIM RED ARMS AND MEN FLOW INTO BULGARIA

Called Threat to Turkey and Greece

BY CLAY GOWRAN
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

ISTANBUL, Turkey, July 23 [Delayed]—The full extent of extensive military preparations by Russian army in the Balkans and Black sea coastal region was disclosed today by highly reliable officials and observers of other countries.

Most of the Russian preparations obviously are concentrated against Turkey and Greece. Many observers still believe the Russian activity is principally designed to cow the two nations into acquiescence in the soviet desire to expand Moscow dominated Bulgaria. But the thoroness and extent of the soviet preparations have observers worried.

The names of the men who gave this information cannot be disclosed at this time when all Turkey waits in fear of a concrete Russian move to back up the verbal demands made against this nation a month ago by the Kremlin. Observers from other nations verified the information as correct on the basis of their own findings.

360,000 Troops in Bulgaria

In Bulgaria today there are an estimated 360,000 Russian soldiers and Russian equipped Bulgarians, compared with only about 80,000 Russians there a few months ago. Most of the Red army troops are veterans of the 3d Ukrainian army, who have streamed back into Bulgaria from Austria. Observers report that for weeks thousands upon thousands have streamed thru the Bulgarian city of Plovdiv, fanning out southward toward the border, along all roads.

Just where they have gone is unknown, but it is verified that there is no indication that any of these troops are being withdrawn to Russia. Large quantities of supplies, especially munitions, are flowing into Bulgaria from Russia thru the Black sea ports of Varna and Burgas, and into Romania via Constanza.

The Russians are installing an elaborate air defense system in Bulgaria and Romania. The latest type Russian anti-aircraft guns are steadily arriving at the ports and are being emplaced around the cities' air fields and in other vital zones. Constanza especially is well protected by new weapons.

Build Border Forts

Red army engineer regiments and Bulgarian army labor battalions are rushing repair of the old fortifications and construction of new ones along the Turkish and Greek frontiers. Heavy Russian artillery recently was moved up within 60 kilometers [37 miles] of these borders.

Other engineers are working at top speed expanding the Bulgarian air base network, already heavily developed during the German occupation. Observers believe the network now could accommodate 5,000 planes, and the work is still going on.

The Russians are not neglecting the remainder of the Black sea coast. Observers report defense work is under way all along the littoral from Batum, on the Turco-Russian border at the east end of the Black sea, to Majura, on the Turco-Bulgarian frontier.

Yellow chicken feathers were attached to the tails of 25 white crowned and white throated sparrows to aid science's quest for the reason why birds fly north in the summer and south in the winter. Dr. Albert Wolfson, Northwestern university zoölogy instructor, who released the birds, said he is depending on the public to help him keep track of them.

THE TOUCANETTE

Part of a recent shipment from Venezuela, three toucanettes were placed on exhibit yesterday at Lincoln park zoo. Because of its large bill and short tail, the bird gives an appearance of flying backwards when in the air. Other recent arrivals at the zoo include different species of tanagers, bronze wing fruit doves.

U. S. TO INTERN FREED BUNDISTS UNTIL HEARINGS

Philadelphia, Pa., July 26 (AP)—Fifteen German-American bundists who have asked the United States District court in Washington, D. C., to enjoin Atty. Gen. Clark from any proceedings to deport them will be held as internees until given hearings. This was announced today by the United States immigration and naturalization service.

The men were freed by a Supreme court decision overruling their conviction on charges of conspiring to advise evasion and resistance to the draft act. They contend they are naturalized American citizens and their citizenship has been unlawfully revoked because of their connection with the bund.

Immigration officials said the fifteen would appear before a special hearing board, and the findings would determine if they are to be deported or paroled.

BREWERY'S SALE NETS U. S. $6,500 ON DRUGGAN TAX

The government collected $6,500 of the money owed it by Terry Druggan, prohibition era racketeer, yesterday thru the sale of the dilapidated Standard Brewing company building at Campbell av. and Roosevelt rd.

Druggan, reported to be living on a farm near Lake Zurich, owes the government $327,953.81 in income taxes for 1923 and 1924.

Ownership of the property was traced when a concern sought to buy the building. Only $13,000 was left after assessments and liens were deducted from the $63,489 purchase price, and the government had to split it with the estate of Peter Sissman, a former attorney for Druggan, which had an $85,000 mortgage on the property.

ARMY MEDICAL DEPARTMENT IS 170 YEARS OLD

Celebrations at army hospitals today will mark the 170th anniversary of the army medical department, founded in 1775 by the continental congress at the request of Gen. George Washington. The department has expanded to a personnel strength of more than 600,000.

In connection with the observance, Col. John R. Hall, commanding officer of Gardiner General hospital, disclosed that the hospital has treated almost 40,000 patients, since it was activated in October, 1943.

Of 261 cases of pneumonia at the hospital in 1944, only one resulted fatally. Surgeons performed 675 major operations there in the last six months with the loss of only one patient.

BRITISH REPORT DISCLOSES LOW NIGERIA WAGES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, July 26—Native apprentices employed by J. N. Zarpos & Co., operators of bus routes in Nigeria, are paid 10 cents a day during a two year learning period, according to the latest information available here.

In addition, the apprentices get a daily living allowance of 5 cents. Mechanics for this firm receive 40 cents daily and bus drivers 45 cents. These two classes of workmen also get an additional 50 per cent living allowance.

These wage rates are from the 1943 annual report of the Nigeria department of labor, published this year. Presumably the 1945 report won't be out until 1947.

[Attention has been directed to Nigerian labor troubles thru a two month strike by workers in the African colony. They are reported to demand a minimum wage of 50 cents a day, saying the cost of living has risen 200 per cent, and an end of inequalities among English and non-English workers. British officials have suspended newspapers, arrested strike leaders, and suspended constitutional government.]

Firm's Figures Cited

The report also reveals that native laborers employed by Pamol, Ltd., in the Calabar and Cameroons areas are paid 15 cents a day and that tappers or fruit collectors get 18 cents.

Laborers for this firm in the Warribenin area, which operates palm and rubber estates, get 19 cents, with the two other categories getting 20 cents. This firm's workers do not receive an extra cost of living allowance, according to the labor department report.

Native winchmen employed on Lagos docks by the United Africa company are paid 70 cents a day, with straw bosses getting 60 cents. The report makes no mention of a living allowance.

In 1943, the British Overseas Airways corporation established new minimum wage scales for messenger or engineering boys of $4 a month, and $80 a month for chief clerks and engineers.

Printers' Scale Disclosed

In September, 1943, a new "printers' charter" was signed between the master printers of Lagos and the Printers Technical union of Nigeria. It fixed the minimum wage for female book binders at $72 a year. Native laborers were raised from $72 a year to a minimum of $96. Skilled printers received an increase from $120 to a minimum of $144 a year, while the minimum for printing foremen stood at $216 annually. In addition to wages, the workers receive a cost of living allowance, the amount of which is not specified in the report.

These workers employed by private firms are not among the thousands on strike in Nigeria. The strikers are civil servants employed by the Nigerian government in the fields of communications and transportation.

Strike Reports Disputed

There are discrepancies between newspaper accounts of the strike sent from Lagos and statements by the British colonial office. Reports from Lagos stated 150,000 natives were out but the colonial office gave the figure as just over 30,000.

Reports from Lagos also stated the minimum wage of strikers was 18 cents a day but the colonial office said this was the rate before the war, that the minimum for government employes had been raised to 40 cents a day plus a cost of living allowance of about 50 per cent.

Reports from Nigeria said the strikers were demanding a minimum of 50 cents a day plus a 50 per cent increase in the cost of living allowance but the colonial office stated it was not known here what the strikers were asking.

On May 25, 1944, it was stated in the London Daily Herald that immediately before the war some native workers were paid as little as 15 cents a day, with "grown men getting as little as 6 cents" in some cases. The Herald article stated the highest obtainable wage was 84 cents daily paid to first class engine drivers.

The colonial office said that the rate for skilled railwaymen now is $12 a week but that some members of the senior technical staff get as much as $1,600 a year. The clerical wages among African employes begin at $96 annually plus a 50 per cent living allowance, the colonial office said.

STEAL BATTERIES AND GAS COUPONS

Burglars who broke into his gasoline station at 1850 Irving Park rd. stole three batteries and coupons for 1,040 gallons of gas, Guy Rutherford told police yesterday.

"Your brother's quite a host! He's spent most of our visit at the phone arranging for our train reservations back home!"

TELLS REFUSAL TO ASSIST GANG IN VAULT LOOT

Final testimony was heard yesterday in the trial of Willie Niemoth, 54, and Patrick [Patsy] Flaherty, 43, ex-convicts accused of taking part in the 2 million dollar looting of the E. H. Rumbold real estate office's safety deposit boxes last January. The case is expected to go to the jury today after closing arguments.

Principal testimony yesterday was given by Niemoth, who denied having anything to do with the vault looting. He told the court he had been a Western Union messenger boy and a street car conductor before he participated in a $40,000 pay roll robbery in Baltimore, Md., in 1930. For this he served eight years and after his release came to Chicago.

He testified his desire to lead a normal life and fear of another prison sentence made him refuse to take part in the Rumbold robbery after being invited to do so by Thomas Leahy, who has pleaded guilty and is awaiting separate trial.

E. P. Carville Takes Oath As Senator from Nevada

Washington, D. C., July 26 (AP)—E. P. Carville, until Tuesday governor of Nevada, was sworn in today as a senator from that state. Swearing in of Carville, a Democrat, brought the senate to its full complement of 96. He filled the vacancy left by the death of James G. Scrugham, also a Democrat.

U. S. SUES STORE TO GET MINERAL BATHING SALTS

United States Atty. J. Albert Woll yesterday filed suit before Federal District Judge Walter J. La Buy seeking seizure of five cases of tablets at one of the Goldblatt Brothers stores. The tablets are labeled "Sul-Ray Colloidal Sulphur Mineral Baths." Woll charged the product, which was shipped in interstate commerce, was misbranded. The tablets are manufactured by the Sante Chemical company of New York.

GAS COUPONS AND TOOLS STOLEN

Coupons for 1,900 gallons of gasoline were taken by burglars from the L. G. Super Service gas station, 1400 E. 47th st., yesterday. The loot also included equipment valued at $300.

PREVIEW OF GLOBAL FUN

The economic and social council set up by the charter of the united nations is to consist of 18 members elected by the general assembly. In this election there are no restrictions on the assembly. The big powers did not reserve control in their own hands as they did in the security council and in the functions of the general assembly. It's a chance for the little fellows to splurge. It's their show.

This agency is the repository of such moral purposes as the charter claims for its own. It is the ark of the Four Freedoms, the Eight or Nine Freedoms, the Atlantic Charter, and other professions of good will to all men. Possibly the big powers did not intentionally commit an irony when they took force for their province and stood aside from the domain of altruism and the ultimate good. However, they took possession of the security council. They asserted a veto authority over the assembly. Apparently they neglected to guard themselves against the economic and social council. They invested it with rights and assigned to it impressive duties.

The Olympians may have fallen asleep. The council of 18 is the agency to "promote universal respect for and observance of human rights and fundamental freedoms for all without distinction as to race, sex, language, or religion." It may make recommendations to the assembly for the purpose of promoting respect and observance of these rights and freedoms. It is given the authority to make studies, to appoint commissions, and conduct inquiries. Where? Certainly not in a vacuum. The member nations pledge themselves to take joint and separate action in coöperation with the council. Such an agency controled by the smaller nations might very well become enterprising and create some interesting situations.

When Mr. Gromyko, the Russian ambassador, signed the document he may or he may not have given a thought to the time when commissioners "enjoying such privileges and immunities as are necessary for the independent exercise of their functions" would appear at the gates of the soviet union demanding entrance to inquire into the state of fundamental rights and freedoms under the hammer and sickle, such rights as are represented by the writ of habeas corpus, trial by jury, the freedom of the press, free exercise of the religious belief of one's choice, the protection of minority opinion and of political dissent. The commissioners might begin less ambitiously and inquire whether the Lithuanians, for instance, were enjoying all the rights to which the charter in establishing the council of 18 has dedicated itself and without which men perish. When such commissioners enjoying privileges, and immunities begin roaming the U. S. S. R. without hindrance, skepticism will repent its errors. There will be a great rubbing of the eyes.

India cannot raise a dispute in the assembly. The security council can remove such an issue to its own jurisdiction and sit on it. But the council of 18 can make an economic, political, and social study of India. It can send in a commission with privileges and immunities. It can require the coöperation of the British. It can make recommendations to the assembly. The matter does not rest there. It comes home to us. A commission consisting of some of the darker hued members of the organization, say a dark Cuban, a swarthy Brazilian, and an Othello-like Haitian, with privileges and immunities, might appear in Mississippi, or Louisiana, or South Carolina, or Texas, or in Chicago or New York, to inquire into the effect of race on the fundamental freedoms in this country. It might occur to the council of 18 that a study made by other than white commissioners would be more understanding, more penetrating, and more sympathetic.

America has endeavored, so far as Constitution and law can do so, to remove distinctions as to race, sex, and religion. That the distinction as to race has presented greater problems than any other must be conceded. A council study of it might be unflattering and the recommendations to the assembly might have merit. Possibly Sen. Connally of Texas, who helped write the charter in San Francisco, could tell us what then we should do about it. He agreed that we should coöperate with the council. The North American Indians resident in the United States may not require a study, and the council might be indifferent to the fundamental freedoms of Japanese-Americans resident in California. However, this council of 18 will have the authority to busy itself in many quarters of the globe and may be determined, when elected, to do so.

Paragraph 7 of article 2 of the charter says that nothing contained therein "shall authorize the united nations to intervene in matters which are essentially within the domestic jurisdiction of any state, or shall require the members to submit such matters for settlement under the present charter." That might seem to keep the council of 18 out of, say, any one of Mr. Stalin's soviet, socialist republics, or out of [illegible]onnally's state. Nevertheless, the members pledge themselves to coöperate for the promotion of the universal bill of rights. The responsibility for the discharge of the economic, cultural, moral, and social functions of the charter is given to the council of 18.

The charter is a devious rather than a straightforward document. The reader will have trouble with it not only because of its numerous cross-references but because of the authors' habit of trying to conceal their dominating intentions in words and phrases least likely to reveal or explain them. Confusion and subtlety are not virtues in a document purporting to organize the world.

May we expect the members, when there is a revealed contradiction, to take the broader rather than the narrow view? Again Sen. Connally might have the answer.

THE WAR WORKER AWARDS

THE TRIBUNE made the 36th and final award to a war worker for improving production efficiency the other evening. The awards have been discontinued because, while the necessity for war production has by no means ceased, production methods have been so stabilized that little opportunity remains for important improvements.

Improved machines and methods for which these awards were given are estimated to have saved some 3,727,000 man hours of labor, the equivalent of a working force of more than 1,500 men for a year, and to have reduced the cost to the taxpayers of the products involved by at least $4,447,000. There were additional savings of large amounts of critical materials.

The awards were conceived by THE TRIBUNE as a means of stimulating the interest of war workers in the products they are making. We believe the effort has been immensely worth while. Whether in war or peace, no company can maintain a research and engineering staff so large and able that the men on the production line still cannot find ways of doing the job better, quicker, or more cheaply. Employes' suggestion plans should be part of every manufacturer's program for solving the problems of conversion to peace time production.

THE BRITISH ELECTION

Americans, reading of the outcome of the British election, inevitably think of it first as Churchill's defeat and secondarily as the Labor party's victory. The temptation is to dwell on Churchill's achievements and speculate on the causes which led to the downfall of the Tory party. It will probably be more fruitful to look at the victors.

This is the first time that the Labor party has emerged from a general election with a clear majority of the seats in the house of commons. In 1929 Labor became the strongest party with 288 seats, against 260 for the Conservatives and 59 for the Liberals. That was high tide for Labor until the present election. Two years later, in 1931, the Conservatives were returned to power with an altogether overwhelming majority [519 to 89 for Labor and Liberals together] and in 1935 the Conservative majority, tho smaller by 88, was still very large.

The Labor party is a socialist party which believes in the nationalization of basic industries and government management of credit. Its complexion is about that of the pre-war Social Democratic parties of the continent. Its core is organized labor. Obviously it drew strength from millions of voters who were not union members, but, no less obviously, the party will be led in large part by union officials and cannot run counter to their wishes without tearing itself to pieces.

The new majority in England has no leader with the international prestige and the oratorical gifts of a Churchill, but it has capable men, experienced in government and in parliament. If it proves unequal to its tasks the fault probably will not lie with the men but with the inherent contradictions between the party program and the circumstances which face Britain now and will face her in the years to come.

The party is pledged to increasing the real income of the working man. This task will be undertaken at a moment when there is a shortage of houses, food, clothing, and almost everything else that enters into the standard of living; when Britain's industrial plant is in need of immense capital investment; when her domestic debt is greater than ever; and when Britain owes more money abroad and has less coming in from foreign debtors than at any time in her modern history.

The classic remedy for the difficulties in which Britain finds herself is to import food from abroad because it is cheaper than home grown food, and reduce wages as far as may be necessary to enable Britain to sell her coal and her manufactures abroad and thus acquire the credits with which to buy more food and more raw materials. That solution, for whatever it may be worth, is closed to the Labor party. It cannot easily deprive the British agricultural workers of their livelihoods and it surely cannot put the squeeze on Britain's coal miners and factory workers, because it is pledged to give them more, not less. It will be instructive to see how the party leaders solve this dilemma. Less sophisticated men would undoubtedly turn to the printing press and attempt to create prosperity by increasing the circulation of money.

The Labor party expects great things of nationalization of the mines and other basic industries, but it may be doubted that this will accomplish much because what is needed is the creation of new wealth. The redistribution of existing wealth will not begin to fulfill the promises of the party even if the program results in no loss of industrial efficiency.

The hard core of Britain's problem is the development of her export trade. The Labor party believes that improved morale in the factories will contribute to this end and that the removal from political power of Britain's often backward and short sighted industrial leadership will release the nation's energies.

Needless to say, Americans, with the fewest exceptions, will hope for the success of the new government. Those of us who do not share the socialist outlook can, at least, rejoice that the election marks a wholesome reduction in the influence of the aristocracy in government.

The fellow who believes in "economic determinism" must have it figured out that these late afternoon thunderstorms have been arranged by the umbrella manufacturers, the taxicab operators, and the valeting industry.—Washington Evening Star.

Test Your Horse Sense

By Dr. George W. Crane

Select the answers which you consider best. The last problem counts five points. Then look for the correct answers below.

1. Which type of ashes is often used as fertilizer? Coke Bituminous Wood Anthracite
2. Which one of these crops is planted in the autumn? Rye Soybeans Corn Oats
3. You would be most likely to find a turnbuckle on a Guitar Belt Pitchfork Bucksaw
4. The temperature in Mammoth cave, Carlsbad caverns and other great subterranean caverns is quite constant and stands at 38° F. 56° F. 67° F. 74° F.
5. If you cannot drive a car after dark because of night blindness, your diet is probably deficient in Vitamin "A" Vitamin "B" Vitamin "C" Vitamin "D"
6. This is a True-False problem in which you are to encircle the letter "T" in front of a statement, if you consider it true, but the "F" if you deem it false. You are entitled to one point for each correct judgment.

T F [a] In summer the daylight keeps growing longer each day.

Score yourself as follows: 0-2, poor; 3-6, average; 7-8, superior; 9-10, very superior. [Note—The last question counts five points.]

ANGELPOWER

The Line's foreign and interstellar news service scoops the universe today with the following dispatch from its roving correspondent, Jinks, recently assigned to search Elysium for the missing Dixits-Ipse and her husband, Dipse.

Pearly Gates [2d doorstep; at entrance for ventilation during heat only].

As requested [Line, July 24], making checkup Ipse Dixit in registrar general's office—understaffed during angelpower shortage. Ipse's name, being Latin, possibly filed by error among classical Roman cards, which have not been brought up to date for some centuries; many I-names, like Ipse's, got in with J's. Have referred also to St. Peter here at gate, but relations slightly strained, as he feels we are crowding him on doorstep [Mr. Chaucer with me]. Even hints that if we dislike climate here, can think of alternative.

In two inconspicuous words, angelpower shortage, Mr. Jinks slips past the censors the vital news for which we long have waited, the fact that an economic and industrial crisis exists in a realm hitherto represented by its own propagandists as a Sans Souci of unlimited bliss. Clerical employes, he contrives to let us know, are centuries behind in their work. He implies, tho he does not definitely state, that the reputation of Elysium as a vacation resort is undeserved.

Naturally, we have doubled Mr. Jinks' salary and will double it again if he can answer the ancient question of a needlepoint's dancing angel capacity.

STILL MOMENT

Now is all noise and thunder,
Time of grim strife and kill;
Waiting, I long for the wonder
Cool moment, hushed and still.

The hour when sound of battle
Like moaning of winds shall cease;
Watching, I listen for stillness,
The world's heartthrob of peace.

appeared in this column [July 25], now urges us to publish another gem [in one of the Iranian dialects, we think], similar in theme, tho subtly different in lyric approach. Unfortunately the new offering is far too long for presentation under present space limitations; and while cherishing the hope that an impatient world, tardily enriched by the blessing of the united nations charter, may one day read and permanently prize in memory the melodious lines, we must be content, pour le moment, as the Lithuanians phrase it, to give our readers only the first [and better] half of the charming composition.

Report from Max

Linemaster: According to London reports, which just reached me, something akin to an earthquake hit the poets' corner of Westminster abbey a few days ago. Investigation showed that several of the monuments and markers had actually moved an inch or two. Scattered all over the sacred spot were little scraps of newspaper, which, when pieced together, formed a column of our Line o' Type of recent issue.

The only explanation authorities could offer was that some visiting GI left the copy behind, that it was picked up and read by a permanent tenant of the corner. Passing it on to other famous writers and poets, all of them promptly turned over in their graves to express their contempt of modern writing.

Friend of the Yanks

[The Friend of the Yanks will answer questions of service men, veterans, and their dependents by mail if stamped envelope is sent to 435 N. Michigan av. The Tribune's veterans' bureau, 1 S. Dearborn st., Superior 0200, gives personal interviews.]

L. R. writes: "Can a disabled veteran continue his musical education which he had to discontinue when he went into the army? I have spent two years and seven months in service and received the Purple Heart in Italy."

You may continue your musical education under provisions of either public law 16 [vocational rehabilitation] or 346 [service men's readjustment act] in an accredited music school, but not under a private instructor at government expense. Either full time study or part time study is permissible, and the school will have to certify your semester or clock hours of study before the veterans' administration can make a determination of compensation. Application, upon discharge, should be made to the veterans' administration.

T. F. asks: "Can a boy of 17 volunteer for service in the merchant marine? What type of assignments are open? If a person has reason to believe he will be rejected for military service, may he still apply for the merchant marine?"

The maritime service has stepped up its recruiting program because of the war shipping situation in the Pacific and will accept volunteers between 17 and 50. Boys of 17 may apply and are acceptable with the consent of parents. Applicants for apprentice seaman training must have three and one-half years of high school to qualify for enrollment in the deck, engine, radio, and purser-hospital corps schools. Scholastic and physical requirements for steward's mate training are not so strict.

ANGINA PECTORIS—A CRY FOR BLOOD

THE most common type of heart disease, after the age of 50, is due to hardening of the coronary arteries. These vessels, two in number, supply the cardiac muscle with blood.

We may compare the apparatus to an oil pump which, like any machine, needs lubrication to make it run smoothly. But the oil going thru it is not used for this purpose—the engineer must still squirt a few drops into the mechanism itself. The human pump is somewhat similar inasmuch as the traveling circulation does not nourish its fibers. This is done thru the coronary channels.

What happens to impair the function of these structures? Arteriosclerosis is considered an aging process and the arteries leading to the heart do not escape. They may become so thickened that the volume of vital blood passing thru is limited. Symptoms depend upon the demand. At rest, or with slight activity, the quantity may be sufficient. With more exertion, such as walking four or five blocks or running for a street car, the amount may not be adequate. As a result the muscle rebels and manifests its displeasure in the form of pain. This is known as "angina pectoris." By resting a few moments, the requirements lessen and discomfort vanishes. Exercise is not the only factor capable of bringing on an attack. Distress may be noted after a heavy meal or an emotional upset.

The location of the soreness may be described as beneath the breastbone; sometimes as a sensation of oppression as if the chest were in a giant vice or a heavy weight were pressing upon it. There may be an associated aching in the neck or arms, usually on the left side. Fortunately, the pang lasts only a few minutes, seldom more than 30. By standing still or lying down, quick relief may be expected.

In the majority of patients, the story is so typical that the physician loses no time in outlining a plan of treatment. In doubtful cases the electrocardiogram is of value. With some, the tracing shows definite abnormalities; but in others it is normal. By repeating the test after exercise or following the inhalation of carbon dioxide, temporary changes may occur to establish the diagnosis.

Drugs which dilate the involved arteries are valuable. Nitroglycerine is time honored and the symptom abates almost as quickly as a tablet dissolves. Other slower, but more prolonged medicines, are useful in preventing future bouts. Sedatives are of value in relieving the apprehension that accompanies this ailment.

The sufferer should obtain sufficient rest and refrain from overeating as obesity must be avoided. The owner of a "bay window" may be helped by wearing a corset. Exertion should be minimized and only necessary walking indulged in, especially during cold weather, against a strong wind, and up hills or stairs. If spasms come on after walking two blocks, the victim is advised to rest before this distance is reached. Under no circumstances should he exert himself unduly, even if he misses the last train home.

If the process continues to advance, the blood flow may become so sluggish that a clot develops. We call the result "coronary thrombosis," which altho serious is by no means fatal in all cases. By considering angina pectoris a warning signal, the average man can make adjustments compatible with normal life expectancy.

SHE REDUCED

Mrs. O. writes: I went on a reducing diet and lost 36 pounds this winter. Now I am afraid that I will get fat again as I always drink so much in the summer time. What would be the best beverage to keep me down?

REPLY

If you desire to stay slim the diet must be continued—modified, of course, so that the calories will be just enough to maintain your present weight. During warm weather a total of only 8 glasses of liquids is allowed. If cream and sugar are used they must be counted as food intake.

WHO DROPPED IT?

Mrs. K. writes: My sister tells me she has a dropped heart. Is it serious?

REPLY

DROPPING THE WAR PILOT

Front Views & Profiles

By MARCIA WINN

It's Starting Again

Europe is coming out of the coma of war with a bound—and in its accustomed way. The Loch Ness monster, or perhaps a cousin, was reported off the shore of Lake Storsjoe in Sweden by "three reliable witnesses." The three, who were sunbathing, saw the customary vision—"a giant, snakelike thing with three prickly dark humps on its neck" and like goofs raced to the shore for a closer look. At that the Thing slithered away.

Somehow it takes one back with a terrified rush to 1933 when Scotland started the greatest monster boom of all time. It swept the world, and altho Hitler came into power at the same time, millions of persons, unable to see the handwriting on the wall, saw Things in the water.

Scotland's monster was in Loch Ness. A youth reported a serpent-like shape in the dark, bottomless lake. Some one else reported a giant bearded eel. A third reported a serpent with two humps—or was it six?—on a long, quivering neck and a long tail. A big game hunter went to investigate and found a spoor by the shore. Serpents and eels do not leave spoors, so he decided it was the spoor of a marine enlargement of the common newt. The scientist, Sir Arthur Keith, said it might be a legged reptile, but probably was a case for psychiatrists.

Whatever it was, it worked. Thousands of summer tourists swarmed to Inverness to gaze hopefully out at the waters. Efforts to trace the monster multiplied as rapidly as estimates of its size. A fisherman said it was an old blind salmon. Others termed it a whale which had entered the loch when small and could not find its way back to sea, but the public was determined to believe it a Plesiosaurus survival. One expert tried to find it with hydrophones. Mutilated sheep's carcasses were found, complete with toothmarks—the serpent's! The London Daily Herald remarked caustically that the residents of Inverness "fear only one thing more than the monster's being at large—and that is that it may be caught." A film was made, "The Secret of the Loch." It showed occasional glimpses of something dark on the water's surface, but "nothing to swear by." Nonetheless, the film made enough money to endow a bed for divers at a near-by hospital.

By 1934 the monster had wanderlust. It went south for the winter to the Caribbean and was reported there in February; it was 65 feet long. Next a freighter struck it in the Gulf of Mexico; 40 feet long.

In March it was seen ogling the shores of France; it was washed up, dead; a whale. By April it was in the Mediterranean. By summer it was in northern Lake Michigan, off the coast of Chile [75 feet], off the Azores [70 feet with two humps], off the California coast [an earless hippopotamus, 35 feet], and north of Vancouver [30 feet long with a mane and the ears of a jackass]. It was washed up near Vancouver and identified as a large shark. It didn't get to Australia until 1935, but at the end of the 1934 summer season along northern Lake Michigan a lighthouse keeper found its bristling head, two pieces of its long neck, and its spineless middle section washed up on the beach. Alas, it had turned to wood, jointed.

As other monsters grew, so did the tourists at Loch Ness. They last saw their monster in 1936, when he had attained a length of 300 feet, but on April Fool's day of that year the Berlin Illustrierte Zeitung announced it had been captured and was on exhibition in Edinburgh. The paper reproduced pictures of the serpent taken by a "famous Scottish zoölogist, Prof. MacKeenkool." This was news to Edinburgh.

Gradually the monster faded from the public eye. Ship captains dozed at their wheels and missed him as he passed. Not until 1941 was he mentioned again. Then a nasty rumor arose in Edinburgh that he had fled Loch Ness for Germany. "Lowland slander," burred an indignant citizen of Inverness when told this. "The monster is as British as they come." But Loch Ness has not seen him lately, and Sweden has. Perhaps he did make a break for Germany after all and was caught by the blockade.

300 RAILROAD MEN FOR THE ASKING

NAPLES, Italy, July 19—Just a few lines to let you know that there are about 300 experienced railroad workers attached to this railroad detachment who are anxious to return home and go to work. I, for one, believe that there has been an injustice done to the railroad workers who are stationed here. All have been here since June 6. Of course, some are moving, but ever so slowly. Cannot something be done to relieve the situation?

THE PRESIDENT'S WAR-MAKING POWER

Evanston, Ill., July 24—It's nice to see Sen. Vandenberg in Tuesday's Voice of the People reaching out to try to shake hands with Author Vandenberg across the constitutional chasm they dug between them. Do they quite manage to reconcile their constitutional views?

Sen. Vandenberg is now saying a reservation or congressional check on Presidential discretionary authority to use American forces in foreign conflicts at the behest of the international security body would violate the Constitution. But Author Vandenberg in his book indorsed as the true constitutional doctrine the statement:

"It must be made perfectly clear that no American soldiers, not even the crew of a submarine, can ever be engaged in war or ordered anywhere except by the constitutional authorities of the United States. . . . The lives of Americans must never be sacrificed except by the will of the American people expressed thru their chosen representatives in congress."

The change in a senator's politics is not the point; rather, the fact that the Constitution and its application don't automatically reverse themselves because a senator reverses his politics. Sen. Vandenberg, incidentally, was reelected to the senate on the 1940 Republican national platform which said, "We condemn all acts and proceedings which might lead to war without the authorization of the congress of the United States."

In a senate speech at the time of President Roosevelt's Iceland coup in July, 1941, Sen. Robert A. Taft effectively disposed of Sen. Vandenberg's present argument about the allegedly unlimited constitutional authority of the President to make use of American forces in foreign war action. Presidents have used troops "to protect American life or American property," said Taft. Beyond that, "the fact that power may be usurped is not evidence of legal right. . . . There is, of course, no question that the Constitution confers the right to declare war only on congress. . . . The President cannot make aggressive war. Neither can he intervene in a war between two nations, because such intervention, even tho it does not immediately involve a physical attack on one of them, is clearly the making of war."

Chicago, July 24—Tomorrow I return to Percy Jones hospital after 30 days' convalescent leave. I have been twice wounded in this war. I served our country before at the age of 15 and have an honorable discharge and will serve it now and again as long as my services are useful or needed. I return sick of your paper and its writers, your fear of Russia or your disgusting trick of drawing a dead herring across the trail. We good Americans fear no one. We gave Russia its lifeblood in the last three years. We can and will live in peace with Russia or, by God, we can lick them, or any other country that can't live in peace with us. SHORT ON SHORTS

Chicago, July 17—This panting male spent all of his precious Saturday afternoon perambulating thru loop department stores for some masculine unmentionables known as "shorts." Unfortunately all the stores were short of sensible broadcloth or cotton shorts. Some did have beautiful rayon panties with prices beginning at $2.50 a pair, but as I am not a Hollywood satyr I would not be caught dead or alive with a pair of same on my nether extremities.

This matter of underwear in reasonable price range is serious, as any family purchaser knows. I wonder where the OPA got the laurels to crown itself with on these matters? And how much social conscience do the manufacturers really have, to have the gall to merchandise such high priced short-wearing stuff to the American stores and public in war time?

TIRE RACKET

Libertyville, Ill., July 24—I have just been trying to figure out the tire rationing muddle. Having had two tires go bad and two more going, I managed to have two condemned and after two weeks received a certificate for one new tire. What is it that increases the value of the tire I am required to turn in for a new one from zero when I turn it in to $4 when I buy it from the retread shop or dealer for $10 [$6 allowed for cost of retreading]?

I cannot keep my own property nor donate it to the government but must give it to the dealer to make an extra profit on. [Of course, all turned in tires are not retreaded, but where do the large number of current retread carcasses come from?] I cannot buy any used tire anywhere for less than $5 to use as a swing or a boat bumper or to cut up for tire boots. BLAME SCANDAL ON 7 DISMISSED PRISON OFFICERS

New Staff Takes Over; More Charges Made

BY JAMES DOHERTY
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Lansing, Mich., July 26 — Seven top officials of the southern Michigan prison at Jackson were specifically named responsible for alleged corruption and misbehavior at the big "fun house" today as they were suspended and replaced on the recommendation of Atty. Gen. John R. Dethmers.

The newly detailed accusations were made by Dethmers in the third of his four part expose of conditions at the penitentiary which he has charged is bossed by convicts and ridden with prostitution, gambling, and special privilege.

Apparently no criminal prosecutions will follow the four month inquiry and disclosures. If the suspended officials wish, they may have a hearing before the state civil service board but so far they have given no indication of their plans and have made no statements except for a denial of the charges by two of the accused.

New Staff in Charge

The seven men, from Warden Harry H. Jackson down, were removed by the state corrections commission. The others are Deputy Warden George I. Francis, Assistant Deputy Warden D. C. Pettit, Chief Inspector Walter L. Wilson, Director of Classification H. Charles Watson, Director of Athletics Richard Riley, and Accountant of Inmate Funds Joseph Poirer. Pettit and Poirer were the two who issued formal denials.

They were replaced by Garrett Heyns, director of the corrections commission who will be acting warden; Warden Ralph Benson of the Marquette prison, who will be his chief assistant; Clemmer D. Miles superintendent of the Cassidy Lake prison camp, and State Police Capt. William Hanson.

As the new staff moved in, precautions were taken against possible disorder among the more than 5,000 inmates. The adjacent state police post was reinforced and Gov. Harry F. Kelly promised the aid of police and civilian employes of any state department but the report thruout the day was "all is quiet at the prison."

New Charges Made

Meantime, interest centered on the latest section of Dethmers' report on the prison investigation. His findings against each of the suspended officials included the following:

WARDEN JACKSON—"Either the warden knew of conditions and is guilty of culpable negligence to take effective measures to correct them, or was not aware of conditions, in which case he has demonstrated his utter incapacity for the position he occupies."

Dethmers noted that the warden had denied knowledge of liquor parties within the prison or at officials' homes, of inmates' visits to prostitutes, of gangsters visiting within the walls, of sexual misbehavior in the institution.

DEPUTY WARDEN FRANCIS—"This official's only overt act seems to have been to bestir himself twice a month to receive his pay check and for the rest—total and utter inaction."

ASSISTANT DEPUTY WARDEN PETTIT—Many witnesses testified to seeing him under the influence of liquor in the prison. He entertained inmates in his home. A convict's girl friend was his house guest for several weeks.

Took Inmate to Ball Game

CHIEF INSPECTOR WILSON—He took an inmate to his home for meals. He used an inmate as an informer. He failed to discipline a "big shot prison politician." He took an inmate to a ball game in Detroit. He failed to tell the warden the truth about a frameup against a prison guard. He permitted ex-convicts to visit inmates in his office. He failed to notify the warden when Medley and another convict, Ray Fox, were frequently intoxicated upon their return from periods of freedom outside the prison.

DIRECTOR OF CLASSIFICATION WATSON—He "played a major part in the highly improper classification of inmates with imposing records and detainers against them from other states." He used profane language before the investigation board and is "completely out of line" with policies of the correction board.

DIRECTOR OF ATHLETICS RILEY—The gymnasium over which he had supervision was termed the "gambling center of the prison" and the center of perversion and contraband.

INMATE ACCOUNTANT POIRER—He helped Medley escape, invited convicts to eat at his home and permitted them to drink in his home.

HOOPER TRIAL NEAR END

Battle Creek, Mich., July 26 (AP)—State and defense rested their cases today in the trial of four Detroit hoodlums charged with conspiracy to murder State Senator Warren G. Hooper, of Albion.

The defense called only one witness and Judge Blaine W. Hatch adjourned the case until 1:30 p. m. Friday, when closing arguments will be made.

Perry Martin, 45, of 2042 W. 82d place, was said to be in a favorable condition yesterday in St. George's hospital, where he was taken early in the day after he was shot in the right side by his son, Harold Martin, 18, a laboratory technician.

Young Martin told police that when his father came home Wednesday evening, it was apparent he had been drinking heavily. Harold said his father argued with his mother, Olivia, then went out, but resumed the argument when he returned again around 4 a. m.

"When I thought my father might really harm my mother I went upstairs and got the old gun and came down intending to shoot it off and scare my father," he stated. "I didn't mean to shoot him."

SIX MAIL-ORDER HOUSES 'TRY' FOR '43 PRICE LEVEL

Washington, D. C., July 26 (AP)—The OPA said today that most of the country's large mail order houses have agreed to restore "as far as possible" 1943 average prices for clothing. The voluntary agreement covers clothing the six companies propose to offer during the fall and winter selling seasons. It applies only to mail sales. Branch retail stores of such firms are covered by compulsory regulations.

Participating are Chicago Mail Order company, Sears, Roebuck & Co., Spiegel, Inc., and Walter Field company, all of Chicago, and Lane Bryant and National Bellas Hess, both of New York.

OPA announced the agreement after a series of price concessions to fabric manufacturers which may have diminished chances for a scheduled 6 to 7 per cent rollback in clothing costs generally. It also followed an indication by OPA that prices for work clothing may be boosted as a result of wage increases granted to mill workers.

CHILD'S KILLING BY FIRE TRUCK HELD ACCIDENT

A verdict of accident was returned by a coroner's jury yesterday in the death of Edward Kundert, 5, of 2235 W. 13th st., who was struck Wednesday by a fire truck returning from a false alarm call to its station at 2256 W. 13th st. The truck was driven by Joseph Curtin, who told how the child had spent a lot of time at the station because he was fascinated by the big red trucks. The child darted into the street in front of the truck, which was going only 10 miles an hour, Curtin testified. Deputy coroner Eugene Ingles presided at the inquest.

Policeman Wins Delay of Rape Case Hearing

Hearing on charges of raping a 15 year old girl and contributing to the delinquency of another girl, 14, against William H. FREIGHT RATES and INDUSTRY LOCATION

A SIGNIFICANT decision, announced by the Interstate Commerce Commission last May, will take preliminary effect on the 30th of August. It will eliminate some of the advantage in freight rates which Eastern shippers have enjoyed over shippers of the South and West.

The decision has been enthusiastically hailed as an Emancipation Proclamation for industrial development in the South and West. It has also been roundly condemned as a meddlesome control measure that ignores valid differences in haulage costs, and recklessly blots out one of the important factors determining the location of American industry.

Cooler appraisals indicate that the net effect of the rate changes will be far less drastic than predicted by the more passionate advocates or adversaries. Nonetheless, it is important for the business world to be informed both upon the principle at issue, and upon the foreseeable consequences of the ICC ruling.

WHAT THE DECISION CALLS FOR

The Commission's order, unless modified, or successfully contested in the courts, will require: (1) the eventual establishment of a single freight classification, or grouping of commodities for rate-making purposes, for application throughout the United States; (2) a single level of "class rates"—or rates established for groups of commodities and primarily applying to manufactured and semi-manufactured articles of high value—in the area east of the Rocky Mountains. This level is to be about 15 per cent higher than the present Eastern scale.

Because it will take some time, probably several years, to work out a uniform classification in place of the three major classifications now existing, a preliminary adjustment is provided.

Under this adjustment the existing classifications will remain in effect, but the rates on articles moving on class rates will be increased 10 per cent in Eastern or Official Territory—the area east of Lake Michigan and the Mississippi River and north of the Ohio River. On the other hand, the rates will be reduced 10 per cent on articles moving on class rates in the South and West, and on those moving interterritorially.

WHAT THE PROBLEM WAS

At the present time there are marked differences in the levels of the basic scales of class rates in the five major rate territories—Eastern or Official, Southern, Western Trunk-Line, Southwestern, and Mountain-Pacific. It is difficult to average the levels of rates, but if the level of the class-rate scale in Official Territory is taken as 100, the levels in the other territories may be roughly considered as follows: Southern, 139; Western Trunk-Line, 128, 146, 161; 184 in Zones I, II, III, and IV, respectively; Southwestern, 161; Mountain-Pacific, 166.

These are over-all comparisons. On many individual articles the differences in levels of rates are greater or less than indicated because of offsetting differences in regional classification schemes. In many cases, the use of exceptions to the classifications and of special commodity rates has reduced the regional disparity in rates. In fact, on some articles, particularly on certain low-grade traffic such as logs, pulpwood, bricks, coal, sand and gravel, the South and the West have actually had lower rates than Official Territory. The rate disadvantage of the South and West has been principally on manufactured articles.

The territorial differences in class-rate levels have complicated the problem of constructing rates from a point in one territory to a point in another. Today, such a rate tends to represent a blend of the levels in effect at the place of shipment and at the destination. Thus manufacturers and dealers in a higher-rated territory are likely to see themselves at a disadvantage when they attempt to sell goods in a lower-rated territory against competition located there.

Now, if differences between territorial rate levels are removed, the *inter*territorial freight-rate problem largely disappears. So it is an important question whether such differences are justified. The Commission has found that they are not justified either by differences in transportation costs or by other valid considerations. From that finding came the order to establish a uniform level of class rates and a single freight classification.

THE DECISION AND THE MAP OF INDUSTRY

What effect will this decision have on the location of industry in the United States; and what effect will it have on the economic development of the East, the South, and the West?

Today, many in the West and South believe that their higher class rates have seriously retarded the industrial development of these areas, and promoted the concentration of manufacturing in Official Territory. They point out that Official Territory has over 50 per cent of the population of the country, had nearly 70 per cent of the persons employed in manufacturing in 1940, and accounted for nearly 73 per cent of the "value added by manufacturers" in 1939. Boasts of industrial development in the South, and to some extent in the West, in recent years are accompanied by claims that this would have been greater but for the freight rate structure.

Another point gets into the argument. Official Territory is not only the country's most highly industrialized section, but also its greatest consuming territory. It is the market which nearly all manufacturers desire to reach, particularly when they have a surplus to sell. Here again is occasion for an outcry by producers outside of Official Territory against the consequences of their high rate levels and the levels of interterritorial rates. Under the circumstances it is not strange that the South and West have argued long and volubly for mile-for-mile equality in rates.

Those in Official Territory deny that the South and West have been handicapped by the rate adjustment, but at the same time look with apprehension at the loss of their rate advantage.

WHAT'S THE EFFECT?

However, now that the ICC's ruling is about to be put in operation, it is time for the colorful statements of the debating period to give way to a sober appraisal of what the consequences are likely to be.

In the first place, it should be noted that the preliminary adjustment will affect only a small fraction of the traffic. Estimates indicate that only about 4 per cent of the full-carload traffic moves on regular class rates. About 11 per cent moves on exception ratings which are not affected by the preliminary order; and about 85 per cent moves on commodity rates, which were not within the scope of the Commission's decision. The proportion of less-than-carload-lot traffic affected is much greater, since a large part of it moves on class rates; however, less-than-carload traffic constitutes less than 1½ per cent of the total tons carried.

The permanent rate structure will probably affect more traffic than the preliminary order since, in the establishment of a uniform classification containing more classes than at present provided, many articles now moving on exception ratings are likely to be brought within the scope of the classification, and the same may be true of some articles moving on commodity rates.

But, even if a large proportion of the traffic were affected by the Commission's order, or if the principle of equality in rate levels is eventually extended to much of the traffic moving on commodity rates, these freight-rate adjustments cannot be expected to revolutionize the pattern of industrial location in the United States.

It seems evident that most industries now found in Official Territory are located there for other advantages than that of a lower level of freight rates, undeniable as such an advantage is. Insofar as that is the case, they have little to fear from equalization of the rate levels. For those which have, indeed, been dependent upon preferential rates and otherwise badly located, the removal of the preference and their consequent shift to some area possessing a real locational advantage would be desirable from the point of view of the national economy.

While the high degree of industrial concentration in Official Territory does not rest on such a flimsy basis as a lower level of class rates, the Commission's decision does remove one existing handicap to the growth and development of the South and West. The new adjustment should permit all sections of the country to develop the industries for which they have natural advantages. It should contribute to a sounder regional specialization than we have heretofore had.

This decision will neither destroy the economy of the industrial East, nor will it, overnight, assure the industrial flowering of the South and West. It constitutes one sound step toward establishing that equality of opportunity for all sections of the country which is essential to a nation that bears the proud title of The United States.

George Dunn, 27, of 4665 Lake Park av., a technician 4th grade in the army, was drowned in the lake off 46th st. Mrs. Margaret Heatherly, 30, of 4655 Lake Park av., and Mrs. Marguerite Zbieransky, 26, of 4608 Lake Park av., failed in efforts to rescue him.

Catherine Calia, 15, of 1141 S. Western av., was drowned while swimming in Cedar Lake, Ind. Thomas Joseph Callahan, 2, son of City Judge Thomas W. Callahan of East Chicago, Ind., was drowned Wednesday in Hamlin lake, near Ludington, Mich.

A lifeguard recovered the body of George Kincz, 8, of 1039 Lill av., in the lake near the North av. beach where he disappeared Wednesday. The body of John L. Kozlowski, 32, of 608 Belden av., who disappeared Friday, was taken from the lake off Diversey pkwy.

STEEL BRUSHES GIVEN BOYS FOR ATONEMENT JOB

Penrod Cannon, 17, of 4358 Lake Park av., and Stanley Stepleton, 19, of 4305 Berkely av., who have worked two days with paint remover trying to erase their names, painted in giant letters on the cement facade of an underpass at 43d st. and Leif Eriksen dr., now have steel brushes to help them do a better job.

Judge J. M. Braude in Boys court fined them $200 and costs and sentenced them to a day in jail for defacing public property. He remitted both penalties, however, but told the boys to return to court Aug. 10. They will be on probation until the cement is cleaned.

Glenn A. Stromberg, repair engineer for the park district, told Judge Braude he had given the boys steel brushes to help them.

AIR LINE TESTS FLYING ICE BOX FOR FLOWERS

A new flying floral ice box for cargo liners was announced yesterday by United Air Lines after a series of tests on air shipment of gardenias from San Francisco, Cal., to Chicago.

Constructed to fit into cargo pits of the cargo liners, the box is built to maintain low temperatures by the use of dry ice, 1 inch thick and 10 inches square, which is fitted into five pockets in the sides of the container. The box weighs approximately 25 pounds and has a capacity of 120 cubic feet. It is covered with a thin aluminum coating and closed with a zipper.

On the first flight from San Francisco to Chicago 35 boxes of gardenias, or 1,440 flowers, arrived intact and fresh.

G. B. SHAW 89; HE DECLINES TO CELEBRATE

LONDON, July 26 (AP)—George Bernard Shaw, 89 years old today, refused to celebrate. He made it clear he would not be at home to callers and wanted no congratulations by telephone.

Living at Ayot St. Lawrence, about 25 miles outside London, the playwright and critic saws firewood, prunes his orchard, and spends much time out of doors, where he says his best literary work is accomplished.

He is working on the film "Caesar and Cleopatra" and is planning a film version of his "Major Barbara." When he is not busy with those projects, he works on a revision of a volume of 500 classics.

ROCKFORD ASKS NURSING AID TO CURB PARALYSIS

Health officials of Rockford yesterday appealed to Dr. Edward Piszczek, Cook county health director, for nursing aid to combat an outbreak of infantile paralysis in Rockford, where eight new cases were reported during the last week.

Dr. Piszczek said that an attempt is being made to provide nurses for Rockford, but an acute shortage of nurses trained in the care of communicable diseases exists in Chicago.

Three new cases of polio have been reported to the Cook county health department this year, and the total for the year in Chicago is 13 cases.

W. A. KITTREDGE DIES; FAMOUS AS TYPOGRAPHER

William A. Kittredge, 54, director of design and typography at the Lakeside Press of R. R. Donnelly & Sons company, died yesterday. Dr. Pierce Butler will conduct services at 1 p. m. tomorrow in the chapel at 1460 Sherman av., Evanston. The family home was at 1141 Asbury av., Evanston.

Mr. Kittredge was author of several articles on design and typography and won many awards for typographical achievements in his 23 years with the Lakeside Press. He was born May 28, 1891, in Lowell, Mass., and followed his father into the printing business. He served as an instructor in the mechanics of publishing at the Medill School of Journalism, Northwestern university, from 1927 to 1929 and from 1931 to 1934.

Surviving are his widow, Gladys; his father, Albion Kittredge of Lowell, Mass., and a brother, E. Roy Kittredge of Dedham, Mass.

INFANT FOUND IN GARBAGE CAN; GI's WIFE HELD

Tacoma, Wash., July 26 (AP)—A charge of first degree assault was filed today against Mrs. William Pelesky, mother of an infant found in a garbage can, while her soldier husband said he is returning immediately to the Pacific.

"But I'll provide for them," Sgt. Pelesky told reporters.

The sergeant was sent overseas 10 days after an 11 day honeymoon with his blue-eyed, golden haired wife. He returned from 37 months in the Pacific about 10 days before the infant was born.

Detectives said Mrs. Pelesky admitted giving birth to the baby unattended and placing it in a can, where it was discovered by garbage men. Baby and mother both are "doing nicely," Pierce County hospital attendants said, adding that they were swamped with offers to adopt the child. The unsmiling sergeant said, "We'll keep the baby —what else could I do."

10 FOOD STORES PENALIZED FOR EXCESS PRICES

The office of price administration yesterday was awarded consent judgments by Circuit Judge Stanley Klarkowski against 10 retail food stores for overceiling charges. The judgments were for $50 each against Clarence Piene, 4634 Wentworth av.; North Shore grocery and meat market, 1901 Central st.; Sally's food and milk store, 138 S. Pulaski rd.; Louis Potnick of the Potnick Yellow Front store, 1228 S. Kedzie av.; the Roosevelt Road Poultry market, 3524 Roosevelt rd.; Borsini Food mart, 2359 S. Western av.; Illinois Poultry store, 311 E. 35th st., and the North Avenue Poultry store, 634 W. North av. Judgments against the 26th St. Food mart, 3454 26th st., and Becker's Food store, 3846 19th st., were for $25 each.

SERVICES GIVEN CREDIT ON GAINS IN INSTRUCTION

The army and navy have made outstanding contributions in the field of instructional materials and methods, Donald J. Shank, administrative associate of the American Council on Education, declared yesterday at the opening session of Northwestern university's conference on language and reading problems. The conference, sponsored by the university in association with the National Congress of Parents and Teachers, will continue thru tomorrow.

Shank pointed out that the army and navy had made extensive use of illustrations, graphic presentation of data, and imaginative use of type.

"The reliance on motion pictures, film strips, exhibits, recordings for language study, and other audio-visual devices has been widely reported," he said. "Amazing results have been obtained. Even conservative Annapolis and West Point have been convinced of these contributions to education."

A. L. FARWELL, 82, SON OF PIONEER MERCHANT, DIES

Arthur Lincoln Farwell, 82, member of a pioneer Chicago family and retired vice chairman of the former John V. Farwell dry goods company, died yesterday in his Spinney Run Farms home near Libertyville.

Mr. Farwell was born in Chicago, son of John V. Farwell, founder of the dry goods house. He was educated at Yale, class of 1884, where he played on the same football team with Walter Camp, later a famous football authority. Mr. Farwell spent his entire business career with the Farwell company. He retired in 1925.

Mrs. Farwell, the former Katherine Isham, died in 1940. Mr. Farwell is survived by a daughter, Mrs. E. Ogden Ketting, three sons, John V. Farwell III., Ralph Isham Farwell, and Lt. Comdr. Arthur Farwell, just back from the Pacific, and a sister, Mrs. Henry N. Tuttle. Services will be held at Spinney Run Farms at 2:30 p. m. tomorrow.

Pan-America Deal Not a Military Necessity

BY PHILIP DODD
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., July 26—Good neighbor policies of the state department rather than military necessity led to the army's construction of 600 miles of the Pan-American highway early in the war when construction materials were at a premium, it was disclosed today at a senate war investigating hearing.

The hearing also revealed that the 43 million dollars spent on the highway has netted the United States a stretch of unfinished gravel road in half a dozen Central American republics with no highway connection from the north and with no immediate possibility of such a connection being built.

Explain It Diplomatically

Lt. Gen. Eugene Reybold, chief of army engineers, today's first witness, in explaining the army's delay in halting the highway project after its cancellation had been ordered in August, 1943, told the committee it was necessary to explain the termination of the project to the officials of each country.

"Why did we have to apologize for canceling the job?" demanded Sen. Ferguson [R., Mich.].

"It was necessary to explain it diplomatically, we didn't want to ruffle their feathers," Reybold said.

"Ruffle their feathers!" shouted Ferguson. "They were supposed to be fighting the same war as we, and the job was ordered stopped because it was ruled out as a war project."

Ferguson asked Reybold if the local economies of the central American nations were the controlling factors in the building of the highway, but Reybold said that "was not a war department matter." He said, however, that correspondence between the war and state departments prior to the project's authorization had indicated diplomatic reasons for the highway.

Similar Explanation

A similar explanation of the highway was given by Lt. Gen. Leroy Lutes, chief of staff of the army services forces, who also testified.

"It had been understood from the outset," Lutes said, "that one of the principal advantages to be derived from the project was the improvement of international relations with the Central American countries."

Answering committee criticism of the allocation of critical materials to the Pan-American highway, Lutes argued that "only" 100 tons of new steel and 600 tons of used steel were used. "The diversion of materials and equipment was relatively small compared with the entire war program," he asserted.

"Yet while you were sending 600 tons of used steel to this project, which was admittedly nonessential, we were begging the people of the country to search their basements for the tiniest scraps of metal needed for fighting the war," Ferguson asserted.

ENGINEERING CO. HEAD ACCUSED OF $2,700 FRAUD

Walter Puscheck, 59, owner of the Major Engineering corporation, 123 W. Madison st., was arrested last night on a confidence game warrant obtained by Mrs. Minnie Schrader, 70, of 2700 Mildred av., who told police he mulcted her of $2,700 she received in allotments from three sons in the army.

Asst. State's Atty. O. P. Lightfoot charged that Puscheck represented that he had developed a new process of plating iron with aluminum and promised that he would make Mrs. Schrader wealthy. She asserted she purchased $1,500 worth of stock and lent Puscheck $1,250.

Lightfoot said a warrant also has been issued for Puscheck's wife, Ernestine. Their home is at 29 N. Ashland av., La Grange.

W-G-N DRAMA SERIES ABOUT VET'S RETURN WILL HAVE PREVIEW

Return to Duty, a new dramatic series based on the experiences of Sgt. Charles W. Jackson as civilian, soldier and then as civilian again, will be previewed on W-G-N-Mutual at 9:30 a. m. tomorrow, the time it will occupy on succeeding Saturdays.

This series will tell the true story of Sgt. Jackson, a former gasoline station employe who became a 15th air force turret gunner; his wife, Chris; his best friend, Sgt. George Harris, and the crew of his plane.

Sgt. and Mrs. Jackson and others in the story will appear during the broadcasts, but discharged service men with radio experience will enact their roles. Sgt. Jackson will be a guest on the Jane Cowl show at 1:15 p. m. today over W-G-N.

In the preview play, Georgia Gibbs and Ray Middleton will star in "Search for a Sergeant," the story of a hunt for a fighting man whose war experiences and problems of returning to civilian life would be typical.

SOVIET VISITOR SAYS WAR LAW BANNED STRIKE

War time strikes were unknown in Russia because the central soviet government had final decision over all labor disputes, Vassili Kuznetsov, chairman of the all-union central council of the soviet trade unions and chairman of a delegation of Russian trade union officials visiting this country, said here yesterday. Absenteeism, he added, was punishable by jail sentences.

Kuznetsov explained the law against absenteeism was a war time measure and has been lifted since Germany's defeat. The law restricting workers from quitting their jobs also has been relaxed, he said, to the extent that a worker furnishing valid reasons is now permitted to quit one job and take another.

The delegation of seven men and three women, touring the United States at the invitation of Philip Murray, president of the CIO, will be guests at a luncheon in the Bismarck hotel this noon and will depart Sunday morning for Detroit.

OPA SUSPENSION ACTION ACCUSES 100 FOOD STORES

Suspension proceedings were started by the office of price administration yesterday against 100 food dealers in this area accused of using a total of 951,000 counterfeit red points either for deposit in ration banks or transfer to suppliers.

Accused in the largest mass filing in this area were 88 retailers, eight wholesalers, three restaurants, and a bakery. The cases will be heard by OPA Hearing Commissioner Kenneth Lemmer.

Filing of the cases was the outgrowth of a drive started by the OPA last month to stamp out the use of counterfeit coupons. Previously, 43 similar actions were started. Four of the defendants were suspended from business for the duration of rationing, while five others agreed to suspensions of varying length.

CHICAGO MAJOR LOST IN SINKING OF PRISON SHIP

(Copyright: 1945: By William MacLeod Raine)

SYNOPSIS: In the homesteaders' attempt to cut wires used by the cattlemen to fence in government land for their herds, Bruce Sherrill, leader of the homesteaders, is wounded. Bruce shot Ben Randall, son of old Jeff Randall, owner of the Diamond Tail ranch. Bruce is not a killer but had to protect his own side. He knows he was recognized and must make a getaway. Trapped, he rides to the Bar B B ranch, owner by Cliff Applegate, his chief enemy, and brother-in-law of Jeff Randall. Linda Applegate hides him. One posse arrives at Applegate's. Bill Cairns remains with Linda while his men search the ranch buildings. Cairns becomes insulting. Rod Randall, older half brother of Ben, arrives opportunely and warns Cairns never to annoy Linda again. Rod joins the men, and Linda goes to Bruce.

NOT AMBUSHED

"Haven't you any sense?" Linda cried. "I want to fix you up so you can travel, so that you won't be killed here by my people."

"Fair enough," Bruce Sherrill agreed. "Inconsiderate of me to drop in, but your friends were crowding me. Any port in a storm, you know. Too bad I had to annoy you. The patient is ready, doctor."

She brought water and clean rags, knelt beside him, and dressed the wound. It was a neat job.

"Doc Bradley couldn't have done better," he said approvingly.

She noticed that he had drunk the milk and eaten some of the bread and meat. "I'll get you a snack to take with you," she said.

He got to his feet slowly, still light headed. "Why?" he wanted to know. "I'm just a killer you hate. Your conscience is clear now. I can make it off the Bar BB without any more food. Thanks for your charming hospitality."

"I'm not thinking about you. I want you to get far enough away so that it won't be the Applegates who meet you."

He hobbled into the kitchen and his glance went out of the window. "Sorry to disappoint you. We're a bit late. Enter Cliff Applegate."

He hesitated. "What's the use? You can't keep me hidden here, even if you wanted to."

"Do as I say." She caught at his arm and drew him toward the stairway. "Hurry—hurry!"

He limped up the stairs, leaning on her, and was pushed into a bedroom. "Don't make a sound," she warned.

"Lindy!" her father's voice called.

The first glance told her uninvited guest that it was the girl's own b

Despite the lower point values announced yesterday on meats, it still will take thoughtful planning to stretch the month's supply of red points to buy meat, cheese, and fats, and the need continues for recipes using little or no meat.

With war gardens producing luscious fresh vegetables and with the stores full of them, it's only sensible to use them in filling and flavorful dishes. The ever-present casserole, as always, is a reliable way of combining meat and vegetables for a hearty meat stretcher.

Use any left-over meat or fresh meat with any cooked vegetable, "bound" together with gravy, white sauce, stewed or fresh tomatoes, or canned soups. Cream of mushroom or cream of tomato soups do a good job. Spice up the concoction with grated onion, a sliver of garlic, and a dash of tabasco or Worcestershire sauce. Minced green pepper, chopped celery or onion, a bay leaf, or a sprinkle of herb blend also add zest. Vary the toppings—try a baking powder biscuit crust, a ring of mashed potatoes, crushed potato chips, grated cheese, or just plain buttered bread crumbs.

For individual meat turn-overs, cut squares ¾ inch thick from biscuit dough and fill with left-over meat and vegetables. Pinch corners together and bake on greased baking sheet in hot oven [450 degrees] for 15 minutes. Serve topped with a tomato or cream sauce.

Meat stews make the most of a small amount of meat and can be dressed up with vegetables and spices to make a delicious entree. Here's a lamb and green bean stew that's really a filler:

Breast of Lamb Stew

[Serves six]

2 lbs. breast of lamb [or other lamb for stew]
3 cups water
1 tablespoon salt
1 onion, chopped
2 stalks celery, in pieces
2 lbs. string beans
3 tablespoons flour
½ cup water
Pepper, salt

Cook lamb in simmering salted water with onion and celery, until almost tender. Add string beans, whole or in pieces, and continue cooking until beans are tender. Thicken gravy with paste of flour and water. Salt and pepper to taste.

This mixture of summer squash and green pepper, while meatless, proves the value of experimenting with vegetable combinations:

Creamed Squash with Green Pepper

[Serves six]

6 cups diced summer squash [about 2 pounds]
1 green pepper, chopped
½ cup boiling water
2 teaspoons salt
⅛ teaspoon black pepper
½ cup cream or top milk

Add squash and green pepper to boiling water; stir in the salt. Cover tightly and simmer until tender, stirring occasionally. Add black pepper, more salt if necessary, then cream. Reheat and serve, or bake in greased baking dish, topped with buttered crumbs, in hot oven [450 degrees] until browned.

Points Up on 6 Canned Foods; Meats Reduced

Six kinds of processed foods will cost more ration points beginning Sunday, the office of price administration announced last night. Citrus juice and catsup will have lower point values.

An announcement earlier in the day ordered reductions in values of most cuts of beef, veal, and lamb for the period from Sunday thru Sept 1. Five new red stamps and five new blue stamps will be validated Wednesday.

Point values on pork, canned fish, fats and oils, and dairy products remain unchanged.

Rae E. Walters, regional OPA administrator, said that for the August rationing period about 11 per cent more meat will be available for over-the-counter sales than was on hand in June when the lowest level was reached. Lowering of military purchases and better distribution were given as the reasons for the improvement in the civilian meat supply.

Ten or 20 point increases, depending on container size, were ordered on canned spinach, asparagus, apple sauce, apples, apricots, and grape juice. Grapefruit juice and blended orange and grapefruit juice were reduced from 10 to 5 points, depending on size of container.

Tomato catsup and chili sauce in 14 ounce containers have a new value of 10 points, down 10 from the current rating.

In announcing validation next Wednesday of the new red and blue stamps, James F. Riley, acting area director of the OPA, said they will be good thru Nov. 30.

They are: red, for meats and fats, F1 thru K1, and blue, for processed foods, P1 thru T1. Red stamps Q2 thru Z2 and A1 thru E1 and blue stamps Y2 and Z2 and A1 thru N1, all validated in previous months, will be good thru August.

Red stamps K2 thru P2 and blue stamps T2 thru X2 expire after Tuesday. Sugar stamp 36 in ration book 4 will continue good for five pounds of sugar thru Aug. 31.

Prepare Older Child for New Baby's Advent

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

[Copyright: 1945: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

A letter on the subject of a recent article is being printed today. It is being quoted chiefly because it describes a loving and intelligent preparation of a young child for the arrival of a new baby sister or brother. Since we tried recently to open the eyes of thoughtless adults who taunt the first born, we will omit discussion of that here. The letter follows:

"In connection with your advice on new babies and first borns, would you be good enough to add a column for 'outside' grownups, whose 'sense of humor,' as they probably call it, is warped insofar as tiny children are concerned, trying to make them feel 'set aside.'

"A new baby was coming to our house. Months before, I'd mentioned how sweet babies were, and could be, to my small daughter, age 3½. Finally [altho I'd all but given up hopes of her asking] she asked if we couldn't have a baby.

"With a big sigh of relief [I'd waited weeks for that question] I explained to her what would happen if we got a baby for her. That time would be taken up for keeping the baby clean, feeding the baby, and so forth, but if she'd be willing to help, I'd suggest to daddy that we get one. She was overjoyed and beat me to the suggestion.

"The anticipation lasted for weeks. Our daughter informed all acquaintances far and wide about it, and both my husband and I were delighted. We were careful not to overplay it tho. One day, I casually mentioned about the hospital. What a blow! Poor little dear, she hadn't figured that in. Fortunately we had plenty of time. After she became used to the idea that I was going to the hospital to learn how to care for the new baby, she asked what was to become of her. Close friends had insisted on her being with them, so we arranged about her 'vacation.' She'd had such a grand time on a summer vacation with us, the idea went over with a bang. She and I went shopping for her 'vacation.' It's true we purchased only small items, but they took on a great significance to her.

"The day arrived. She helped me pack my bag and she helped lay aside tiny new garments for 'our baby' when we got home. She and daddy took me to the hospital, cautioned me to pay attention to what the doctor said in caring for the new baby, told me good-by, and started on her vacation, doubly happy.

"Mrs. Bevans, that preparation took weeks. And when we got home—what happened! A friend coming to call, said, 'You'll have to fend for yourself; your little brother has taken your place!'"

Sugar and victory

V-E Day has passed. But V-J Day is still ahead. The need for sugar . . . that indispensable energy food . . . continues to be in heavy demand.

At the direction of the Government supplies are moving at an increased rate to our armed forces, our allies, and to help in feeding people in liberated lands.

Due to a prolonged drought in Cuba, stocks of raw cane sugar from the Caribbean area, which serves our Atlantic Coast and Gulf refineries, are off greatly in volume.

These are some of the reasons why our Government has placed tighter rationing restrictions on household and on institutional and industrial users of refined sugar.

We have learned to accept wartime shortages all along the line. Use your sugar stamps, but use them wisely . . . and make a little do a lot.

Massachusetts Music Festival Draws Visitors

BY JUDITH CASS

CHICAGOANS who are in and near Pittsfield, Mass., for the summer are looking forward to three week-ends of music beginning tomorrow night when a Bach and Mozart six concert festival will be held at Tanglewood. The Boston Symphony orchestra, conducted by Dr. Serge Koussevitzky and assisted by Alexander Brailowsky, pianist, will provide the musical fare. Dr. Koussevitzky celebrated his 71st birthday anniversary yesterday at a tea in his summer home, Seranak, given by his niece, Miss Olga Naumoff.

Among those who have taken festival tickets are Mrs. Frederic S. Coolidge, Mrs. W. Rockwood Gibbs, Mrs. James Ransom Walker, Mrs. David Shields Cook, Mr. and Mrs. Harry C. Holloway, the John L. Seniors, and Albert Spalding, violinist, and Mrs. Spalding, who have many friends in Chicago. The John Alden Carpenters, who are summering in their Beverly Cove, Mass., home, will attend this week-end's concerts. Another festival guest is Mme. Giovanni Cardelli of New York, a former Chicagoan, who is visiting the William Felton Barretts in North Egremont, Mass.

Mrs. Coolidge is the former Elizabeth Sprague of Chicago and known as "the fairy godmother to chamber music." Her annual music festivals in the Temple of Music on South Mountain have been discontinued for the duration, however.

The site of the approaching festival, Tanglewood, was a gift in 1937 to the Boston Symphony of Mrs. Andrew Hopewell Hepburn of Concord, Mass., and her aunt, the late Miss Mary Aspinwall Tappan. War has not dimmed the scenic charm of Tanglewood.

Other Resort News

Mrs. Senior just has returned to Lenox, Mass., from a visit with her daughter, Mrs. Morton Fearey, in Washington, D. C. Mrs. Fearey's husband is a lieutenant commander in the naval reserve. The Seniors, who formerly lived in Lake Forest, now occupy High Wick, a 25 room house in the English manor style which is located on the side of Richmond mountain overlooking Lenox. From its 1,300 foot elevation there is a wonderful view of the Housatonic valley. The house was built in 1900 at a cost of $250,000. The Seniors bought it at only a fraction of its original cost in 1942, and its newly landscaped gardens were laid out by Mrs. Senior.

The Holloways, who live in Glencoe, have been summer residents in Tyringham, Mass., for many years. Their son and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. George Allen Holloway, have deserted Pittsfield, however, and have moved to New Canaan, Conn., where they have bought a house. The Holloways' daughter, Mrs. Edward T. Herndon, and Mr. Herndon did not go to Tyringham this summer, but have taken a cottage at Westhampton, N. Y.

The Misses Katherine and Charlotte Yoe of Highland Park are summer residents again this year in Stockbridge, Mass.

Service Notes

From all the theaters of war Mr. and Mrs. John E. Hughes of Lake Forest are learning of awards and promotions given to their sons. Their eldest son, Capt. John E. Hughes, recently was decorated with the bronze star for meritorious service in a battle in the Philippines. Capt. Hughes has been attached to a field artillery unit as liaison officer. Another silver bar has been added to the army uniform of Hamilton Mansfield Hughes to denote his promotion to the rank of captain in the air transport command. He is stationed at an air base in China, and frequently has flown over "the hump."

On duty with the army in the European theater is Pvt. Milton Hughes, who has resumed his post with the engineering corps following temporary duty with the allied military government. His twin brother, Lt. Marshall Hughes, who was killed in action in Belgium while serving with the paratroops, has received the Purple Heart posthumously.

Lt. A. Loring Rowe's unexpected arrival Monday from Pacific duty gave him his first chance to see his new son, Thomas Bastien Rowe, who was born in May. After spending a few days with his family, he will fly back to rejoin his ship. Some time next week Mrs. Rowe, their elder son, Andrew Jr., and Mrs. Rowe's parents, the Alvin E. Bastiens, hope to leave for a holiday in Edgartown, Mass. Mrs. Rowe's sister, Miss Nancy Bastien, still is stationed with a Red Cross clubmobile unit in southern Germany.

On the Calendar

Mrs. Charles W. Wrigley will open her Wilmette home at 2:15 p. m. today for a benefit program and tea to raise money for the Woman's Symphony orchestra. Mrs. Marco Adrogna will give her original reading with music on "The Chateaux of France." Mrs. David T. Adams and Mrs. William H. Stanley are co-chairmen of the benefit.

Mrs. William A. Lewis [Patti Willis] was married Saturday in the Wellington av. Congregational church to Lt. Lewis of the naval reserve, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Lewis of Topeka, Kas. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry B. Willis of Orchard st. Lt. Lewis, a graduate of Washburn university, has returned from 30 months of duty in the South Pacific. His bride was graduated from the Town school and attended Western college. They are at home in Washington, D. C., where he is stationed.

Inquiring Camera Girl

By Maryon Zylstra

[The Tribune will pay $5 for each interesting question submitted by a reader and used by The Tribune. Today's question was submitted by Marjorie Forrester, Sioux City, Ia.]

THE QUESTION

Do you think that the women's branches of the army, navy, marines, and coast guard should become permanent organizations after the war?

WHERE ASKED

THE ANSWERS

W. S. Nordburg, patent attorney, 1245 Shermer rd., Northbrook—Women were not in the army, navy, marines, or coast guard before the war because their abilities are more suited to other work. I believe there will be enough men to fill the jobs in the services when the war is over and women won't be needed.

Audrey Hoffman, checker, 5914 S. Campbell av.—If there were no war I doubt if many women would want to wear a uniform and work as they are doing now. They'd rather be independent and free to find any kind of job. I doubt if a permanent military organization would draw the high class of girls it now does.

E. H. Olson, sales engineer, 5526 S. Paulina st.—I think it would be a good idea to continue them. It's rather pointless to have a bunch of men sitting around pounding typewriters in the services when women are much better suited for the job. If women are needed in any business, they're needed in all business.

B. K. Holliday, underwriter, 1037 Pleasant st., Oak Park—The primary purpose of a standing army in peace time is to discourage aggression. We are in a national emergency and women are needed in the service. But I can't see any need for it in peace. A permanent organization for women might deteriorate.

Margaret Johnson, clerk, 7838 S. Paulina st.—Leading the life of a civilian is much better than being regimented as the service men are. I think, since there would be no need for it, service for women should be discontinued after the war. Women can find a much better place in this world than that in peace.

Vision Youth for Christ on World Scale

BY GLADYS PRIDDY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Winona Lake, Ind., July 26—Just a year ago 11 young men looking more like business executives than preachers met in this historic Christian conference center to coordinate the youth revivals springing up spontaneously over the country. They set up a temporary organization under the name of Youth for Christ. Then they went home and to work.

This week they came back with 700 leaders and followers of the movement which has blazed across the United States and Canada in Saturday night rallies which have attracted 500 000. They're here from the far west, the east, the deep south. They're young—ranging in age from the young in years to the young in heart.

Yesterday the Rev. Torrey Johnson, 36 year old pastor of the Mid west Bible church in Chicago, was made president of the permanent organization being shaped as Youth for Christ International. Today, he said he would ask a leave of absence from the church he has served since 1933 to give full time to this work. Today, also, the planning committee adopted a $200,000 budget, the funds to come from gifts, and then immediately raised $8,000 in cash and pledges.

The planners laid out a year's program calling for establishing a world service center, probably in Chicago; setting up a publicity and advertising service; creating a junior organization, and making Youth for Christ world wide by this time next year.

In this spot, founded 51 years ago as the Winona Lake Christian Assembly, Inc., by J. Wilbur Chapman, Presbyterian evangelist, and later the home of Billy Sunday, the young people are mixing vacations with Christian study classes. Since they arrived last Sunday, they've been on a daily schedule of prayer meetings at 7:30 a. m., Bible study, led by Dr. V. R. Edman, president of Wheaton college; workshops, missions, and finally, the big evening program in the Billy Sunday tabernacle.

Everywhere there is singing—by groups swinging along the walks or sitting under the old trees that shade the 20 acres of grounds. Nobody needs the mimeographed word sheets. Everybody knows the words by heart.

The movement has attracted the army, and a chaplain, Capt. J. W. Turnbull, is here from Fort Knox, Ky., to observe with a view to establishing the program in army camps.

Youth for Christ is not an independent religious organization. It is an interdenominational and nondenominational vehicle for youth rallies. Some leaders are business men. Edward Darling, one of its leaders in Detroit, is a former night club entertainer.

Rev. Johnson, who introduced Youth for Christ in Chicago with a rally in Orchestra hall May 27, 1944, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Johnson, 5206 School st., Chicago. His parents are here in camp, as is his wife, Evelyn, and three children, Ruth, 10; Arleen, 4, and Torrey Jr., 6. He lives at 3717 Wrightwood av., Chicago, and has Youth for Christ headquarters at 130 N. Wells st.

Cup Cakes Cop the Cake as Sugar Savers

There's more to these cup cakes than meets the eye. Pretty as they are, there's an even greater selling point—they're sugar savers! The cakes use part sugar and part sirup, while the frosting uses all sirup for its sweetening. To make 16 cup cakes: [TRIBUNE Studio Photo]

Mix and sift 2 cups sifted cake flour, 2½ teaspoons baking powder, and ¼ teaspoon salt. Cream together ⅓ cup shortening and ½ cup sugar. Add ½ cup corn sirup and 1 teaspoon vanilla, creaming until light and fluffy. Beat in one egg. Add flour alternately with ⅔ cup milk, beating until smooth after each addition. Pour into lightly greased muffin tins and bake in moderate oven [375 degrees] for about 25 minutes. Top with frosting made by cooking in double boiler ¾ cup corn sirup, 1 egg white, and ½ teaspoon maple flavoring, beating constantly until thick.

BY SALLY JOY BROWN

Can our readers supply clothing and camp rolls for a vacation at a summer camp for the four youngest children of the M. household, boys, whose ages are 14, 13, 11, and 9? The family lives in an overcrowded, rundown neighborhood. The youngsters have been looking forward with anticipation to this outing since the close of school. Their mother, a widow, is receiving support from her soldier son, who has been overseas for three years. The allowance, already stretched to cover the needs of this family of seven, cannot purchase the necessary camping togs, such as swimming trunks, dungarees, T shirts, socks, shoes, and sweaters. The name and address will be supplied upon request.

Mrs. R., a war wife and mother of two small daughters, 2 and 4 years old, has been in poor health for some time. Medical expenses have exacted such a toll from her limited resources that she has been unable to provide her children with shoes, sizes 9 and 12, nor to fulfill their wish for a doll buggy and dolls. If an attic or basement harbors such toys, laid aside and unused by their original owners, these little girls would be delighted to receive them.

Mrs. T.'s navy son in the Pacific asked for just one gift for his 19th birthday, a chromatic harmonica. To date, she has been unable to fill his request, since her search thru music shops has been fruitless. She is hopeful that a reader can supply an instrument.

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MAC KAY

Food for Thought

Some business firms, accustomed to male help, have found that the war time influx of women workers has introduced various health problems. Women, the personnel managers say, do not eat as sensibly and normally as men; they lessen their efficiency by inadequate meals.

This is not entirely the girls' fault. Largely it is the result of hurried noon hours, overcrowded eating places, irregular lunch periods, and poorly prepared food. The girls themselves are well aware of it. Any number of replies to our questionnaire, "What are you looking forward most to buying when the war is over?", mentioned "luscious beefsteaks," "plenty of good fresh beef," "a good roast of beef" or "unrationed food," showing that the white collar girls themselves consider this matter "food for thought."

In fact, many a business girl is eagerly anticipating the time when she can enjoy a moderately priced, appetizing lunch in a well ventilated, clean, pleasant place and return to her desk, after her noon hour, not feeling as tho she had taken part in a World War II. skirmish.

Neither Weather Nor Music Strikes Many Sparks at Freccia's Second Concert

Overture, "Leonore," No. 3 ... Beethoven
Tone Poem, "Death and Transfiguration" ... Strauss
Symphony No. 1, C minor ... Beethoven

Music, like the weather, is an unpredictable business. Last Tuesday night, with all the hazards of sultry weather ganging up on him, Massimo Freccia made a brilliant Ravinia debut with the Chicago Symphony orchestra, and last night, with the air crisp and cool and refreshing, he was something of a disappointment. The Beethoven and Strauss that opened the concert were neither dull nor unmusical, but they failed to reach the standard Freccia had set for himself as a conductor of vivid imagination, sharp clarity, and vaulting lyricism.

The Beethoven was the glorious "Leonore" No. 3, which has a special Ravinia blessing in the sound of the trumpet call floating in from the outer rim of trees. Mr. Freccia began almost too cautiously, as if he underestimated the overture's mighty scope. The middle section had some beautiful episodes, but it, too, failed to carry the majestic line of the music. Only in the finale did the true Beethoven speak, with a compensating brilliance and fire that made you willing to forgive if not precisely to forget how long you had to wait to hear him.

I doubt that I am quite a fair listener to any performance of Richard Strauss' "Death and Transfiguration," because to me it dies without being resurrected. The other tone poems—"Don Juan," "Zarathustra," "Heldenleben"—all have wonderfully wrought passages to beguile the ear that threatens to mire up in their fustian philosophy. But "Death and Transfiguration" is not so much turbulent as turbid, and if it is not the outstanding bore in the repertory, it will do until something worse comes along. Our orchestra is an old hand at brilliant Strauss, and Mr. Freccia caught a wonderful line of climax that exploded from his fists and flowed in the best Straussian luxuriance from his widespread palms. But if there was any transfiguration going on, I missed it.

Altogether, the Brahms First was by far the most rewarding performance of the evening. It was cast not in the deeply Brahmsian mold that was a cherished Chicago tradition under Frederick Stock, but rather in the style of flaming, whiplash brilliance that is Toscanini's glory. It didn't completely come off, but it had interludes worth hearing. Each of the four movements was admirably launched, and the andante held up admirably, taking its cue from the radiance of the strings. The allegretto lacked the clarity to make its intended effect, but much of the finale had a fiery, tho unsustained splendor. It is, of course, magnificent music, with dark plucking of strings, the lovely alpenhorn, the wonderful entrance of the hoarded trombones, and some of it was brilliantly played. But the long line of cumulative splendor was missing, and any one in danger of confusing the performance with older days would have been set back sharply by some of the harsh sounds in the winds and brass.

Pick 6 Singers in West Side's Festival Trials

A Detroit born Pole who returned to the United States after the German invasion interrupted his voice studies, last night won the Chicago Music Festival's west side preliminary contest for dramatic tenors in the Lyon & Healy concert hall.

He is Thaddeus T. Sztuka, 26, of 3650 Long av., a bookkeeper in County Treasurer Schlaeger's office.

Sztuka was taken to Poland by his father when he was 4 years old. When the war separated them, Sztuka fled to England and reached the United States in 1940. Richard Jones, 18, of 4132 Addison st., was the runner-up in the dramatic tenor contest.

Sixty-five lyric sopranos, coloraturas, bass-baritones, and basses will sing tonight to complete the west side. Winners among these and last night's winners will appear in the Cook county finals in the Drake hotel Aug. 2. The festival will be held in Soldiers' field Aug. 18.

Mrs. Eleanor Castell Gosse, 26, of 547 N. Laramie av., wife of a soldier in the South Pacific theater, won last night's contest for contraltos. Erma E. Price, 24, of 5905 Ohio st., was second, and Audrey Louise Paul, 17, of 703 Forest av., River Forest, third.

Altho a trifle handicapped by sinus infection, Henry L. Gorz, 30, of 3537 Overhill av., captured the lyric tenor contest. The runner-up was Alvin F. Hobik, 34, of 1510 N. Mayfield av.

The baritone contest was won by Ben Summers, 35, of 5240 Fullerton av., a baker, who has been singing on treasury department war bond programs. Arlo D. Tatum, 22, of 835 S. Marshfield av., placed second, and Walter R. Rue, 34, of 3249 Franklin blvd., was third.

Lorraine Kostelny, 19, of 5056 Lawrence av., won in the mezzo contest. Kohar M. Shomlian, 22, of 3332 Overhill av., and Eunice D. Dankowski, 19, of 5122 Windsor av., were second and third, respectively.

The dramatic soprano division contest was won by Dorothy Sandre, 23, of 4129 West End av. Other contestants were Eleanore Warner, 24, of 2208 Iowa st., and Lucille Smith, 18, of 4160 Du Bois blvd., Congress Park.

The judges were Mrs. Marie Zendt, Mrs. Mary Ann Kaufman Brown, and Edwin Kemp. Miss Marion Carlisle was the accompanist.

Weddings

Lt. (j. g.) Robert Alfred Hayden of the naval reserve, who returned unexpectedly from duty in the Pacific, will take Miss Nancy Pinkerton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Roy Pinkerton of the Windermere West hotel, as his bride at 4:30 p. m. tomorrow in Cole chapel of St. James' church. A reception will follow in the Windermere East.

On Monday Lt. Hayden, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl F. Hayden of Evanston, and his bride will fly back to Los Angeles, Cal., where he will be stationed for a few months. She was graduated from DePauw university, and he received his degree from the University of Wisconsin.

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., July 26—Darryl Zanuck didn't even wait for "Daisy Kenyon," written by Elizabeth Janeway, to make her flowery appearance on the book stalls. He paid $150,000 for the love story for Gene Tierney, with Otto Preminger doing the same job he did for her in "Laura." You and you won't be able to read the book until fall. . . . I hear that Warners own "The Voice of the Turtle" after paying $500,000, so even tho the army turned Bette Davis down in the play for our boys overseas, she'll be able to do it on the screen. . . . Dean Stockwell, the youngster who was so good in "Anchors Aweigh," plays young Tom Drake in "The Green Years." Dean's father, Harry, was in the Chicago company of "Oklahoma!" . . . Just to keep the record straight: No, I am not on the pay roll of the Hollywood Reporter. Neither do I pay any of its employes for space, but I am grateful.

He's Still Struggling

Ted Collins is never satisfied. Now he's turning Broadway producer. He's bought Isobel Lennart's story, "One More Prayer to Go." Ted's already got an option on Kitty Carlisle. . . . Every time I write about Charlie Chaplin, I get scads of letters. Here's one from Chicago: "Not long ago, Charlie Chaplin, the eminent world citizen, hired Orchestra hall here and yelled for a second front to help the Russians. Wonder why he doesn't hire the hall again and yell for a second front against Japan?" I'll tell you why—he's too busy making plans for "Bluebeard's Eighth Wife." . . . Just when Orson Welles and Rita Hayworth were desperate for a place to live, their present landlord, Cliff Henderson, came thru with a new nine months' lease. They'd have a tough time finding a home more suitable. This one is on five levels—one for each mood—with a swimming pool built around an island, where Orson can play Robinson Crusoe to his heart's content and take the plank in after him.

Honey Bun Frankie

When Frank Sinatra stopped by the Palladium to congratulate his old friend Les Brown, the kids stopped jittering, orchestra forgot to play, and they all gathered around Frankie like bees to the honey, welcoming him home. . . . Bob Cummings has two more pictures to do for Hal Wallis. Says he loves working for him. But his present job opposite Barbara Stanwyck is his idea of heaven. . . . Jimmy Gleason wonders whether you realize what a friendly smile and a swimming pool mean to a boy in uniform. Last Sunday one of the fellows was about to jump into his pool, when he turned to him and said, "You'll never know what this means to me. Last Christmas I was in a foxhole up to my hips in water. A guy standing beside me said, 'This reminds me—because it's so different—of Jimmy Gleason's pool. Gosh I hope I'm going to get to swim in it again.'" The fellow who said that never came back, but his pal did.

Too Young to Care

The Ronnie Colmans gave the party of the year. It was their daughter's first birthday. Mrs. Charlie Chaplin brought her offspring; so did the Herbert Marshalls, ditto Roz Russell, Mrs. Fred Astaire, and half a dozen more. The young fry behaved so well you would have thought they were on a motion picture set. Only the parents were nervous. Ronnie, showing off his little beauty, never played a more tender scene. . . . Margaret O'Brien cracked out with a party for James Craig's 5 year old who disappeared and was discovered with a paint brush in his hand giving their white garage blue polka dots. Now Margaret's joined the "Bad Bascomb" company on location. . . . Mrs. Jack Carson is visiting her parents in Portland, Ore., while Jack's overseas. Over there Jack ran into a namesake from Brooklyn. . . . Gracie Fields writes that people in Australia ask more questions about Ann Richards than any other star here. Why not? That's their baby.

Lee Tracy Puts Gift of Gab to Work in Movie

"I'LL TELL THE WORLD"

By Mae Tinée

Lee Tracy carries most of this comedy—not on his shoulders but with his wagging tongue. The gift of gab certainly comes naturally to the little guy, as he has a fine opportunity to demonstrate in "I'll Tell the World." It's a comedy ribbing the radio industry, and it could be a lot more tedious except for the two principals.

Tracy plays Gabriel Patton, who started talking at the age of 3 months and apparently never stopped. His loquacity is somewhat of a handicap until he finds his proper niche—in front of a microphone.

There are the usual sponsor troubles, the usual girl with whom Mr. T. falls in love, and some pretty silly situations. However, Mr. Tracy has a lot of bounce and manages to seem natural and at ease in almost any role, and Miss Joyce is nice to look at and has a smooth voice and the same kind of figure. Boogie-woogie fans probably will enjoy a number by Gene Rodgers, who can really beat a piano and make faces at the same time. Such coördination!

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 diamond	Pass	1 spade	Pass
1 no trump	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Jack of hearts.

The South hand was shown to the reader yesterday with the query as to his second bid, when North, his partner, responds to the opening diamond bid with a call of one spade. I should like very much to have the services of a poll taker at my disposal for the purpose of determining how many of the readers bid two no trump.

This bidding situation occurs more frequently, I believe, than any at the bridge table, yet surprisingly enough, great numbers of contract players do not know how to cope with it. There is a general misconception that when the opening bidder rebids at one no trump it is a "denial." A denial of what? He surely can't deny that he has an opening bid, because every one at the table heard him open the auction. If we must use the term "denial," which is a much abused word, the rebid of one no trump denies that the opening bidder has a rock crusher, that's all it denies. It does not mean that he has a poor hand, else he would not have opened the bidding. The bid means, "Partner, if you have a weak one-over-one takeout, we cannot go game, and might as well play it at one no trump. If you have a fairly good takeout and choose to bid again, you are at perfect liberty to do so."

How much, then, must the opener have before he can safely jump on the second round? A good practical guide is this: Subtract your opening bid and if you have about a trick and a half left over you are justified in jumping. Sometimes you may jump with less in the way of high cards if you have a very long suit or your partner's response has "fit in" with some of your honor strength. In today's hand South held a four card suit and therefore required three honor tricks to open the bidding. This left him with a surplus of only one trick and left him short of the requirement for a jump. If North bid again over one no trump, South could safely decide to go to game.

At one table where this hand was played at three no trump, South got away with it. West opened the jack of hearts, which was taken by the queen. A spade was led and the jack played from dummy. East made the mistake of taking this trick and returned a heart. Declarer won with the ace and proceeded to establish the spades by giving up one trick in the suit and the king of hearts still remained as an entry. The diamond finesse was now needed to bring in an extremely lucky hand.

Army Musical Units Put On Rousing Show

BY ALBERT GOLDBERG.

The civilian organizations—and even the navy, to be bitterly truthful—which have made Grant park tuneful this summer had better look to their laurels, for not until the army musical forces took over the bandshell last night did the milling throngs of other years turn out en masse, and this in spite of congealing arctic breezes.

The army boys, under the general direction of Capt. L. E. Watters, put on an undeniably good show. By gathering together the musical units of Fort Sheridan, and Mayo and Vaughan General hospitals, the army has assembled a rousing good band of over 100 members. It plays marches as marches are meant to be played, and when WO James B. Hosmer took over for the "Rienzi" overture and Staff Sgt. Norman Stone for Luigini's "Ballet Egyptian," a couple of Morton Gould favorites, and Cadman's "From the Land of the Sky Blue Water"—with the veteran composer present to hear the applause for his famous song—the outfit responded with virile enthusiasm tempered by musical judgment.

Novelties and soloists were many. Pvt. Robert Basso practically stopped the show with Sarasate's "Gypsy Airs" on his violin, Pvt. Henri Rose demonstrated in a cutting from Rachmaninoff's Second concerto that his brilliant piano talent has not deteriorated and Pvt. Michael Stewart, and a chorus of stalwarts discovered a moment of patriotic drama in "The Ballad of Pvt. Roger Young."

The bobby soxers, present in squealing thousands, had their innings in the last half of the program with Sgt. Carmen Dello conducting the Fort Sheridan dance band, recent winner of first honors in a national contest, and presenting as his soloists those "favorites of screen, stage and radio"—not to mention Grant park—Sgt. Buddy Clark, Corp. Red Hodgson, and Sgt. Bob Eberly.

On these hot summer days it is a good idea for mothers to plan ahead for cold winter days when toddlers and youngsters from 3 to 6 want to play in the snow. Suitable warm coats and matching leggings are now being unpacked, and the foresighted parent has an opportunity to find selections for the children's winter wardrobe.

The child from 3 to 6 and the toddler from 1 to 3 will find delight in wearing the sister outfits, coat and legging ensembles, illustrated on the two figures at the left. The cocoa brown coats of warm wool and fleece have green applique motifs at the fitted waistlines and on the turnover collars. Rows of small bone buttons trim the fronts. Leggings have snap side closings and zipper fastenings at the ankles. A sturdy lining adds warmth and protection. The outfits also are available in red and blue.

A combination of wool and alpaca fleece is new in the youngster's wardrobe. The warm red coat in the foreground has sleeves and front of brown alpaca. A turnover collar close to the neck, and the pockets of the coat are purely decorative. The kasha lined leggings are of the suspender type. The outfit is available in sizes 3 to 6.

The princess style coat at the right, for dress occasions, is made of beige wool, with bright red piping on the chest pockets and around the collar matching two rows of red buttons. The lined suspender leggings have a side snap closing and gold colored zippers at the ankles.

German American Club to Meet in Park Ridge

The Independent German American Woman's club will have a summer meeting at 1 p. m. today in the Tally-Ho restaurant in Park Ridge. Following luncheon, the afternoon will be spent at games and cards. Mrs. William Harmsen is chairman for the party.

Eighth Central Illinois Music Festival Heard by Audience of 1,000

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Urbana, Ill., July 26 — Nearly 1,000 people attended the eighth annual central Illinois music festival held for the first time tonight on the auditorium quadrangle of the University of Illinois campus. Previous festivals were held in the Smith Memorial Music hall near-by.

Among the groups taking part in the program were a V-12 navy band, directed by Fred Smith; a V-12 navy glee club, directed by Richard Piersol, and two central Illinois festival choruses, conducted by Maj. F. E. Hammond of Chanute field, Ill. Also appearing were a cornet trio consisting of Ed Berggman, Ted Deimmer, and Richard Morello, summer school students here; Pianist Joanna Stern, and a baton twirling duet by Charliel Pollard and Norma Jean Chamberlain, both of Urbana.

Individual soloists at the concert were the winners of voice classification contests held this afternoon. They were Marilyn V. Hannah, Mattoon, coloratura soprano; Oreva Elaine Myers, Champaign, lyric soprano; Jessie M. Kotzelnick, Decatur, mezzo soprano; Stella Jean Lehman, Urbana, contralto; Pvt. Robert W. Barry, Chanute Field, lyric tenor, and W. Stanley Smith, Centralia college, baritone.

Thru the Looking Glass

Got four hours—and a bit of budget money—to spend? Plus an inferiority complex about your looks that you'd love to get rid of?

We think we know something you could and should do. Hie yourself to one of the local beauty salons, one that has developed a most interesting little service, educational for the most part, that helps every woman to become her own beauty specialist.

This is wonderful for the woman who feels she's not looking as sharp as she should.

In one four hour session at the beauty salon she has a new hair-do, all the posture instructions that can be capsuled into the time, together with advice about the corrective exercise she needs. She has a new makeup, too, but it's not merely a fresh paint coat." It's an instructive kind of a face treatment, showing her how to use her beauty aids to best advantage, how to massage her neck and her face, how to apply makeup in the manner and in the colors that are most flattering. In other words, it's a kind of a soul-searching session during which her beauty faults are analyzed and she is given corrective guidance.

It's every woman's ambition to sit down with an expert, or a battery of them, and find out what's wrong and what's right with her looks, not by the books but by her own standards. For lots of women this session in the beauty salon will constitute the best expenditure of time and money they ever dreamed of.

NELSON LEADS ALL-AMERICAN AFTER 18 HOLES

Hogan's 67 a Stroke Off Byron's Pace

BY CHARLES BARTLETT

A field of more than 135 professionals and amateurs set forth yesterday on the first round of the 72 hole search for $60,000 plus in bonds being offered in the All-American Open Golf tournament at the Tam O'Shanter Country club. When the opening day's firing was over, the business had settled down, for the nonce, to a battle between two Texas kids who used to hustle sticks around Fort Worth's Glen Garden club.

Yes, you guessed it—one of the lads is John Byron Nelson, who smoked out a small 30 on the back nine for the 66, six under par, with which he paces the company into today's second 18 holes. And only a shot away is his boyhood buddy, Lt. Ben Hogan of the army air forces, who, while he couldn't duplicate that blistering Nelson 30, did assemble a 33 and 34 for a 67 which left him three shots in front of the rest of the field.

Amateur In Third Place

And who do you think would be next in line in the four day race for first Open prize of $13,600 in war bonds? None of the brighter young pros who have been chasing Nelson thru his amazing streak of nine consecutive tournament triumphs. Just blond and muscular Flight Officer Frank Stranahan of Fort Meyers, Fla., who was low amateur in the 1942 Open event, eight shots back of Nelson. Yesterday Frank became the only other sub-70 shooter when he finished with two birdie threes for a 69 to lead the simon pure field in both the Open and Amateur shows. One shot behind Stranahan were 43 year old Gene Sarazen of New York and 40 year old Denny Shute of Akron, O., the only artists to register 70s.

Cards for Nelson and Hogan:

Twelve Collect 7is

When a golfer shoots a 71 on any course he's usually right happy about it, but last night's final tabulation at that figure found 12 who were able to do so and who this morning find themselves five shots away from that man Nelson. Of course, the ball game isn't over yet, considering the remaining 54 holes thru Sunday evening, but this is a lot of room to be giving the gent who has won three of the four All-American Opens already determined.

The 71 brigade includes such talented artists as Claude Harmon of Detroit, National P. G. A. semi-finalist, against Nelson and No. 5 money collector last winter; Sgt. Ernie Harrison, winner of the St. Paul Open last Sunday; Ky Laffoon of St. Andrew's; Billy Burke, 1931 National Open champion; Dale Morey, winner of the 1943 All-American Amateur, now working as a pro; Vic Ghezzi, former P. G. A. champion; Harold McSpaden of Sanford, Me., only man other than Nelson to capture this valuable prize, and Sam Snead of Hot Springs, Va., making his first tournament start since he injured his right wrist on June 4.

The ideal weather may have had something to do with the generally excellent scoring, but there's little doubt that most characters in the field were unbending themselves to capture the $1,000 in cash which

Frank Stranahan Tops Tourney's Amateurs with 69

Flight Officer Frank Stranahan, on leave from the Buckingham army air field at Fort Meyers, Fla., shot a three under par 69 to take over the first round lead in the All-American Amateur tournament at Tam o' Shanter yesterday.

The tow headed Toledo, O., golfer, who was low amateur in the 1942 Tam o' Shanter Open, put together nines of 35 and 34 for his par shattering effort which gave him a four stroke lead over the field as it enters today's second 18 hole test.

Tied for second place with 73s are a trio consisting of Sgt. Walter Burkemo of Evanston; William Hyndman III. of Abington, Pa., and Art Doering of Denver, Colo.

EARLY PACESETTERS IN GOLF EXTRAVAGANZA

Detroit, Mich., July 26 (AP)—Three Californians and a 16 year old Florida schoolboy moved into the semi-final round of the Western Junior tennis meet at Cranbrook school today.

Herbie Flam, national interscholastic champion from Beverly Hills, Cal., seeded first, won an easy 6-2, 6-0 decision from McDonald Mathey of Princeton, N. J., to move into the junior semi-finals against Don Hamilton, Burbank, Cal., who defeated Sid Schwartz, Brooklyn, N. Y., 3-6, 6-1, 6-3.

Herbert [Buddy] Behrens of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., beat Don Lowenbein, San Francisco, 6-4, 10-8, and Hugh Stewart, Los Angeles, whipped William Turner, Narragansett, R. I., 6-2, 6-3, to gain the lower bracket semi-final.

LAMBEAU CALLS ALL-STAR GAME TOUGHEST JOB

All-Star Roster

COLLEGE football players who have accepted invitations to join the All-Stars for the game Aug. 30 in Soldiers' field with the Green Bay Packers:

BY E. L. (CURLY) LAMBEAU

Green Bay, Wis., July 26—The All-Star game is, by far, the toughest assignment which comes along in the life of a professional football coach and his players. Luckily, we know it, because of two earlier trips into football's most spectacular show. That's why we will be hard at work in a few days for our test against the collegians in Soldiers' field the night of Aug. 30.

Why is it the toughest job? There are many reasons. You know nothing of your opponents. They are just a batch of names. You are in the dark concerning the offense and defense that will confront you. In the National league games we have information on the other teams because of our scouting system, plus football movies. But you can't scout the All-Stars [H-mm, wonder how many guards they'll have at Evanston?].

Ready for Anything

The coaches and the teams going up against the All-Stars must be versatile, ready for anything. Because of this, we must prepare against any number of types of offense and defense. This means long hours of concentration because we can't afford to have any vacant spots in our tactical armor. Single wing? T formation- Notre Dame? We must expect any of these attacks, maybe all of them. It gives you an uncomfortable feeling. And we also must have a great array of plays, having no idea of the All-Stars' defensive setup.

Here's another cruel fact I've learned by experience: If you're going to win the All-Star game you must forget all about the league season coming up! In preparing for the All-Star game of 1937, we coordinated our regular season's plans. We were whipped, 6 to 0. In 1940 we took advantage of this bitter lesson, thought only of those hard fighting young men fresh from the college gridirons and gave them a 45 to 28 beating.

Amazed by All-Star Spirit

That's what we must expect to do again if we are to beat our opponents on the lake front. We realize we'll have to be at our best to win. Their spirit is amazing. I have watched them from the bench

Dot Germain Paces Women in Tam Meet

Dorothy Germain, the personable Philadelphian who has won the last two western amateur titles, yesterday swept thru Tam o' Shanter's back nine with a smashing 35, four under par, to lead the first round of the All-American Women's Open Golf tournament. That incoming nine gave her a full card of 76, even for the 18 hole route.

Playing in the threesome with Miss Germain, who was runner-up for the All-American championship last summer, was Dot Kielty of Los Angeles. This former flyer in the WASPS, fired a neat 39—38—77 for second place going into today's second round of the 72 hole battle.

Bears Down After Bogies

Miss Germain knocked a ball in the water at the long second, took three from the edge of the seventh, drove a trap at No. 8, and three putted the ninth. That was the end of the bogey streak for her. Followed a par and a burst of four birdies. Fifteen footers fell at the 11th and 12th, she was on the 425 yard 13th in two, and holed an eight footer at No. 14. She drove deep into the right rough at the 18th, then smacked a No. 3 iron hole high.

Miss Kielty was in the rough on No. 1, three putted the next and was bunkered at the third. She dropped an eight foot birdie putt at the sixth, and holed nine and 12 footers for pars on the next two. She then reached the 13th in two for a birdie, and holed a six footer for par on the home green.

One Other Breaks Par

Cards for the Misses Germain and Kielty:

Par—Out	453	544	435—37
Miss Germain—Out	463	544	546—41

MISS GREENBERG IS DEFEATED IN TENNIS FINAL

Milwaukee, Wis., July 26 (AP)—Fourth-seeded Alice Kleckhefer of Milwaukee upset the pre-tourney favorite, Vivian Greenberg of Chicago, to win the Western Junior Girls' tennis title today, 6-3, 2-6, 6-1.

In the competition for girls 15 years of age and under, Dorothy Watman of Chicago, seeded No. 1, defeated Nancy Downing of Milwaukee, seeded No. 4, 6-0, 6-2, to win the title.

FEARLESS SOX MEET LEADING TIGERS TODAY

John Humphries Is Mound Nominee

BY IRVING VAUGHAN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

New York, N. Y., July 26—The vacationing White Sox will go back to work tomorrow afternoon in Detroit, the occasion being the opener of a three-game series with the Tigers, who still expect to win a pennant but aren't bearing down noticeably on the problem.

The Sox have six more games on the trip and, unless they fold completely, they have a chance to return home Aug. 3 with a fairly good record. The three games in Detroit may not be easy, what with the Tigers pretty tough hitters on their own grounds, but there certainly is no reason for the Sox to worry about their next stop. That will be in Cleveland, home of the Indians who would be far better off in the league standing if they had been able to protect themselves against the Chicago boys. The latter have clouted the Tribe 10 times in 13 games, this being the most lopsided team vs. team argument in the league.

They'll Take a Boat Ride

The Cleveland series, after an open Monday, during which the Sox will take a boat ride from Detroit, calls for a night game on Tuesday and single afternoon games on Wednesday and Thursday. Friday night, the Sox are scheduled to open under their own lights against the Tigers and this presents a travel problem, there being no sleepers.

The Sox may have to ride a good portion of Friday and play at night, altho better arrangements may be made later. For instance, the Cleveland club could postpone the Thursday game to a later date. It doesn't make much difference when they play it, there won't be many cash customers present.

John Humphries to Pitch

John Humphries will pitch the opener against the Tigers tomorrow, that is unless James Dykes, the vacationing manager who is expected to rejoin the team there, has thought up something different.

Burkhardt, Cards Defeat Pirates, 10-2

St. Louis, Mo., July 26 (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals, collecting 18 hits off three pitchers, tonight trounced the fourth-place Pittsburgh Pirates, 10 to 2, in the opener of a five game series.

The Cards scored four runs in the second, one in the fourth and five in the fifth. Nick Strincevich gave way to Art Cuccurullo who was relieved by Xavier Rescigno as the Pirates tried in vain to stem the Cardinal attack.

BY ARCH WARD

WHILE conceding that Curly Lambeau, coach of the Green Bay Packers, is showing fine journalistic style in his current series in THE TRIBUNE, a member of the Chicago Bears' official family calls attention to a factual error. . . . Larry Craig, in throwing a block which put Lou Brock in the clear for a winning touchdown run against the Bears, did not sweep George Wilson out of his path on the play, the Chicago man asserts. . . . The maneuver was made against Wilson's replacement, Abe Croft, he claims, adding that movies of the game will bear him out. . . . Luke Johnsos, co-coach of the Bears, is playing first base this summer in the Fumble league, a softball circuit in which other gents of Luke's age risk creaky muscles once a week. . . . James R. Fair, versatile operator in the New York bureau of THE TRIBUNE, has just completed a book on the life of Fighter Harry Greb. . . . The title is "Give Him to the Angels" and it will be published early in October by Smith and Durrell. . . . A motion picture studio, which has seen proofs of the forthcoming work, has offered Jim $40,000 for the screen rights if the volume maintains a high position in popularity polls. . . . Fair's work appears frequently in national magazines. . . . Ralph Ventresco, who returned to Penn State from the European war front, accumulated 122 points. . . . Lion Coach Bob Higgins hopes Ralph can do as well in football next fall.

Manager Joe Cronin is being pestered by well meaning fans who insist that Pitcher Dave Ferriss be assigned to the outfield so the club can receive the benefit of his potent bat every day instead of every four or five. . . . There is little likelihood of such a move so long as the big ex-soldier can win 90 per cent of his pitching starts. . . . Age considered, there is not a more proficient outfielder in either major league than the venerable Doc Cramer of the Detroit Tigers. . . . Bernard Docusen, the Filipino fighter, who had such a sensational rise in New Orleans, probably has fought his last bout in that city. . . . Bernard plans to transfer his activities to the more remunerative rings of New York and California. . . . Fred Digby Jr., son of the veteran sports editor of the New Orleans Item, was ordained to the priesthood recently. . . . Charley Beaudry, Marquette university's National A. A. U. decathlon champion, spent nearly two years in a tuberculosis sanitarium and was warned by his physicians never to engage in strenuous exercise.

As any other day;
And then a voice, so long unheard—
A voice, so dear, so gay. . . .

A mother's heart quite suddenly
Unloosed its care and fear,
For no words hold a greater thrill
Than "Hello, Mom, I'm here!"

Long years ago his baby talk
But now today no words compare
With, "Hello, Mom, I'm here!"

The Corner House

With an aspect of thrift and good cheer,
From the hedgerow that bounds the front border
To the alley that runs in the rear.
There are gay window boxes appealing,
Starchy curtains impart a prim air,
There's a fence newly painted, revealing
The pride of the folks dwelling there.

The yard is allotted in spaces,
The lawn has been clipped with due care,
And the flowers that bloom in spare places
Are doing their best to look fair.
I'm reminded in passing each morning,
By the green spread of well tended loam,
Of that quest of the heart, all adorning,
That changes a house to a home.

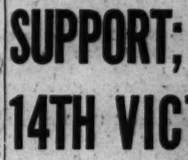
BY EDWARD BURNS

The Cincinnati Reds, who have whipped the Cardinals five times, the Dodgers eight times, the Pirates seven, the Giants four, the Braves seven, and the Phillies on nine occasions, yesterday failed in their ninth attempt to win their first 1945 victory from Charley Grimm's pace setting Cubs. The score was Cubs, 2; Reds, 1, and Hank Wyse went all the way for his 14th victory of the season.



Stanley Hack

Wyse yielded eight hits, half of them on doubles, but with nice support from all hands who had fielding chances, was in full command except in the third when doubles by Ed Heusser, the losing pitcher, and Dick Sipek, gave the Reds their run. The Cubs had accrued their total by that time, so the Cincies never were even or ahead after the first inning.

Nicholson Hits Triple

The Cubs scored in the first inning on a single by Don Johnson and a triple by Bill Nicholson, Bill's second such drive in successive times at bat. Remember, he cleared loaded bases with a triple his last time up Tuesday? Nick tried to score on Phil Cavarretta's bouncer to Woody Williams, but was thrown out at the plate.

The Chicagoans' other run was fabricated in the second inning. Harry Lowrey opened with a single and was safe at second on a fielder's choice after Woody Williams had captured Paul Gillespie's grounder in short right field. Len Merullo bunted and forced Lowrey at third. Wyse struck out, but Stan Hack made the first of a string of three hits, this one a single to center, which scored Gillespie with what proved to be the winning run.

Hack Is Defensive Hero

The best defensive plays in Wyse's support involved Hack, who had eight chances during the contest. Frank McCormick opened the third inning with a double to left and reached third while Wyse was throwing out Mesner. Eddie Miller banged a grounder to Hack, who tagged McCormick a yard off third base, then doubled Miller with a throw to Cavarretta.

In the ninth Woody Williams walked with one down. Al Unser ran the count to three and two, then fouled to Dewey Williams. Gee Walker batted for Heusser and apparently had a double on the way to the left field corner when Hack leaped high in the air and pulled down the shot with his gloved hand, thus ending the Cubs' 54th victorious performance.

This afternoon the Cubs and Reds will play the second game of the five match series—and quite a pitching attraction it should be for the ladies' day assemblage. Claude Passeau will pitch for Grimm's boys and that fine and suffering gentleman, Manager William McKechnie, will ask his ace, Bucky Walters, to do something please, please.

Three Dots, at 2-1, Wins in Myrtlewood

BY MAURICE SHEVLIN

The $17,275 Myrtlewood handicap went to J. H. Rouse's Kentucky bred Three Dots for the second time yesterday at Washington Park as the 5 year old son of Good Advice whipped a dozen other handicap stars in the fast time of 1:10 4-5 for the six furlong sprint.

Three Dots, which set the track record of 1:10 in the 1944 running got up in the last 16th under the guidance of Al Bodiou to beat Ruth Sidell's Burgoo Maid by a half a length. Gertrude Donovan's Fighting Don was third, a length and a quarter back.

The victory was Three Dots' first of the 1945 campaign and netted her Midway, Ky., owner $12,025. Three Dots went postward the 2 to 1 favorite and returned his backers $6.80, $4.80, and $3. Burgoo Maid, held to 16 to 1, paid $12.40 and $6.60. Fighting Don, the second choice, paid $3.40 to show.

Three Dots Has Trouble

Three Dots drew the No. 7 post position and had some difficulty getting away as Fighting Don, first on the rail, and Burgoo Maid, in the No. 2 slot, broke out in front, closely followed by Herbert M. Woolf's Signator, entered with Adulator.

At the quarter Otto Grohs had Fighting Don only half a length in front of Burgoo Maid, Jess Higley up, as Three Dots was struggling along in seventh, bunched with Sirius, John Marsch's Occupy, a 25 to

THREE DOTS, 2-1 FAVORITE, WINS IN MYRTLEWOOD

Durazna Makes Move

As the band rounded the far turn Johnny Adams made his move on Brownell Combs' Durazna and got up to third place behind Fighting Don and Burgoo Maid while Three Dots dropped to eighth a head back of Mrs. Ada L. Rice's Ariel Lad.

Three Dots then pulled out the stops and flashed into fourth behind Fighting Don, Burgoo Maid, and Durazna as they hit the stretch. He proceeded to pick up one after the other until his long strides shot him past Fighting Don as it fell behind Burgoo Maid in front of the grand stand.

Last summer at the Keeneland yearling sales in Lexington, Ky., Max Hirsch, the noted New York trainer, bid $41,000 for a Blue Larkspur yearling colt and several days later turned him back to his breeder on suspicion of wind trouble.

He Wins by Three Lengths

Yesterday in the fourth race the colt, named Revoked, made the first start of his career in the colors of his breeder, Dr. Eslie Asbury, a Cincinnati surgeon. Breaking on the outside, Revoked swiftly surged to the front and won by three lengths.

Nelson Takes Early Lead in All-American

Maestro May is offering daily to any citizen who can lower the course record of 65. Incidentally, Mr. May is tossing out a few other shillings in the operation of his quaint production. For instance, Nelson yesterday was solaced for his failure to break 65 with $250 for his 66, low for the day among civilian swingers.

Gene, Denny, Get Share

Sarazen and Shute cut up another $250 for following Byron. Hogan collected $250 for being head service man, and George Shafer of Dayton, O., forgot about the 80 he shot when he received $100 for being closest to the 18th pin with his second, same landing 8¼ inches from the final cup. Sgt. Jim Ferrier of San Francisco won the driving contest prize of $100 for the longest ball to the first fairway with a wallop extending 260 yards and 1 foot. These same premiums will be on the Tam block daily thruout the tournament.

GROUP IN WLB ASKS EASING OF WAGE CONTROL

Would Permit Many Voluntary Hikes

Washington, D. C., July 26 (AP)—Public members of the war labor board tentatively proposed today to ease the rigid wage controls which have stood during most of the war.

The members, who wield the balance of power between an equal number of labor and industry representatives and thus generally control WLB policy, will have a formal plan ready for Economic Stabilization Director Davis early next week.

A rough outline of the proposal, to permit without board approval pay increases which are agreed upon thru collective bargaining or otherwise by employers and employes, but which do not necessitate price increases, already has gone to Davis. He left on a two weeks Maine vacation with this draft.

Make Up Much of WLB Work

Such pay increases, classed by the board as "form 10" applications of both employers and workers, have been subject to WLB approval, and in the last several months have accounted for a large part of the board's work.

Whether Davis will accept the proposal will be determined within the next few weeks, when he will in turn report to John W. Snyder, director of war mobilization and reconversion.

President Truman will make the final determination on whether the policy should be changed in this or any other way. Executive orders under which the war labor board operates would have to be amended.

Plan First Asked by Vinson

Labor and industry members of the board have been asked by Davis to put their views toward the public members' plan on record by Aug. 15. The board has had the questions under study for several months.

A request by Fred M. Vinson, Snyder's predecessor, just before he became secretary of the treasury, prompted the speeding up of the public members' findings. He called on Davis for a report and Davis in turn prodded the public members for an immediate decision on some stop-gap provision which could be adopted at once. In effect, automatic acceptance of voluntary pay increases would tend to shatter the Little Steel wage formula.

DENIES CANADA WILL RAISE ITS DOLLAR'S VALUE

Ottawa, Ont., July 26 [Special]—Canada will continue control of foreign exchange, J. L. Ilsley, minister of finance, announced today. He denied any plan to restore the Canadian dollar to parity with that of the United States.

"The government sees no evidence that a change in the exchange rate would be appropriate," he said. "We have operated on a cash basis with the United States during the war. We have bought a great deal more from the United States than ordinarily, more than any other country. We have attempted to meet this by sale of war materials and supplies.

"Before the war Canada owed the United States more than any other country. We are now further in debt than we were at the beginning of war. There is no ground for a feeling that Canads has enriched herself in terms of United States dollars during the war."

UNION PACIFIC, AND I. C. EARN MORE IN JUNE

June net income of the Illinois Central Railroad company was $1,518,293, compared with $1,424,034 a year ago, the company reported yesterday. Net income for the first half of this year totaled $10,056,694, against $10,264,597.

The Union Pacific Railroad system reported June net income of $5,846,667 against $3,802,351 a year earlier.

Selling Offers Opportunity to Vet Job Seeker

BY ANTHONY WIRRY

With consumer purchasing power at an all-time high, sales jobs appear to offer particularly attractive post-war opportunities to veterans possessed of the necessary personal and technical qualifications.

These jobs are open to both trained and untrained men. Personal attributes, especially dependability and integrity, are the most important qualifications. If a man has the personal qualifications, he easily can be trained by the company which employs him. Many sales jobs, filled before the war, are now vacant. As war production cut the flow of civilian goods, thousands of salesmen went into other lines and many sales departments became more or less inoperative.

Salary Average Is High

A report on a survey conducted by the Chicago Sales Executives club, whose 273 members employ and direct more than 50,000 salesmen, said that sales positions offer promotion, salary, and security advantages.

Thirty-eight per cent of the 190 companies participating in the poll said their presidents had sales experience. Fifty-four per cent reported they paid their salesmen an average of more than $5,000 a year after the first five years. Forty-five per cent said the average service of their salesmen exceeded 10 years.

The club has taken definite steps to help the veteran who has decided to become a salesman. Every Monday night in the Field building members of the club meet men who have been "screened" by federal, state, or veterans' agencies as having interests or aptitudes pointing toward salesmanship.

Each Is Advised Individually

Each veteran is counseled individually by a sales executive whose experience most nearly parallels the veteran's. The executive first ascertains whether the applicant has the necessary general sales qualifications. If he has, the counseling follows the specific lines in which he is interested.

Altho the club does not hold itself out as an employment agency, it has on file requests from 40 to 50 member companies for various kinds of sales help.

Gamble-Skogmo, Inc., operator of approximately 300 retail stores and supplier of another 1,300 authorized dealer stores in the midwest and west, recently announced sales job openings for 1,500 discharged veterans with occupancy "practically immediate."

Firm Offers Training

"The 1,500 men wanted will first be trained as outside salesmen of refrigerators, radios, ranges, and other home appliances," the company said. "They also will have the opportunity thru training to become store managers, field supervisors, or other executive workers in the organization. They also may qualify as independent merchants, in Gamble authorized dealer stores."

Indiana university announced recently it will offer an intensive four months' training course to prepare war veterans and others to sell the post-war products and services of business and industry. The first course will start with the opening of the fall semester, Sept. 24.

Established in co-operation with business leaders, the course will provide instruction on the principles of marketing, salesmanship, business economics, credits and collections, business speech, accounting, and related subjects.

BYLLESBY HEADS GROUP TO OFFER JACOBS SHARES

F. L. Jacobs company, Detroit automotive parts manufacturer, yesterday said H. M. Byllesby & Co. will head a group to underwrite the 100,000 shares of $50 par 5 per cent convertible preferred stock which stockholders will be asked to approve Aug. 16. Proceeds will be applied to liquidation of its 5 million dollar V loan. Stockholders also will vote on issuance of 250,000 additional common shares to provide for preferred conversion.

Rex C. Jacobs, president, and Clare S. Jacobs, executive vice president, each will sell 20,000 shares of their common holdings to the same banking group for public distribution.

Houdaille-Hershey corporation's recapitalization plan, to be voted on by stockholders Aug. 28, calls for issuance of 6 million dollars of 15 year debentures with interest not to exceed 3¼ per cent. The plan also provides for 190,000 new $50 par cumulative convertible preferred shares, and retirement of the class A stock.

PROFITS, SALES RECORDS MADE BY U. S. RUBBER

Bethlehem Steel's Earnings Climb

United States Rubber company yesterday reported sales and net earnings in the first half of 1945 were the highest on record. General Tire and Rubber company sales in the six months ended May 31 also set a peak, but earnings were little changed.

Net income of United States Rubber was $7,121,720, or $2.57 a share, compared with $5,852,827, or $1.85 a share, in the first six months of last year. Consolidated net sales, exclusive of government business done on a fee basis, amounted to $268,447,879, an increase of 22 per cent over the first half of 1944.

Herbert E. Smith, president, said war production continued to account for the major part of operations. Cutbacks on some kinds of military output such as ammunition had been more than offset by the increased needs of plastics and rubber for the Japanese war.

Sales Increase 32.4 Per Cent

General Tire and Rubber sales in the six months ended May 31 were $44,189,565, an increase of 32.4 per cent over the $33,367,327 a year ago. Net income was $1,211,801, or $1.78 a share, compared with $1,209,559, or $2.02 a share.

The lower per share earnings this year resulted from an increase of common stock in May thru sale of one additional share for each eight outstanding shares.

Bethlehem Steel corporation reported second quarter net profit was $8,041,682, or $2.15 a share, compared with $6,733,843, or $1.71 a share, in the corresponding 1944 period. Net profit in the first half of 1945 was $15,737,591, or $4.18 a share, compared with $13,166,381, or $3.32 a share, in the first six months of last year.

Bethlehem is not interested in buying new western steel mills such as the Geneva works at Provo, Utah, or the plant at Fontana, Cal., said Eugene G. Grace, president, because it generally was cheaper to produce steel in the east end ship it to the west.

Repair Work Is Heavy

Grace said unfilled orders on June 30 stood at 995 million dollars against 1 billion 194 million three months earlier. About 100 million dollars of the decrease was in the completion of ships and 60 million in steel and ordnance. Because of battle damage in the Pacific, company yards are "snowed under with repair work."

He said man power shortages should ease soon, and expected no upsets for Bethlehem from the end of the war with Japan. He hoped cutbacks would be rapid because, "The sooner we get into peace time operations, the better."

Phillips Petroleum company and subsidiaries had net profit of $14,578,405, or $2.96 a share, in the six months ended June 30, compared with $9,004,538, or $1.83 a share, in the corresponding period of 1944.

The company said nonrecurring net profit of $3,750,000, or 76 cents a share, resulted in the first half of this year from the sale of all its holdings of Panhandle Eastern Pipe Line company stock and 2,046 old type motor fuel tank cars.

WEIRTON PLEADS NO CONTEST IN PRIORITIES CASE

Wheeling, W. Va., July 26 (AP)—The Weirton Steel company pleaded no contest in federal District court today to charges of violating priorities regulations by diverting air conditioning equipment for a hospital to a company owned country club. The company was indicted by a grand jury at Elkins on June 12.

Sentencing was postponed until Oct. 16 to allow the company and the government to file briefs giving details of the case. Judge William E. Baker instructed prosecution and defense counsel to give a "full and complete statement of the facts" to aid in determining the penalty.

11 State Trade Groups Assail Job Measure

Maximum employment can be maintained only thru maximum private production, the advisory board of the Midwest Manufacturers' Associations, Inc., asserted yesterday. It termed the pending congressional full employment bill an "impractical government scheme." The group, which embraces 11 state-wide industrial associations, met in the Palmer House.

If enacted into law the bill would retard production and in actual operation would decrease employment, it said. The measure contemplates highly academic, impractical, and costly devices for control of the nation's economy.

Urges Taxes to Aid Industry

The group urged adoption of policies by various government bodies that would create a favorable economic climate for private enterprise. Among such measures, it said, should be:

1. Adoption of taxation policies to provide reserves for post-war conversion, add production incentives, and encourage investment of private funds.
2. Reduction in governmental expenditures for normal purposes.
3. Adoption of a sound labor legislative program to free workers and management "from shackles of bureocratic control."
4. Reduction in number and simplification of reports required from industry.

Early Removal of Curbs

5. Removal of war time controls over industry "as soon as feasible on an economic and nonpolitical basis."
6. Reduction of number of governmental bureaus and payrollers.
7. Avoidance of new, unwise, and unnecessary legislative enactments on industry and business.
8. Conformity to the principle of state and community control in governmental affairs, except in relation to powers specifically delegated to the federal government in the Constitution.

ICC GIVES RAILS MORE TIME TO ADJUST RATES

Washington, D. C., July 26 (AP)—The interstate commerce commission today granted railroads an additional three months, to Nov. 30, in which to make effective temporary freight rate adjustments ordered in ICC's May 15 freight rate decision. The carriers had asked an extension from Aug. 30 to April 1, 1946.

The order for temporary adjustments stipulated that all present class rates in and between southern, western trunk line and southwestern territories, and between these territories on the one hand and official [eastern] territory on the other, be reduced 10 per cent. Present class rates within official territory were ordered increased 10 per cent.

GRAIN FUTURES MOSTLY LOWER, CORN IS STEADY

Reports that the government had abandoned its proposed feed wheat plan and announcement of an office of price administration ceiling price on 1946 rye turned grain prices downward yesterday on the Chicago Board of Trade.

Closing trades were near the bottom with wheat showing losses of ⅝ to ⅞ cent a bushel. Rye was down ⅞ to 1¼, oats ⅞ to 1¼, and barley ⅝. Corn was unchanged.

A big trade developed in wheat futures early. Brokers estimated cash interests bought or sold more than 2½ million bushels in a range of ¼ cent. Part of the business was reported as removing hedges against flour business and sales of hard winter wheat to Mexico.

Eversharp, Inc., Votes 10 Cent Extra Dividend

Directors of Eversharp, Inc., yesterday declared an extra dividend of 10 cents a share with the quarterly disbursement of 30 cents. The last extra before this was 15 cents paid April 15, 1944.

PRESIDENTIAL ORDER PERMITS COMPLETION OF ILLINOIS PIPE LINE

Springfield, Ill., July 26 (AP)—Backed by a Presidential proclamation signed in Germany last week and a federal court order issued here today, the Texas-Empire Pipe Line company will begin contested construction tomorrow of an oil pipe line thru three central Illinois counties.

The declaration of taking order was signed today by Federal Judge Charles G. Briggle, enabling the company to continue work on a line from Cushing, Okla., to East Chicago, Ind. A few hours later notice was served on land owners and tenants. The easments are 50 feet wide in a 17 mile strip crossing Logan, De Witt, and McLean counties.

The company had negotiated purchase of other tracts needed to complete the pipe line, but 19 owners and about 50 tenants in the three counties had blocked current construction between Sheldon, Mo., and Heyworth, Ill.

The federal law permits the President to grant eminent domain powers to private companies to obtain easments for pipe line construction necessary for national defense.

ARMY AIRPLANE INSPECTION LAX, SENATE IS TOLD

Washington, D. C., July 26 (AP)—The army's inspection procedure at Curtiss-Wright airplane plants in Buffalo, N. Y., was labeled "inadequate" today by the senate war investigating committee.

"Existing inspection and engineering deficiencies are being poorly handled," the committee said in a report. "Army air force inspectors who are known to be inefficient are retained in their positions."

Chairman Mitchell [D., Wash.] of a subcommittee which held hearings in Buffalo told the senate both the company and war department had promised immediate correction of "deficiencies."

The committee said the C-46, two engine cargo plane made by Curtiss-Wright, has "a comparatively unsatisfactory service record."

Expressing amazement, the committee said it found that the war department kept no records of airplane accidents occurring outside the continental United States. For that reason, statistics are incomplete and inconclusive.

WPB LIFTS CURB ON OUTPUT, SALE OF RADIO PARTS

Washington, D. C., July 26 (AP)—All restrictions on the production and sale of parts needed for the manufacture and repair of electronic equipment, including radio sets, were removed today.

The WPB cautioned, however, that the action would not mean large numbers of new radio sets in the near future. Manufacturers still must obtain WPB permission and then acquire materials and parts before they can assemble sets and release them to retailers.

PREDICT FIRST DECLINE IN WAR RAISED INCOME

Output Down After 6 Year Upsurge

Washington, D. C., July 26 (AP)—The department of commerce expects the United States' steady six year rise in production and income to go into reverse in the second half of 1945. The year's totals, however, will be about the same as in 1944, an official forecast by the department said today.

A new record of 101 billion dollars for consumer spending was predicted for 1945, compared with 97 billion 600 million last year.

"Gross national product," or the total value of all goods and services produced, was forecast at 199 billions, compared with last year's record of 198 billion 700 million.

Dip in National Income

"Income payments to individuals" were put at 158 billions, which would be a new high. Last year they were 156 billion 800 million. "National income" includes the undistributed earnings of corporations. "Income payments to individuals" do not, but do include certain payments not shown in "national income"—for example, relief and social security payments, veterans' benefits, and payments to dependents of service men.

"National income" does not include that type of payment because it is only income earned thru participation in production of goods and services.

Decline Less Than 10 Per Cent

The predictions were made by two commerce department experts, Louis J. Paradiso and Lawrence Bridge, in the July issue of the department's Survey of Current Business.

They predicted national income and gross national product will decline in the second half of 1945 by less than 10 per cent from the peak levels attained in the first six months.

Their report said:

"How far the decline will carry won't be answered this year and probably not even in 1946. The extent of the decline, and its speed, will be determined by the speed of reconversion.

"This is the major problem confronting both business and government, since more goods for civilians is the only answer to the reemployment problem."

COAL EXECUTIVE SAYS OUTPUT DIP IS NO HARDSHIP

Production of coal at the 11 Truax-Traer Coal company mines could decline 20 per cent below last year's tonnage without seriously affecting net earnings, Arthur H. Truax, president, told stockholders at the annual meeting in Chicago yesterday.

His statement was in response to a stockholder's question on how profits would be affected by declining production after the war. Truax said as output dropped, unit profit per ton would increase because of the large overtime wage payments now necessary to meet production quotas.

Coal demand, however, has dropped little in recent months despite cutbacks in industrial war contracts, he said. The export quota which the company is required to fill probably will more than offset any immediate decline in industrial demand.

PEOPLE AND EVENTS

J. A. Hart, west side Dodge auto dealer, has been elected president of the newly reformed Dodge Dealers' association, K. A. Ridenour, Chicago Dodge regional manager, announced yesterday. Others elected were A. Dampman, vice president; M. Kroll, secretary; William Rieger, treasurer, and George Woods, R. Rydell, J. Laz, C. Murphy, George Fiedler, J. Spevacek, and H. Farrington, new directors.

Year's Biggest Break Sweeps Lamb Market

The largest price break in more than a year swept the market for lambs at the Chicago stock yards yesterday, cutting farm returns to the lowest level since early in January. All classes sold 50 to 75 cents a hundred pounds below Wednesday, on reoprts that the 95 cent packer be withdrawn. The reports were confirmed later by the Reconstruction Finance corporation. Prices were $1.75 to $2 under the 1945 peak established in April.

Members of the trade expressed concern over the new price slump in view of rapidly declining production and lack of interest in replacement of reduced flocks. Buying of feeding and breeding sheep and lambs has dropped lowest in many years, department of agriculture surveys show.

Top Lambs Bring $15.50

Farmers were paid $15.50 for top grade native new crop lambs, 75 cents below Wednesday's high sale and 90 cents less than the top earlier this week. At the peak of the spring market farmers received $17.35, a 16 year high. Best old mutton ewes sold at $8.

Packers under federal inspection at the 32 points that handle most of the country's inspected meat slaughtered a total of 1,021,205 sheep and lambs in the first three weeks of this month, 11 per cent below the corresponding period last month and 9 per cent fewer than a year ago. This week's four day total at the 20 biggest stock yards was 181,000 head, against 198,000 last week and 230,000 a year ago.

Steers Generally Strong

Cattle receipts were about average for a Thursday, at 4,000 head. Demand was broad for steers at strong to 25 cent higher prices. The best, available sold at $17.90, with most steers $15.50 to $17.50. Steady prices were paid for most heifers, beef cows, canners, cutters, calves and bulls. A few more southwestern grass fed cattle were in the run. They sold from $11.50 to $13.50.

BUSINESS TAKES CALM VIEW OF LABOR VICTORY

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune]

LONDON, July 26—Britain's business men reacted calmly to Labor's election sweep today. Coal and power interests were affected because the victorious party is committed to nationalization in both fields. Other industries, including cotton, iron, and steel, and manufacturing, generally saw little immediate change in prospect.

"The leaders of the Labor party are all men with cabinet experience, accustomed to the responsibilities of government," a leading industrialist said. "There is little danger of ill considered radical policies sweeping the country.

"Members of my organization feel it is improbable that the party will vote to take over any of the enterprises mentioned exeept fuel and power. They are so deeply committed on the coal and electric power industries that it is impossible to see how they can avoid nationalizing them."

COURT PERMITS CARRIER TO PAY BIG BOND TOTAL

St. Louis, Mo., July 26 (AP)—Permission to pay $42,261,067 in principal and interest on bonds of the bankrupt Missouri Pacific railroad and subsidiaries was granted today by Federal Judge George H. Moore, who overruled objections by Andrew W. Comstock, Evanston, Ill., representing a group of bondholders.

Guy A. Thompson, trustee in bankruptcy for the Missouri Pacific, defended his administration of the railroad and two subsidiaries under questioning by William H. Biggs, Comstock's counsel. Thompson said his policy was to pay current and back interest before attempting to retire funded debt.

General Motors Completes 1945 Home Refrigerator

The first household refrigerator made by the General Motors corporation Frigidaire division since April 30, 1942, was completed yesterday. General Motors has been authorized to produce more than 50,000 refrigerators in the third quarter of this year.

Turnover Largest Since July 18

New York, July 26 (AP)—Bearish interpretations placed on the sharp British swing to the left to defeat the Churchill government sent the stock market tumbling today. Many losses ran from 1 to more than 3 points in the broad drop. Only 90 issues advanced while 723 declined and 104 closed unchanged.

The retreat was fairly active the orderly at the start. Dealings then slowed, but liquidation increased again after noon in the heaviest volume of the day. Some issues recovered a little at the close, but the majority of leaders finished at or near the bottom. Transfers of 1,440,000 shares were the largest since July 18.

In addition to the news from London, factors leading to caution included a desire to await Pacific war developments and resumption of the Potsdam conference under a different English political leadership.

Graham-Paige Soars 1⅛

The Associated Press 60 stock average dropped 1.3 to 63.6, back to its low of mid-April.

An isolated strong spot was Graham-Paige, which rose 1⅛ to a 1945 peak of 9 in the wake of the company's tie-up with Henry J. Kaiser in an automotive manufacturing organization. The stock opened up ⅝ on a 40,000 share block.

United States Steel and Bethlehem lost 1¾ each. After the close Bethlehem voted the usual common dividend and reported larger profits in the second quarter. Other prominent losers included Santa Fe, New York Central, Southern Railway, Northern Pacific, Chrysler, United States Rubber, American Telephone, International Telephone, Sears Roebuck, Douglas Aircraft, Anaconda, Standard Oil [New Jersey], du Pont, and Johns-Manville.

BOND MARKET DROPS

New York, July 26 (AP)—The bond market dropped today, with many declines of major fractions to about 2 points, on surprise in financial quarters generally over the British election results.

Rails led the orderly retreat. Some higher priced industrials and utilities resisted the trend. United States government loans weakened. Foreign bonds were mixed. Transactions of $5,880,000, compared with $5,170,000 yesterday.

CHICAGO LIST DECLINES

Prices declined and turnover increased to 34,000 shares yesterday on the Chicago Stock exchange. More actively traded issues included Utah Radio and Wisconsin Bankshares, each down ⅝, Chicago corporation common, down ⅛, and Admiral corporation and Electric Household Utilities, both unchanged.
